FLOOD MAIL REACHES THE CLIPPER.

Owing to the flood a large batch of mail addressed to members of theatrical companies at Dayton, O., could not be delivered. As every postmaster and hotel proprietor in this country knows about The Clipper Post Office, it was not surprising that all this mail was forwarded to this establishment, to be forwarded or advertised in The Clipper Letter List, an institution entirely original with The New York Clipper, and widely copied. Mail for the "Human Hearts" Co., the "Betsy Bobbins" Co., "Wine, Woman and Song" Co. and "Uncle Sam's Belles" Co., as well as for vaudeville actors. Some of the letters are advertised this week.

ABORNS' SPRING COMPANIES.

The eleventh annual Spring season of grand opera in English, under the managing direction of Milton and Sargent Aborn, began Monday night, April 7, when the first of the Aborn companies to end its tour inaugurated a season of three weeks in Newark, N. J. Two other Aborn companies began their Spring seasons simultaneously Monday night, 14, at the Tremont Theatre, in Boston, and the Brooklyn Academy of Music, respectively. Other companies will open later at Ford's Opera House, in Baltimore, Md.; the new National, in Washington, D. C.; the Alvin, in Pittsburgh, Pa., and the Opera House in Providence, R. I. Altogether there will be six different Aborn organizations running at one time in as many different cities, all exchanging principal artists and productions with each other from week to week.

The leading artists only will travel from one city to another over the circuit, while the chorus, orchestra, and artistic staff of each company will remain located in their respective cities all season. Among the artists who will travel are: Sopranos, Dianetta Alvina, Gladys Chandler, Phoebe Crosby, Florence Coughlan, Edith Helena, Alia Hemmi, Frances Hess, Miriam Norris, Enrichetta Onelli, Ivy Scott, Mabel Slemann, Isabelle Thorpe, Bertha Shalek, Jany Abercrombie, Elena Kimes and Harriet Kuttner; Tenors: Albert Amadi, Eugene Patten, Harry Davies, Domenico Russo, Leonid Samoiloff, Salvatore Sciarretti, Henry Taylor and Pietro Venerandi; Contraltos: Marie Louise Biggers, Elaine De Sellem, Jayne Herbert, Margaret Jarman, Hattie Belle Ladd, Elsie Price, Lila Robeson, Louise Le Baron and Mildred Rogers; Baritone: Morton Adkins, Louis D'Angelo, Louis Daniel, Thomas Hardie, Lewis James, Harry Luckstone, Jas. Stevens and Wilmet Goodwin; Basses: Joseph Parsons, Detmar Poplin, William Schuster, Geo. Shields, Francis J. Tyler, S. Paul Veron and Herbert Waterhouse; Buffos: Bernard Cantor, Philip Fein, Arthur Green and Benedict Reuben; Conductors: Max Fiechandler, Carlo Nicotia, Arturo Papalardo, Cesar Soderio, Giuseppe Angelini and Almerico Vinaccia.

LULU BEESON.

Lulu Beeson, featuring Harry Von Tilzer's latest songs to many encores.

BOYLE'S NEW RUTLAND VENTURE.

One of the largest real estate deals ever consummated in Rutland, Vt., was closed last week, and included the site for the new $75,000 theatre for Thos. A. Boyle, the well known and popular manager of the Rutland Opera House and Fember Theatre, in Granville, N. Y. Plans have already been accepted for this new amusement palace. This house will have a seating capacity of 1,400, and will be located on Center Street, the main thoroughfare in that city and in the heart of the business section. Ground will be broken this week, and Mr. Boyle intends to open the house early in August with one of the largest musical organizations now playing in New York City. Rutland has long needed a modern playhouse, and Manager Boyle says that this will be one of the finest theatres to be found anywhere. The stage will be large enough to accommodate any production, and the policy of the house will be the best attractions that can be procured. The name of the house will be decided upon in the near future.

HOPKINS TO PRODUCE "EVANGELINE."

By arrangement with the heirs of Henry W. Longfellow and Houghton, Mifflin Company, publishers of Longfellow's "Evangeline," Arthur Hopkins announces that he will produce this season, in New York, a stage version of that celebrated poem. The dramatization made by Thomas W. Broadhurst, has been approved by the Longfellow family, after having been submitted to the members of the Harvard Faculty. The play will be interpreted by a cast of seventy-five people, headed by Edna Goodrich in the title part. The scenes will portray four stages of Evangeline's life in Acadia, and seven stages of her wanderings. Incidental music, both orchestral and choral, has been composed by William Furst.

MRS. J. HERBERT MACK.

May Gebhardt Mack, wife of J. Herbert Mack, president of the Columbia Amusement Company, died April 7 at the Audubon Sanitarium, New York. An operation for tumor was performed April 3, and her condition was considered serious until April 6, when she rallied and the prospects seemed good for her recovery. On Monday night a sudden relapse caused sinking spells and, despite all efforts to save her, she passed away.

Mrs. Mack, as one of the Gebhardt Sisters, with her sister, Kittle, who survives her, went on the stage about twenty-two years ago, and appeared with baroque companies. While with the Rice & Barton Shows she met and married J. Herbert Mack, and up to four years ago appeared in Mr. Mack's companies, including the World Beaters, in principal roles.

Mrs. Mack was a model wife and helpmate to Mr. Mack, in the early struggles of the couple at all times encouraging her husband in his professional and private enterprises. She was beloved by all who knew her for her sunny, cheerful disposition, and many of their friends, including the writer, remember with pleasure the hospitality shown them, first at their cozy little cottage in Greenlawn, later in their more commodious house nearby, and then in their Harlem apartment in New York, and her loss is felt keenly by the many sympathizers with Mr. Mack and the sister and niece, who paid their respects at the home or attended the impressive ceremonies at the "Little Church Around the Corner" on Thursday morning, April 10. The church was crowded, and the full Episcopal service, with choir and organ solos, was given by the Rev. Dr. Houghton, and scarcely an eye remained dry. The choir sang "Lead Kindly Light," "I Hear a Voice from Heaven," "Nearer My God to Thee" and "Abide with Me." The body was interred at Woodlawn Cemetery the same day, in the presence of the family and many friends.

Among those who were at the house and the church were: Sam A. Scribner, Charles Springer, Maurice Jacobs, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Lowry, Harry Hastings, Mr. and Mrs. Al. Reeves, Wm. H. Thompson, Peter Rice, Tom Granger, J. Bernard Dyllan, Harry Semon, Joe Hurlig, Lou Hurlig, John G. Jermon, Harry C. Bryant, Louis Robie, Phil and Chrisie Sheridan, Walter Willis, Stella Willis, Clark G. Ball, Peter S. Clark, Fred McCloy, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Waldmann, Sam Harris, Peter Cary, Charles B. Arnold, Charles H. Barton, Charles K. Barton, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Waldron, Chief Kenyon, Dolph Jensen, Jesse Laskey, Smith O'Brien, A. Phillips, Harry Stevens, Gus Hill, Maurice Jacobs, Bob Richmond, Mr. Brinkerhoff, the attaches of the Columbia and Murray Hill Theatres, Dan Dody, J. Finn, John F. Dwyer, Alice Leslie, Anna Hill, Fannie Thatcher, F. L. Johnson, Patrick Shea, Mortimer Shea, Daisy Howard, Viola Hastings, Mrs. J. G. Jermon, Mr. and Mrs. John Moynahan.

A tremendous collection of floral pieces arrived at the house, completely filling all the spare room, and it was remarked that the flowers represented a friend, Hyde & Behman sent a huge cross. The boys from the Columbia sent a handsome floral casket blanket of lilies and violets, and the other elaborate offerings bore the cards of friends in and out of the profession. Several hundred telegrams and letters of condolence were received from friends unable to call personally.

NEW THEATRE TO SEAT 4,000.

Marcus Loew, as president of People's Vaudeville Company, will build a four story theatre, with stores, at the Northwest corner of Seventh Avenue and One Hundred and Twenty-third Street, New York. It will be fireproof, with fronts of brick and terra cotta. The orchestra will seat 1,367, the balcony 1,230. A roof garden will have a capacity of 1,492 in orchestra, and 820 in balcony. Thomas W. Lamb, architect, filed plans for $600,000.

WILLIAMSON RETURNS.

After fifteen years of retirement J. C. Williamson, Australia's leading theatrical producer, has returned to the stage. He appeared at Her Majesty's Theatre in Sydney, at a special performance given in behalf of the Scott Testimonial Fund. He acted the part of Kerry, in Boucicault's one act play of that name. Mr. Williamson sailed from Sydney April 5, on board the Ventura, and will arrive in San Francisco, Cal., 23.

RUTH THOMSON DIVORCED.

Justice Morschauer, in the Westchester Supreme Court at White Plains, April 10, signed an interlocutory decree of divorce in favor of Mrs. Ruth B. Thomson, an actress of this city, who formerly appeared in "The Squaw Man," from Frederick A. Thomson, a stage director of the Vitaphone Motion Picture Company. Mrs. Thomson was awarded alimony of $15 a week.

"HAMLET" WITH FAVERSHAM.

William Faversham announced on April 9, in Milwaukee, Wis., that he had completed arrangements for the presentation of "Hamlet," next season, in conjunction with "Julius Caesar," in which he is now playing, with Cecilia Loftus as Ophelia. He is arranging to have Miss Loftus released from her vaudeville contract, "Romeo and Juliet" and "Othello" may also be added to the repertoire.

ACTOR AND MANAGER STABBED.

Thomas Gale, an actor, of 1142 West Washington Boulevard, Chicago, was seriously stabbed, and Fred Wemur, manager of the National Theatre on South State Street, was wounded, April 9, by Jesse Laido, a property boy, who had been discharged the day previous by Manager Wemur. The boy believed the actor at fault for his dismissal, and attacked him with a knife when he was coming from the theatre, and when Wemur interfered he also was slashed. Gale was taken to the Emergency Hospital, treated and removed to his rooms. Wemur's injuries were slight.

LYCEUM, WICHITA, BURNED.

The Lyceum Theatre, in Wichita, Kan., which was burned on the morning of April 1, is a complete wreck. The walls that were left standing have been partially torn down, and the ground is being cleared. Nothing definite has been decided upon as yet in regard to a new building being erected. The Wolfe Stock Co. lost all of their scenery, and the members lost practically all of their wardrobe. The orchestra lost a large part of their music and some instruments.

NICOLAI GETS "ROUND-UP."

One of the productions to appear in the better class of Stair & Havlin theatres next season will be "The Round-Up," which proved a big money getter for Klaw & Erlanger. George Nicolai, on behalf of his firm, has arranged with K. E. and Joseph Brooks a tour of this big melodrama over the Stair & Havlin Circuit in the Fall.

DRAMA LEAGUE ORGANIZES.

The New York Centre of the Drama League of America was organized April 11, at the Lyceum, New York. It expects to encourage amateurs, stimulating the printing of plays in book form, to cradle the future playwrights and send its members bulletins of good plays.

LOEW AND NIXON.

Application was made last week for a charter for the Loew-Nixon-Nirdlinger Company, combining Marcus Loew and Samuel F. Nixon. The names signed to the application are: Fred G. Nixon-Nirdlinger, son of Samuel F. Nixon; Thomas M. Love, manager of the Nixon theatres in Philadelphia, and Thomas M. Dougherty. Marcus Loew and Samuel F. Nixon own the majority of the stock.

Nixon & Zimmerman's Chestnut Street Opera House, will play small time vaudeville, beginning April 21, in opposition to Keith's Theatre. Samuel F. Nixon is to build a new vaudeville theatre in Atlantic City and another in Baltimore, both to be booked by Loew attractions.

An offer was recently made J. Fred Zimmerman for all his small time vaudeville houses, supposed to be in Keith interests, to compete with Loew and Nixon.

VIEWING THE LOEW SITUATION IN PHILLY.

There are all sorts of rumors in circulation in Philadelphia since the advent of Marcus Loew in the vaudeville field. The talk is that the Chestnut Street Opera House will cease its present policy and change to high grade vaudeville. The same is said of Schubert's Adelphi.

There is also talk concerning the future of the Walnut Theatre, which, it is said, will also change its policy next year. The removal of three of the high priced houses from the centre of the city will leave but four remaining—the Forrest, Garrick, Broad and Lyric.

GARDEN TO RE-OPEN.

An announcement, made April 10, confirmed the rumors that the Garden Theatre is to re-open, and that Frederick Townsend Martin would return to New York in time to be present. The play chosen to open this house is "The Passing of the Idle Rich," based on Mr. Martin's book, by Mrs. Margaret Townsend Tagliapietra.

The event will take place on April 28. In the company will be: Beverly Sitgreaves, Marie Burke, Beatrice Prentice, Victoria Montgomery and Escamillo Fernandez.

THE BERKSHIRE READY.

About the middle of May the directors of the Citizens' Line and the People's Line will launch the Berkshire, not only the largest river steamer in the world, but also the most luxurious. Like the other boats controlled by these companies, the C. W. Morse, the Adirondack, the Trojan and the Rennselaer, it will ply between New York, Troy and Albany.

AL. JOLSON.

Al. Jolson, the Winter Garden favorite, who is meeting with remarkable success with "I Love Her, Oh, Oh, Oh."

WARFIELD'S REAL ESTATE.

A paper filed in the County Clerk's office last week by David Warfield shows that he is likely to lose most of $12,000 he had invested in two mortgages. They are $7,000 each on the premises at 25 and 27 West One Hundred and Eleventh Street. They are second mortgages, and $1,000 has been paid on each. The first mortgage is for $50,000, and is held by the Henry McCaddin Jr. Fund which has brought suit against Louis Hoffman and others to foreclose. An affidavit in the suit made by a real estate expert states that the property won't bring more than $55,000 when sold.

Warfield filed a claim to all the surplus money remaining after the first mortgage and the expenses of the suit have been paid.

KIRALFY ARRIVE.

Charles and Albert Kiralfy arrived from Europe together, and Imre Kiralfy came later, on the Mauritania, accompanied by a deputation to interest leading American citizens in the Centennial of the Peace Celebration between Great Britain and the United States, which will open at White City, London, in May, 1914.

SILL SUCCEEDS PAGE.

William Raymond Sill has succeeded Will A. Page as press representative of the Palace Theatre, New York. Mr. Page goes to the Chestnut Street Theatre, Philadelphia, as manager of that house.

SMITH'S NEW ACT A HIT.

Charles H. Smith, gave his new sketch, "When Women Rule," a try-out in Hoboken, N. J., April 11, with an all star cast. The act met with instantaneous success and was immediately booked over the Loew time.

OUT OF TOWN NEWS

PHILADELPHIA.

Considering the lateness of the season there are an unusual number of new openings in this city for this week. Nora Bayes, in "The Sun Dodgers," is at the Lyric; George Evans' "Honey Boy" Minstrels, at the Chestnut Street Opera House; John Mason, in "The Attack," at the Broad; and Willis P. Sweetnam, in "Excuse Me," at the Walnut.

LYRIC (Messrs. Shubert, mgrs.)—Nora Bayes, George W. Monroe and Harry Fisher, in "The Sun Dodgers," began a two weeks' stay here 14. Lew Fields, Joe Weber and their company, in "Tid-Bits," received an uproarious welcome from crowded houses here last week. The fun was of the rapid fire quality, and everybody got their full money's worth in addition to Weber and Fields, Beasie Clayton, May Boley, Frank Daniels and Flavia Arcaro scored individual triumphs.

ADRIEL (Messrs. Shubert, mgrs.)—"The Bird of Paradise" continues to popular favor. Rennie Harriscake's acting is superb. The fourth and final week began 14.

BROAD (Nixon & Zimmerman, mgrs.)—John Mason made his first local appearance 14, in "The Attack." George Arliss, in "Disraeli," departed 12, after a six weeks' stay of the biggest local dramatic success of the season, both artistically and financially.

CHESTNUT (Nixon & Zimmerman, mgrs.)—The regular season ended 12, with a successful two weeks' stay of Margaret Illington, in "Kindling." Starting 14, "Buffalo Jones" moving pictures.

WALNUT (Henry B. Harris, mgr.)—This house re-opened 14, with Willis P. Sweetnam, in "Excuse Me."

CHESTNUT STREET OPERA HOUSE (Nixon & Zimmerman, mgrs.)—George Evans' "Honey Boy" Minstrels 14 and week. Lewis Waller and Madge Titherage, in "A Marriage of Convenience," had a successful fortnight's ending 12.

FORBES (Nixon & Zimmerman, mgrs.)—Christie MacDonald, in "Sweetheart," is winning increased popularity nightly from splendid houses. In addition to the star, Tom McNaughton and Ideal Walsh are receiving their share of the applause. The third week began 14.

LITTLE THEATRE (Beulah E. Jay, mgr.)—"The Importance of Being Earnest" is the attraction here week of 14. "Hannulee" was interestingly acted last week, to fair sized houses. "Sister Beatrice" next.

CHESTNUT (Frank Williams, mgr.)—The Orpheum stock is presenting "The Talker" this week. "The New Sin" received its first local presentation, and scored a success week of 7. William Ingersoll, in the leading part of Hilary Cutts, was convincing, and Percer Winter did admirable work as his brother, Maximilian, while the two other important roles were capably portrayed by Wilmer Walter and Albert Sackett. "The Man in the Case" week of 21.

NATIONAL (Jos. M. Kelly, mgr.)—The stock company presents "Why Women Sin" for 14 and week. "Lonesome Trail," of which Paul Burns is the author, was received with favor last week. Victoria Sutherland, Marcus Hoofs, Paula Burns and Mr. Burns did splendid work.

AMERICAN (James Wall, mgr.)—The stock, in "Ninety and Nine," 14 and week. "Old Heidelberg" was thoroughly enjoyed by big houses last week. Grace Huff and John Lorenz, in the leads, gave skillful impersonations.

GRAND (Stair & Havlin, mgrs.)—"Mutt and Jeff" 14 and week. "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford" had its first uptown view last week, and scored a pronounced success. Daniel Hall, in the title role, gave admirable performance, and Maud Bancroft, as Fannie Jasper, was entirely satisfactory.

GAYETY (John P. Eckhardt, mgr.)—The American Beauties 14 and week. The Wilmington Thedens proved a decidedly gingery attraction, to big business, last week. Sam Micala and Alta Phipps were the merry headliners. Harry Rogers, Daisy Davenport, Julia May and Harry Lamont were also continually on the job, and their fun contributions were pleasingly accepted. The Ginger Girls next.

THROADERS (Sam Dawson, mgr.)—Dante's Daughters week of 14. The Big Review is a new act show here, and last week "Hickey in a Hat" scored the usual big success, with George Heath and Harry Le Van at the head of the company of entertainers.

CONCO (Elias & Koenig, mgrs.)—The Gayety company 14 and week. The Star and Garter Show 14 and week with a big success last week, to fine houses. Conway and Lee Barth were "live wires," while Dolly Bowen, the Healy Sisters, Ray Montgomery and Marion Blake held down prominent parts nicely.

B. F. KATH'S (H. T. Jordan, mgr.)—George Beban and company, in the playlet, "The Sign of the Rose," is the feature attraction week of 14, in addition to Albertina Rasch and her company of dancers. Elsa Ruegger, Eva Taylor and company, Grace Wilson, Rayno's bull dogs, Chris. Richards, Hunting and Francis, the Three Arthurs, and the moving pictures.

THE Siddons-Earle Trio, having played twelve weeks on the Sun time, are now finishing five weeks around Chicago for the United Booking, and then open on the Bert Marshall Circuit for four weeks.

MOTION PICTURE NEWS

SELIG NEWS.

Hoyt Comedies in Pictures.

The Selig Polyscope Co. have secured the rights to producing, in picture form, the Hoyt comedies, and "A Midnight Bell" is soon to be released. The enterprise of W. N. Selig, president of the Selig Polyscope Company, in pictorially revising and revitalizing the world famous farce comedies of the late Charles H. Hoyt, is a matter of no slight artistic interest. It was only a few short years ago that Hoyt's farcical compositions were viewed as absolute stage novelties. They have such clever human interest and vital characterization that the lesser faults of dramatic construction were forgotten or forgiven. Among the better known and most popular Hoyt comedies that the Selig Company will put out are: "A Bunch of Keys," "A Rag Baby," "A Texas Steer," "A Milk White Flag," "A Runaway Colt," "A Temperance Town," "A Trip to Chinatown," "A Tin Soldier," "A Contented Woman," "A Black Sheep," "A Day and a Night," "A Dog in the Manger," "A Brass Monkey" and "A Midnight Bell," and they intend to give each Hoyt production a specific individuality.

The first of this series to be released will be "A Midnight Bell." The Selig Company have spared no expense to make this initial production both elaborate and true-to-life. Its many distinct characters are delightfully portrayed by a carefully selected company of players, the settings have been obtained in one of the quaint old-fashioned rural districts of Northern Wisconsin, at a time when the village was covered with a mantle of snow. The production is in two reels and will be released early in May.

Selig Utilizes Real Life Incident.

Los Angeles, Cal., was treated to an incident as unique as it was heroic. "Edith's Burglar" was never played with greater ardor than that displayed by a masked raider who dropped his role of criminal, saved the life of baby Joseph Edward Morris, earned the everlasting gratitude of the child's mother, and departed after slinging the restored child to sleep. The Morris baby has been taken with a bad attack of the croup at one o'clock one morning recently, and the frantic mother attempted to "phone a doctor but found that the wires had been cut. She started for the doctor herself, but as she flung open the door a masked man confronted her with leveled revolver. She didn't forget her dying child, and without stopping to analyze the man's presence, she gasped out "my baby is dying. I am going for a doctor. Do you know anything about croup?" "Ought to," replied the burglar, "got five of my own, and I used to be a doctor." A moment later he had snatched the child from death and soon had soothed him to sleep, stepped out into the night and was gone. This unique theme has been adroitly adapted in a strong picture by the Polyscope Company, entitled "The Burglar Who Robbed Death," and will be released April 30.

Hettie Gray's Visit.

Hettie Gray Baker, of Hartford, Conn., author of many popular and artistic Selig photodramas, stopped off in Chicago last week on her way to California, and was a much interested visitor at the Selig studios, where she witnessed the production of an elaborate picture by Oscar Eagle, the scenario for which Miss Baker wrote.

GEORGE PETERS, one of the Selig Polyscope Company's star camera men, has been transferred from the Chicago studios to the producing branch at Prescott, Ariz. Peters has been the recipient of a great deal of praise recently because of his excellent work in securing the pictures of the Dayton flood for Selig.

MARGARET LOVERIDGE, who has appeared in a number of Selig pictures during the past year, has joined the Pacific Coast studios stock, and will appear exclusively in the diamond S brand of pictures hereafter. Miss Loveridge is said to be one of the most beautiful women appearing in pictures. During the illness of the late Vedah Bertram, Miss Loveridge was loaned to the Essanay Company by the Biograph Company. She was recently tried out in a series of Selig pictures, with the result mentioned above. Mae Marsh, of the Biograph Company, is a sister to Miss Loveridge.

OSCAR EAGLE, producer-in-chief of the Selig Polyscope Company's Chicago studios, is at present under the care of a trio of doctors at West Baden Springs, where he is suffering with a severe case of nervous breakdown. For a while his condition was considered serious, but he is rapidly recovering and is expected to be at his office again at an early date.

ADELE LANE, a very popular actress, who has been playing leads with Lubin in Philadelphia, has joined the Selig Pacific Coast forces. She opened in the principal part of an exciting American-Mexican romance, impersonating a Spanish girl in love with an American army officer, played by Harold Lockwood. The picture was put on by Director Martin. It is entitled "The Flight of Princess Irma."

Selig Releases Week of April 28.

"ROSES OF YESTERDAY" is the poetic title of Selig's release for Monday, April 28. Through the accidental finding of a fan by John Ralston Jr. he meets, falls in love with and marries the niece of his uncle's boyhood sweetheart. The fan incidently brings together the uncle and his former fiancée.

THE salesmen along "automobile row" in any big city are constantly on the lookout for "rube from the country." This idea and its possibilities have been utilized in an exceptionally funny comedy by the Selig Polyscope Company, entitled "Hiram Buys an Auto." "Chinese Scenes," an educational subject, is on the same reel. It will be released 20.

"THE BURGLAR WHO ROBBED DEATH" will be released 30.

On May 1 the Selig Company will release an exceptional split reel. The first half of this reel is devoted to an amusing comedy, entitled "Absent Minded Mr. Boob," one of those characters who can never remember anything. On the same reel is an educational subject, entitled "Some Chickens," and shows several phases of the modern chicken industry.

PICTURES having children for their central theme are ever interesting, and especially so when one of those children happens to be portrayed by "Baby" Lillian Wade, of the Selig Polyscope Company. "Their Step-mother" will be released on May 2. It tells how daddy's new wife used diplomacy to win the love of two children whose minds had been poisoned against mothers-in-law.

W. V. RANOUS, from Calcutta, India, remembers us with "Hello, CLIPPER!"

Remember those good old days when you'd sit in the gallery and "go wild" listening to those dear old favorite descriptive ballad singers, like Helena Mora, Imogene Comer and others singing songs like—"She's More To Be Pitied Than Censured," "She May Have Seen Better Days," Etc.—well, those times are coming back, and "WE" predict that within six months every BALLAD SINGER WILL BE SINGING AND EVERY PUBLISHER WILL BE PUBLISHING ballads like that sensational moral ballad, with a blessing

ESSANAY NEWS.

What might have been a good comedy joke on the first of April proved almost to be a tragedy. Ruth Stonehouse and Beverly Hayne borrowed a seven passenger Palmer-Singer from Miss Stonehouse's aunt, Mrs. Godfrey. The girls took a trip downtown and stopped only for a moment in front of the post office to mail a special delivery letter. "Smiling Billy" Mason, also of the Essanay Film Mfg. Company, happened by just as the girls were entering the post office. Several touring cars, taxicabs, etc., were standing opposite in front of the Great Northern Hotel. "Smiling Billy's" face loomed brighter than ever. He bribed one of the chauffeurs to let him have his "auto for hire" sign. This he neatly tied on Miss Stonehouse's machine. When the girls reappeared on the scene they discovered that their machine was occupied. The passengers requested the girls to take them to the Chicago University. The girls refused emphatically. Officer George Gallagher appeared on the scene and demanded an explanation, which resulted in the whole party being taken to headquarters. The young ladies smiled their way out of the difficulty, while "Smiling Billy" Mason confessed his guilt the following day. Is there any reason why the "girls" have not spoken to "Billy" since?

Preservative for Bridal Bouquets.

Heretofore the bride was unable to keep the nosegay which she cherished so highly, more than three or four days. Now she may keep the violets, lilies of the valley, sweet peas and other beautiful flowers in their natural color and shape. In the past, wax has been used, but the flower lost its color and was encased. It is a known fact that brides traveling in Europe often sent their bouquets to be dipped in the waters of Carlsbad, but they became hard and turned gray. Frances Mason, Dolores Cassinelli and Bryant Washburn, of the Essanay Film Mfg. Co., have been experimenting the past few weeks, trying to discover a preservative for flowers that will not change the color or beauty. Their pains were not for naught, as their sleepless nights and day "brain storms" has produced for them a remarkable process, by which all flowers can be preserved.

Hopper into Vaudeville.

E. Mason Hopper, known as "Lightning Hopper," the cartoonist and comedy producer for the Essanay Film Mfg. Company, has severed his connections with the above mentioned firm and will tour the United Vaudeville Circuit, in a sketch, entitled "Alkali Ike in Jayville," "Bound to Occur," "Bill," and "The Capture." His success as a producer has been a phenomenal one.

EXHIBITION HUSTLE.

There was a great deal of activity at the headquarters of the Exposition Committee who had charge of the first international exposition of the motion picture art during the week. On Tuesday, April 8, $4,000 worth of space was taken, which leaves very little still to be rented.

Among those signed up were the Nicholas Power Company, who took four more spaces. This company was among the first to contract for the exposition, and upon planning their exhibit found that four spaces were not enough. The Power's display of moving picture projecting machine apparatus will be an imposing one.

The Mutual Film Corporation arranged to lease a whole theatre on the mezzanine floor. Bausch & Lomb will be located in a prominent location, where they will show a complete line of photographic lenses.

Menger & Ring, who make attractive lobby frames, will exhibit some unique styles. Whyte-Whitman Co., upon receipt of a letter from Mr. Whyte, who attended the London exposition, arranged to take space in which to show some new ideas in cameras.

M. A. Singer, who is well known as a decorator, took spaces in which he will erect a very handsome reception room.

President Neff, of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America, was in New York last week and reported that exhibitors down South are very enthusiastic about the exposition and convention, and that many parties have been framed up to come North to see Coney Island on the fourth, Broadway on the fifth, sleep on the sixth, and be on the job for the big show on the seventh.

Sam Trigger took a little trip to Albany and Rochester last week, and was asked so many questions about the exposition that he hustled back home quick. He said: "The guys up there can hardly wait until July comes."

H. W. Johns-Manville Company, besides showing different styles of fireproof booths on the main floor, will erect one of their newest asbestos models in each of the theatres on the mezzanine floor.

F. E. Samuels returned to New York on Sunday on the St. Paul. Mr. Samuels is very enthusiastic about the London Exposition, which was a big success, but says the American show will beat it forty ways. The show over in London was run by a promoter, while this is being handled by the exhibitors themselves for the good of the industry as a whole.

The Astor Theatre will be the next Broadway playhouse to capitulate to the conquering "movies." The run of "A Man's Friends" terminated its engagement, 14, and on 21 Geo. Kleine's Cines feature film, "Quo Vadis," will begin an indefinite run.

KINEMACOLOR NEWS.

"STEAM," the new Kinemacolor feature film, in three reels, which pictures the development of steam power from tea-kettle to the modern locomotive, was added to the Panama Canal and Balkan War show at Carnegie Lyceum, Sunday afternoon, April 7, and will continue as an added attraction.

CHARLES MARKS, formerly manager of Richard Carle, recently joined the Kinemacolor staff as general booking agent in charge of routing and booking the Panama Canal and Balkan War shows. The recent flood in Cincinnati compelled the removal of that show from the Olympic Theatre, and sent Mr. Marks hunting for houses on the high grounds of the Ohio. He has booked a new Panama-Balkan show, at the Hyperion Theatre, in New Haven, Conn., opening 14, for an extended engagement.

MAYOR "HONOR" FITZGERALD and the members of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, who are going on a tour of inspection of the Panama Canal, secured an advance view of these scenes at the Tremont Temple, in Boston, recently, where the Kinemacolor pictures of the great American engineering conquest, in contrast with the battles of the Balkan War, will be presented for the next three weeks. The commercial tourists will arrive at the Isthmus May 1.

AARON JONES, of the Chicago theatrical firm of Jones, Linick & Schaefer, recently visited New York, to secure the Kinemacolor film service for the Willard and Wilson Theatres, in the Illinois city. Kinemacolor will also be installed in the other houses of that firm's Chicago motion picture circuit in the near future.

IN RESPONSE to insistent demands from the mid-Western territory for another distributing station of the film service department, the Kinemacolor Company has opened a Chicago office in the Marston Building, on Dearborn Street, near Madison, under the management of J. L. Kempner.

CHASER'S Million Dollar Theatre, in Washington, D. C., was opened under an all picture policy on Monday, April 7, and played to over nine thousand people. Kinemacolor pictures are on the program, in peaceful competition with the Edison talking pictures and the licensed films of all the companies composing the so-called "Motion Picture Trust."

GEO. M. ANDERSON'S LATEST.

A new producing combination has just been formed in Los Angeles, Cal., of which Geo. M. Anderson, of the Essanay Film Co., is the financial backer. Wm. Rock and Maude Fulton have signed with Mr. Anderson to be producers and stars in his project, which may have considerable disturbing effect on the studios of Pacific Coast theatricists. Kolb and Dill, the Weber and Fields imitators, will also figure in the new combine. Headquarters of the organization will be located in the new theatre in San Francisco, now building, opposite the Orpheum, on Farrell Street. Anderson organized a corporation and raised $350,000 to promote this enterprise.

Mr. Rock will be producing manager, and Miss Fulton will head one of the big companies which the corporation will finance. Meantime Kolb and Dill will head another production, the two organizations alternating on the road, playing the big time up and down the Pacific Coast, while the company not on the road will play in San Francisco or Los Angeles. Up to the announcement it was currently believed that Rock and Fulton were to separate, as Mr. Rock was believed to be under contract to Mort Singer to appear in "Limousine Lover," written by Addison Burkhardt. They will close their Orpheum tour in two weeks, when Rock will start engaging and training his dancing girls. George M. Anderson and George K. Spoor are the owners of the Essanay Film Company, a concern rated at over $2,000,000. Mr. Anderson is well known to the screen world as the originator of the "Broncho Billy" character.

MOVING PICTURES IN BUENOS AIRES.

For the enlightenment and education of the newly arrived immigrants lodged at the government's hotel in this city, it has been decided to install the moving picture plant which was used in Argentine's display at the Turin Exposition. It is expected that the views of the country and its agricultural and cattle industries will be a help to the immigrant in adapting himself to his new surroundings.

There are fifty-five moving picture theatres and forty-five cafes showing moving pictures in Buenos Aires. In 1911 nearly $850,000 United States gold entrance fees were collected, but this amount does not take into consideration the returns of the cafes. The republic imports about 2,000,000 metres (metre: 3.28 feet) of films annually, the duty on which is 27 per cent. on an appraised valuation of $4.83 (United States gold) per kilo (2.2046 pounds), a film 2,000 feet in length weighing about four kilos. At the present moment dramatic films of a comic nature have the run. Western (American) cowboy films are also great favorites, as well as industrial films, but comedy, magic, trick, fanatical, allegorical and sensational films with plots are all well liked in South America. The average bill at a theatre is consistent with the size of the programs given in the United States.—The South American.

NELSON-CHAMBERLIN.

Jennie Nelson, the crack rough rider of the Lubin Stock Company, is married at last. The "performance" took place in Philadelphia April 5, William Chamberlin playing the opposite role. A special "too real" subject, entitled "She Got Him at Last."

PHOTOPLAY ACTRESS' $9,000 GEMS.

The police have located the owner of $9,000 worth of jewelry, a $2,000 traveler's check and over $500 in cash. It proves to be Ruth Stonehouse, known as "the million dollar photoplay actress." The police found the property, which had been stolen by three boys, and set to work to discover the owner.

The youthful trio, Joseph Scott, William Stein and James Reilly, were arraigned in the West Side Court, yesterday, and after pleading guilty to the theft of the valuables, were held in $5,000 bail for trial.

WILLIAM FOX recently contracted with the Kinemacolor Company of America, for the showing of the natural color pictures in his circuit of forty theatres.

PROF. JAMES PHELAN, demonstrator of motion pictures, sailed April 6 for Melbourne, Australia. He will return in October and tour the United States under the auspices of the Chicago Lyceum, in a number of his own creations.

LILY LANOTRY is producing her successes for the moving pictures of the Daniel Frohman series.

CLARENCE A. WORTHAM.

Clarence A. Wortham, associate proprietor of the Wortham & Allen Shows, a carnival organization which occupies an enviable position in the front ranks of amusement enterprises in this country, is an aggressive showman and a self-made man. Although a young man, Mr. Wortham has had many years of practical experience in the amusement business and, in association with his partner, Tom W. Allen, has built up a large following in this country.

He is a hustler from the word "go," and never overlooks an opportunity to increase the efficiency of his organization. Clarence Wortham is very popular with show people. He has a personality which attracts friends, and it is safe to say that his importance in the show world will grow as the years come and go.

STUDIO FLICKERS.

Lawrence Trimble, owner of the wonderful dog actor, "Jean," and one time director with the Vitagraph Company of America, will sail for London shortly. Larry will be director-in-chief of the Florence Turner films, which will be produced on the other side.

The Screen Club is being newly decorated and refurbished after the fire which destroyed considerable of its furnishings and interior a few weeks ago. Don't forget the event of the season, the Screen Club ball, to be held at Terrace Garden on April 19.

Brush up the old claw-hammers, boys. Charles Gaskill has erected a new and spacious studio at Tappan, N. J. He is preparing to produce another feature sensation, with that incomparable actress, Helen Gardner, in the lead.

The Biograph Company, after years of secrecy, have at last revealed to an anxious and long-waiting public the names of their leading players. This will afford pleasure to thousands of photo-fans who have been anxious to know who their favorites were.

Dick Ransom, formerly playing juveniles and bits with the Vitagraph Company of America, and a violinist of repute, is no longer with the above company. "How about the cabarets, Dick?"

J. B. Clymer, former advertising manager for the Gaumont Co., has left that concern to take up a new line of work in the newspaper field. Go to it, J. B.

Fred Mace, former comedian of the Keystone Comedy Co., is running for mayor of Los Angeles. If elected, will certainly not pull any of the "one o'clock closing" stuff.

George Terwilliger, formerly with Reliance Co., is holding down a scenario desk with Lubin. Hope the innocuous "sleeping bug" of Philly will not seize George in its deadly grip.

Wm. Cook, scenario editor, is no longer connected with the Vitagraph. Bill expects to announce a new connection shortly.

Jack O'Brien, director in chief for the Frontier Co., is considered one of the best in his line, the same being Western pictures. The motion picture centre in the Heidelberg Building, is rapidly getting things into shape. Looks like a grand idea.

Edward Lee, former motion picture actor, and also player of a leading part in "Snow-White," will enter vaudeville with a dramatic sketch, entitled "Sentence Suspended." Glad they didn't find you guilty, Ed.

The interior settings of the modern picture production are a wonderful improvement over the commonplace C. D. F. held forth in the early days of the photoplay.

King Baggett, of the Imp, has all the earmarks of a genuine, honest-to-goodness matinee idol. Some leading-man. As the chocolate bon-bon girls say: "I think he's just grand."

The present rush of legit, to pose for the "movies" is merely a repetition of the "names" that condescended to enter vaudeville several years ago.

It seems about time now that every scenario author should have his name displayed on the product of his brains. The playwrights, sketch writers and song writers have their names on every thing they do, consequently it is no more than fair that their brethren of the flickering phantoms should receive the same courtesy.

Very few picture actors can play a convincing Indian. I know this will create a howl of indignant denials, but just glance over the next Western picture you see and then go to the Two Bills' Show and look at a genuine Aborigine. Then make a comparison. Next week we shall mention the names of the players who excel in this difficult line of work.

A certain journalist connected with the motion picture industry, must be the man who put the egg in egotism. Keep on fooling them, old man.

The N. Y. Motion Picture Co. has signed a two year contract with the Mutual. They will increase their output from six releases a week to twelve.

There will be four or five new "talkers" on the market shortly.

The exact relations of Pat Powers and the Universal still seem to be somewhat difficult of comprehension.

PHILADELPHIA'S NEW MOVIES.

THERE were a half a dozen new announcements concerning moving picture houses in Philadelphia last week. They consist of the following: One, 73 by 106 feet, on the North side of York, extending from Hope to Howard Streets, for John M. Kennedy, to cost $25,000. The seating capacity will be 1,000.

FRANK HESS will erect one 51 by 100 feet, at the Northeast corner of Fifth Street and Olney Avenue, with a seating capacity of 500, to cost $11,000.

"OPPORTUNITY."

Theo. W. Wharton, producer for the Essanay Film Co., of Chicago, believes the old adage that: "Opportunity never knocks twice at any man's door." He tells how by seeing at any show the idea of producing plays came to him. He is just preparing a great two reel picture, and says: "I'll bet you can't guess the title." Chorus: "I'll bet we can. It's 'Opportunity.'"

MORE KINEMACOLOR.

Wm. Fox has secured Kinemacolor reels for all his houses in Greater New York, commencing April 14. Jones, Linick & Schaefer will arrange for the service for the Willard and Wilson, Chicago.

An office has been opened by the Kinemacolor Co. in the Morton Building, Chicago, with J. L. Kemper in charge.

N. Y. EXHIBITORS' BENEFIT.

Many motion picture actors and actresses, and Mayor Gaynor, appeared at the special entertainment given for the Ohio flood sufferers, under the auspices of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of Greater New York, Saturday night, April 12, in the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory, New York, donated by Governor Sulzer, through Attorney General Carmody. Mayor Gaynor opened the evening with a little talk.

Among those scheduled to appear were: Tom Moore and Alice Joyce of Kalen, Flora Finch, Kate Price, John Bunny, Kenneth Casey and Adele DeGarde of Vitagraph, Crane Wilbur of Pathe, Klug Baggot of Imp, Harry Benham and Mignon Anderson of Thanhouser, together with the Thanhouser Kid and Kidlet; Pearl White of Crystal, Lillian Walker, Owen Moore, Florence Turner, Florence Lawrence, Marion Leonard and Mary Pickford. The music was by the Letter Carriers' band of fifty-six pieces.

The large sum taken in at the door considerably augmented the money already raised by popular subscription. Among the donors are the following: Vitagraph, $150; Kalen, $100; Universal Film Manufacturing Company, $150; Mutual Film Corporation, $100; Kinograph, $100; Adam Kessel Jr., $100; General Film Company, $150; Manhattan Slide Company, $25; Standard Machine Company, $75; H. Reisinger, $50; Pathe, $100; Helen Gardner, $10; Powers Machine Company, $150. A large contribution has been promised by the Motion Picture Patents Company.

The committee in charge of the benefit was: L. Needles, chairman; Eugene Ellmore, J. Koerfel, Sam Triggler, H. A. Korn, L. Germaine, Robert W. McNabb, H. Sanders, M. L. Fleischman, O. Bauerfreund and William Brandt.

DROPS VAUDE. FOR PICTURES.

The many theatres in the Washington Heights section of New York City is beginning to tell on another. On Monday afternoon the Washington Theatre (a Wm. Fox house), at the corner of One Hundred and Forty-ninth Street and Amsterdam Avenue, changed its policy of vaudeville to motion pictures, at five cents daily and ten cents at night. The new and handsome Hamilton Theatre (Moss & Brill), a few blocks away, is still holding its own with vaudeville and pictures.

SAMUELS RETURNS.

Frank E. Samuels returned to New York after a trip to the London motion picture exposition, the interests of the first international exposition, to be held at the Grand Central Palace, New York, July 6 to 13. Many foreign manufacturers will be represented at the New York exposition.

ERNEST SHIPMAN has disposed of his one-third interest in the feature film, entitled "One Hundred Years of Nonsense," and resigned from business connection with it. Plans of considerable magnitude which are under way necessitated this move, particulars of which will appear at an early date.

J. LUDWIG PRICH, husband of Mrs. Kate Price of the Vitagraph Co., died April 9, in St. Mary's Hospital, Brooklyn, from heart trouble, forty-five years old. Mr. and Mrs. Price, in the old variety days, were a well known team. Vitagraph players sent a large floral piece to the funeral, which was held from 1521 East Fifteenth Street, Brooklyn.

A. E. SMITH, treasurer and business manager of the Vitagraph Company, returned from Europe, where he has been the last two months.

The Talking Moving Picture Co., Inc., of Syracuse, has been formed by Richard S. M. Mitchell, Edward Newcomb and Robert J. Cooney.

World of Players.

PERCE WARREN writes that he and his wife were big losers in the flood at their home in Indianapolis. They expect to remain at home until the latter part of August.

Notes from the Carleton Sisters Company. This attraction, under the direction of Varney & Montgomery, closed its season at Bardonia, Ky., April 12, after thirty-five weeks of satisfactory business. The closing came a little earlier than planned, owing to the floods that played havoc with the States of Ohio and Indiana, where the remainder of the route was booked. All the engagements had to be canceled. Aside from losing a week, owing to the January flood that caught the show at Portsmouth, O., and four days at Somerset, Ky., where the theatre was ruined in a cyclone, the season was a fairly satisfactory one. Several changes were made in the roster of the company, otherwise the show was the same as when it first opened in January, 1912. After the closing stand the members of the company disbanded, going to various parts of the country, most of them to their homes for a rest. J. N. Montgomery went to Chicago, Edwin Varney to Miami, Fla.; Ed. C. McClure, the agent, to his home at Bardonia, Ill.; Edward Moses to Cincinnati; T. M. Bixler to Michigan; J. J. Clark to Buffalo, N. Y.; the Carleton Sisters to Dallas, Tex., and Nelly Lyons Healy to Penn Yan, N. Y., all departing on the first trains available.

Since the opening in August the show covered many thousands miles, playing the principal cities of North and South Carolina, Virginia, Maryland, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Kentucky.

The John B. Willis Musical Comedy Co. is now under the personal direction of Mrs. Willis, who rejoined the show at Huntington, Pa., last week. "Walley" Heiston, brother to Mrs. Willis, has returned to the show after an absence of two years. He appeared with one of the "Buster Brown" shows last season. "Walley" also brought with him several novel features, which are now in rehearsal. They will open their park season the last week of June, Mrs. Willis having received some very good offers. The show played to S. B. O. business at Lewistown, Pa.

WILLIAM J. PHINNEY recently obtained a license to marry Flora Vivian May, both of whom reside at the Douglas, 157 West Forty-sixth Street, New York City. Both have been members of the Southern Cohan & Harris' company, which closed recently at Westfield, N. J.

GEORGE L. BARTON writes: "The Girl and the Tramp" company spent two days and two nights in the Union Depot at Dayton, O., during the flood, and got out with a loss of only four trunks, so we were lucky. We are all much alive and happy."

The George W. Ripley Dramatic Company will open their season early in May at their Winter quarters in Homer, N. Y. This company will travel by wagon, and will carry fifteen people and twelve horses, showing under a 60 by 100 waterproof canvas. Manager Ripley will carry a band and will produce a fine repertoire of standard plays.

DEANE and SCOVILLE write: "On account of business being exceptionally good up through the Northwest, we will put out another company of 'The Maid and the Minister' as soon as we can get the people. Alice Southern, who we secured for the lead in this piece, has received exceptional notices for clever work in every town we have played this season. We have offered her the lead in our new production, and she is considering same. If business keeps up as it has the past three weeks we will go farther North and stay out all Summer."

TIM MURPHY, of Henry W. Savage's "Top of the Mornin'" Company, was playing in Boston week of March 31, when on Saturday afternoon, April 5, he received a telegram from Washington, D. C., his home, saying that his sister had been seriously burned by an explosion. Mr. Murphy awaited further news, and it came that evening, saying that his sister had been killed, and his parents were seriously burned in the accident. The comedian worked through his role in the performance, and showed no sign of the grief he was suffering. He left for the Capital City the following day, where he found his parents in a hospital.

JOHN MCCASLIN, father of John T. McCaslin, the theatrical agent, died March 31, at his home, 1214 Greenmount Avenue, Baltimore, Md. He was eighty-one years of age.

BOWERS AND WELCH have dissolved partnership, and Martin Bowers has formed a new partnership with Edith H. De Vine, the lady with the fine singing voice, late of the Ward and Vokes Co. The act will again be known as Bowers and De Vine, and they will produce their comedy skit, "The Bell Hop and the Prima Donna," over the Frank Q. Doyle time.

FOSTER and LOVETT scored a tremendous success, the past two weeks, in Philadelphia, in their fifteen minute comedy in one, "Who's Who?" They are playing the Alhambra, in that city, this week, with the Wm. Penn and Allegheny to follow.

STOCK NEWS

STOCK IN BROOKLYN.

The Crescent offers "The Master of the House." Mabel Montgomery appears in a role new to her friends of Brooklyn, the designing companion while Gertrude Rivers plays the wife. Kate Blanche appears as the old family servant, Barbara, Isadore Martin is the daughter, Aetrice, and Mr. Briggs the son, Harry. To Mr. Allison falls the part of "The Master of the House." William Evans has the Forrest Robinson part of the old legal friend of the family who brings about the reconciliation.

B. P. Keith's Gotham Theatre Stock Company is seen in "The Confession," and Victor Browne returns as leading man for the remainder of the season. Mr. Browne, in the part of Father Bartlett. Several engagements have been made by the Gotham management with people who were in the original New York cast. Mae Desmond, as Rose Creighton, has another leading role. Kate Woods Fluke is the Mrs. Bartlett. James Kyle MacCurdy has a comedy part as Michael Grogan. Daniel Lawlor as Judge Penbody, and Frank Field as the younger brother Tom.

"The Yoke" is played at the Grand Opera House. Noel Travers has the part of M. urice, and Phyllis Gilmore plays the aunt. Minnie Stanley, Irene Douglas, Maxine Miles, Elsa Thayer, William H. Elliot, William Bonney, Mabel Snyder and George M. Carleton all have parts. At every Friday matinee, the company presents a new play, the most successful photographs of the different members of the Grand Opera Stock Company are given.

At the Tremont "The Talker" is the week's bill.

TIDMARSH AND CHANDLER GET CUPS.

Ferdinand Tidmarsh and Jack Chandler, members of the Malley-Denison company, at Lawrence, Mass., were presented with silver loving cups, April 10, at the Opera House. Mayor Scanlon, the members of the city council and other prominent city officials were present. Mayor Scanlon made the presentation in behalf of friends of the two popular actors, and a reception was held at which the players and the citizens mingled.

Both were taken by surprise when presented with the cups but recovered shortly and thanked the donors and the audience for the kind appreciation of their efforts and praised the city. Mayor Scanlon, in making the presentation, extolled the great plays presented by the Malley-Denison company and the splendid acting of the players and congratulated the members of the company for their fine work. He said the company was a credit to the city and themselves and wished them the greatest of success.

Since the opening of the season Mr. Tidmarsh and Mr. Chandler have been members of the Malley-Denison Stock Company, and they have become great favorites with the theatregoers.

STOCK FOR SUBURBAN GARDEN.

(Special to THE CLIPPER.)

St. Louis, April 10.—Suburban Garden Theatre, for many years the home of star stock, will re-open this Summer for a season of thirteen weeks, after having been closed a season by the inroads of moving pictures.

It is planned to open Saturday, May 17, with dramatic stock, former favorites having the preference in recruiting the company.

The Garden is now owned by ex-Sheriff John Gruening Jr., of St. Louis County. Spearman Lewis, press representative in former years, will be the new manager. The Openheimer Brothers have no longer connected with the Garden in any capacity.

ETHEL ESTES left the Hartman-Wallace Players in Sharon, Pa., April 5, which company has been playing to capacity in that city for the past eighteen weeks, and after spending a week at the Theatre in New York, she sailed for London, 12, on the Olympic. Miss Estes will visit her parents in London, and return to this country in time to open with the Hartman-Wallace Company, at Brady's Lake, Ohio, on Decoration Day.

The D. A. T. S. E., No. 1, of Sharon, presented Miss Estes with an appropriately engraved gold locket and chain, and tendered her a banquet on the stage of the theatre after her closing performance. The presentation speech was made by Edw. Quinn, business manager of Local No. 101.

NOEL TRAVERS, of the Grand Stock Brooklyn, will be the guest of the Actors' Church Alliance, April 18. Mary Gibbs Spooner is president, and Ida A. Ackerman, secretary, of Brooklyn Chapter.

"SISTER BEATRICE" will be the opening attraction of the Teck Stock, at Buffalo, April 21. The company includes: Julius McVicker, Cecil Yapp, Dallas Anderson, Roland Rushton, Le Roy Clemens, J. B. Dunn, Greydon Fox, William Steff, Alice Weeks, Grace Lamson and Eliza Frederic.

The Jacobs Theatre Stock, Newark, N. J., closed April 12.

O. D. BAILEY IN NEW YORK.

Oliver D. Bailey, manager of the Seattle Theatre, Seattle, Wash., is in New York arranging and leasing plays for the next twenty-five weeks of his stock at his theatre. Mr. Bailey has run thirty consecutive weeks of stock in Seattle, and hopes to continue this policy through the Summer as well as the Winter season.

Robert Campbell (through his agents, Sanger & Jordan) closed contracts with Mr. Bailey for a stock production of "The White Slave," in Seattle. It is Mr. Bailey's intention to give a very elaborate production of "The White Slave," and as he puts it, he will produce it as well as the touring company that is now playing it. Practically every stock producing manager in the United States has made handsome offers for "The White Slave," all of which have been declined, but when this clever little Western manager came on the ground, he succeeded in tying it up.

"The Fortune Hunter," by Woodell Smith, is another exceptionally fine play that Mr. Bailey placed under contract. He will do this piece very shortly. Besides this, he contracted for George Ade's "The College Widow," and "The County Chairman." "The Road to Yesterday" and "The Blue Mouse" were leased to him by Sanger & Jordan. "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary" is another play that he placed under contract through Sanger & Jordan.

Mr. Bailey's trip was purely for business purposes, to get in closer touch with the New York market. He does not expect to be in New York longer than a day or two; just long enough to call on Mr. John Cort, whom he always affectionately refers to as "Dad."

Mr. Bailey was accompanied by Mrs. Bailey.

A BENEFIT WAS TENDERED MAX FARBLISH, BUSINESS MANAGER OF THE ORPHEUM, JERSEY CITY, APRIL 13.

JACK CHANDLER, singing comedian, has been re-engaged by Malley and Denison Co., for Summer season at Newport, R. I.

The roster of the Hartman-Wallace Co. includes: D. G. Hartman, business manager; Chester Wallace, leads and director; Virginia Perry, Lucille La Valliere, Josephine La Valliere, Florence K. Arlington, Jos. La Valliere, E. Avid Heminger, Mat Buros, Walter Sherwood and Harry Biddle.

Miss Estes was a very valuable and popular member of the Hartman-Wallace Players for the past year, and a shower of flowers added to her delight after the presentation speech. The company presented such successes as "The Lion and the Mouse," "Paid in Full," "The Girl From Out Yonder," "Thea," and numerous other standard productions during their engagement in Sharon, and all were admirably presented.

F. E. SPOONER writes: "Got good results, and am satisfied that THE CLIPPER is a medium for advertising."

FRANK M. SWAN recently closed a three years' season as advance agent of Harry Sutherland's Original Yankee Doodle Stock Co., and is now at Patterson, Cal., where he will spend the Summer. Mr. Swan will organize his own company this Summer, to be called the San Francisco Stock Co., and will open in August.

FERGUSON BROTHERS' STOCK COMPANY closed at the Metropolitan, Oklahoma City, Okla., April 6. The company will play one week in El Reno and then make the airman in Oklahoma and Kansas. The Metropolitan will remain dark for the Summer.

MAY KLINE was called to her home recently owing to the death of her father. Miss Kline was a member of the "Oscar and Adolph" Co.

M. WITTENBERG is treasurer of the Metropolitan, Seattle, Wash.

"THE FORTUNE HUNTER" is produced this week by Ed. Redmond at the Grand, Sacramento, Cal.

"THE SERVANT IN THE HOUSE" was produced last week at Rand's, Troy, N. Y., by Malley & Denison. It has proven a most desirable play in stock.

"REVERLY OF GRAUSTARK" was produced last week at the Orpheum, Muskegon, Mich.

"THE FORTUNE HUNTER" is produced this week at the Broadway, Bayonne, N. J., by Manager E. A. Shiller.

"THE OLD FIRM," the play in which William Hawtry appeared so successfully this season in New York and on tour, has just been released for stock.

PAUL SCOTT NOTES.

"THE BUTTERFLY ON THE WHEEL" brought capacity business to the Gayety, Hoboken, N. J., last week. Emil May Jackson gave an excellent portrayal of the butterfly, and received splendid support from the company. Severin De Deyn made his re-appearance in the leading role, and aroused much enthusiasm upon his first entrance in the second act. Mr. De Deyn will continue as the stock star for the remainder of the season at the Gayety, and will devote the Summer to personally superintending the construction of a new theatre in West New York, in which he purposes installing a stock company in the Fall.

JAMES COURTNEY, leading woman of the Lynchburg stock, is giving a good account of herself, having played "The Deep Purple" as the opening bill, following it with "Mrs. Temple's Telegram."

JAMES MOORE goes to the Poli Stock, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., as second man, opening in "Get-Rich-Quick Wadsworth."

WALTER CLUXTON is gaining splendid notices from the Canadian newspapers on his performance of Peter, in "Passers By."

MARGARET RALPH joined the company playing "The Confession" in the middle West, to play Mother Bartlett for the final weeks of the season. Master Howard Brooks also joined to play Patsy.

IRVING TIMMONS opens with the Broadway Stock, Bayonne, N. J., April 21, playing the lead in "The Butterfly on the Wheel."

WARDA HOWARD, leading woman of the Manhattan Players, at the Majestic, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., will play Rose, in "The Confession," this week.

LEE AVENUE READY.

Payton's Lee Avenue Theatre, Brooklyn, will open Monday, April 23, with a strong stock company. The house has been entirely renovated at a cost of $22,000. The lessee is Morris S. Schlesinger, and Gus Schlesinger will be the resident manager. "The Man Who Stood Still" will be the initial offering, for this engagement only, Snitz Edwards has been secured.

SOME of the plays recently secured by the John W. Rumsey Play Co., include: "Seven Days," "Nobody's Widow," "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," "The Only Son," "The Fortune Hunter," "The Wife," "The Charity Ball," and "Clothes."

RALPH KELLARD has secured Harry Redding, Thos. J. Evans and Bessie Dunn for his stock season at the Empire, Syracuse, N. Y., beginning May 5. Drew Morrison will direct the stage and James Early business manager.

CORSE PATON will have a musical comedy stock at Newark, N. J., this Spring.

FRANCIS SAILLES' Players will be in stock at Richmond, Ind., for the Summer.

"FRACKLES" has just been offered for stock by Sanger & Jordan, in restricted territory. Five companies of this piece toured the United States all this season, and next year two and probably three companies will be touring. One company played the "Fair and Foul" time. The novel of "Frackles" is sold into the hundreds of thousands, and it is safe to say that half a million copies of this book are in circulation at the present time. It makes a most desirable stock property, and producing managers are predicting that it will be a great stock favorite.

"DOROTHY VERNON OF HADON HALL" is being produced this week by Holden & Edwards. This play is a great favorite with stock producing managers, and hardly a week passes that it is not produced some place in the country.

CHARLES FROMAN has just released four very fine plays for stock. They are: "The Mind-the-Point Girl," as played most successfully all this season by Miss Billie Burke; "The Spy," a great play for the leading man, a success this season at the Empire Theatre, New York City, and on tour; "The Attack," a play that attracted no end of attention in New York all season, and proved a most successful vehicle for John Mason, and "The Girl from Montmartre," the piece that is being successfully toured by Hattie Williams and Richard Carle.

"ARSENIC LIPIN" is the bill this week at the Empire, Providence, R. I.

BRADY SUES ERLANGER.

William A. Brady brought suit April 14 before Supreme Court Justice Giegerich, asking for an accounting from Abraham L. Erlanger, a partnership in leasing the Auditorium, Chicago. The complaint states that Brady and Erlanger united to get the theatre, and each put up $10,000. The theatre, leased August 15, 1907, was for a time operated as a vaudeville house. Mr. Brady claims that Erlanger took entire charge of the business, and on January 1, 1910, he sold out the lease to the United Booking Offices of America for $115,000, disposing of the whole business for $250,000, without making any accounting to his partner. All that he received, Brady says, was $30,000. Erlanger makes a general denial and says that there was no written agreement between him and Brady.

LIFE FOR MURDER OF ACTRESS.

John C. Morrow was smothered to death the eighteen-month-old baby of Mrs. Luella Platt, last Fall, at Mt. Gilead, O., was sentenced to life imprisonment by a jury at Marion, O., April 10.

Mrs. Platt and her husband, Frank Platt, were vaudeville performers, and Mrs. Platt was illing in engagement at Mt. Gilead last Fall, and was stopping at the same boarding house as Morrow. According to Mrs. Platt, the man declared his love for her, and she ordered him to stop annoying her. On the evening that she was to leave Mt. Gilead Morrow entered her room and wrapped a blanket tightly around the sleeping child, and when the actress returned from downstairs she found the baby had smothered to death.

MIKE WILL LAUNCH ANOTHER Mike Simons will shortly launch another big act for vaudeville. This one will be called "The Vaudeville Broker," and will have the services of three men and three women. It will be ready for the United time in about three weeks.

"ROSEDALE."

Lyrie (Sol Manheiser, mgr.)—Rosedale, a comedy drama in five acts by Lester Wallack, was revived at this house by William A. Brady (Ltd.), on Tuesday, April 8, with this cast:
Elliott Grey.....Charles Cherry
Matthew Leigh.....Frank Gilmore
Col. Cavendish May.....John Glendinning
Miss McKenna.....Robert Warwick
Arthur May.....Stephen Davis
Bunbury Cobb.....Leslie Kroyon
Farmer Green.....George Votaw
Corporal Daw.....Harry Haddfield
Dockey.....J. W. Hartman
Robert.....George Wolfe
Romany Rob.....Earle Mitchell
Rosa Leigh.....Elsie Ferguson
Lady Florence May.....Lillian
Tabitha Stark.....Alice Fischer
Sarah Sykes.....Della Fox
Mother Mix.....Edith Warren
Miss Primrose.....Paula Lindum

Despite the fact that "Rosedale" first saw the light of production a half century ago, and is so old fashioned in plot and stage construction to be at this day laughable, there is a sentimental taint about the old play, and the love scenes between Elliott Grey and Rose Leigh are as charming as ever. The play is on for a few weeks engagement here, and with the reputation of being undoubtedly Lester Wallack's greatest success, and acted by such a distinguished company, should continue to draw capacity audiences.

Charles Cherry was excellent as Elliott Grey. The best thing we have seen him do since the days of "Gilda." The role fits his ability faultlessly.

Elsie Ferguson, pretty and winsome as Rose Leigh, played the love scenes with Mr. Cherry with exquisite charm.

Frank Gilmore was pleasantly cast as Matthew Leigh, and Robert Warwick, as Col. Cavendish May, were excellent in their respective roles.

Jobyna Howard made a handsome Lady May, and Alice Fischer scored as Tabitha Stark, the housekeeper. George Votaw, the former comic opera star, made her appearance after many years' absence, and played the role of Sarah Sykes, the maid. Stephen Davis, as the boy, Arthur May, gave a satisfactory performance. The rest of the players gave able support.

JEFFERSON THEATRE.

(I. BENSTEIN, MGR.)

A usual good show was on tap at this beautiful playhouse for the last half of the past week, beginning April 10. Opening with the Warren Brothers, in a high class aerial act; Manton and Melvin followed, and put over a singing and talking act. Both are clever performers, but newer material would benefit the act.

Fuller Rose and company presented a sketch, entitled "The Crook." It is one of those farcical affairs, with impossible situations, and extraneous dialogue, but was handled in great shape by players who are worthy of a much better act. To stick to the absolute truth we must record that this sketch met with vociferous applause by the Jefferson audience.

Adams and Scheffer, a singing and talking act (German and Hebrew), were a hit with parodies and well delivered bits, the "diddle breaking" business being a laughing riot.

Bassalari, a male double voiced singer and violinist, pleased with vocal and instrumental numbers. His act would stand revision, but the Jeffersonites made him "a huge hit."

The Washington Band played several selections with a kind applause finish, while the Three Ernestos Sisters showed wonderful agility on the wire, and Fulton and Fulton, a sister act of more than ordinary ability, cleaned up one of the hits of the bill at a late hour.

Empire (Chas. Frohman, mgr.)—This house will remain dark until April 28, when Billie Burke will open, in "The Amazons," for an engagement of four weeks only.

Forty-eighth Street (Wm. A. Brady, Inc., mgr.)—"The Lady from Oklahoma," closed its engagement here Saturday night, April 12, and on Monday, 14, "What Happened to Mary" moved into this house.

Fulton (Henry H. Harris, Estate, mgrs.)—"What Happened to Mary," ended its engagement at this house Saturday night, April 12, and opened at the Forty-eighth Street Theatre, Monday, 14.

Astor (Cohan & Harris, mgrs.)—"A Man's Friends" will close its engagement here after Saturday night's performance, April 19. Beginning Monday matinee, 21, George Kiehn's famous Chinese moving picture production, "Quo Vadis," will open for an indefinite run. Two shows will be given daily at popular prices.

"FOOD."

Princess (F. Ray Comstock, mgr.)—Food, a Tragedy of the Future, a play in one act by William C. DeMille, produced by the Princess Players on Monday, April 14, with this cast:
Basil, a New Yorker.....Edward Ellis
Irene, his wife.....Fanny Harris
Harold, an officer of the Food Trust

To the four one-act plays at this theatre there was offered on Monday night "Food," from the pen of William C. DeMille. It had been seen once before at an entertainment offered by the Twelfth Night Club.

The scene takes place in the home of a millionaire in New York fifty years hence. He and his wife, Irene, are dining on a cracker with milk, served in medicine glasses carefully measured out. The food is kept in a burglar proof safe. Hubby says to his wife: "I could stop thinking of the poor must be compelled to eat in these hard times."

He is very happy until his wife informs him that the doctor has prescribed an egg for her. "Woman," says Basil, the husband, "this is unreasonable. Why won't a trip to Europe do instead?" But no, she insists, and her husband retires to his room, suffering from a slight attack of indigestion.

While alone in the dining room, she receives a visit from Harold, an officer of the food trust. He is dressed in a gorgeous costume. He comes to deliver a slice of bread, Irene, the wife, recognizes the food he brings as a former lover. He, however, spurs her—"you flitted me in order to marry him for food," he cries, but she pleads for forgiveness, and promises to fly with him if he would only give her the egg he is carrying to the home of a millionaire. He stands between love and duty—disgrace, yes, death will be the punishment if discovered. While they are embracing one another, the husband steals into the room and takes the egg from the jewel box, where it has been put by Irene. As the inspector is about to shoot him, he threatens to smash the egg. He does so however, and the wife picks up the egg splattered rug and carries it off, while the husband is left to reflect over his sinful extravagance in breaking an egg—the most costly of earthly possessions, in the days of high food prices.

It is a clever satire with witty dialogue, and as it is played in dead seriousness it is a laugh from start to finish. It runs about forty-five minutes. The acting of Mr. Ellis, as the husband; Miss Harris, as the wife, and Mr. Stokes, as the food inspector, left nothing to be desired.

"The Switchboard," "Fancy Free," "Fear" and "Any Night" are still offered. Kelcey.

PROCTOR'S FIFTH AVENUE.

(GUS MCCUNE, MGR.)

Business continues top-notch here, and at the Monday matinee this week, the house was filled to capacity, the standing room sign being displayed long before the show started. Manager McCune made no mistake when he displayed Billy R. Van and the clever Beaumont Sisters in large letters in front of the house, and made them the feature of the remarkable program. Billy has the honor of doing something that has seldom been done in this house. He and his excellent company of comedians held the audience seated until the finale of his young musical comedy, "The Switchboard," and the closing act, which waited until the last song was rendered.

With a budget of new material, Billy McDermott, who only played an engagement at this house a few weeks ago, made his reappearance this week, and simply knocked them cold. He had a hard time breaking away, and only after he made a speech of thanks would the audience let him go. Billy has a fine singing voice, and gave several songs to tremendous applause.

Madden and Fitzpatrick, the clever little comedy skit, entitled "The Wanderer," although in a bad position of following McDermott, cleaned up. Their act is entirely different than anything in vaudeville and, as both are clever performers, a large success always greets them.

Charles and Ada Latham presented a very classy one act playlet, called "Nobody's Kid," in which both do capable work. The bulk of the acting falls on the shoulders of Miss Latham, who is rather small in stature, and she responds in a noble manner. In the character of a tough girl she sends over a line of talk that would make a Bowers girl blush. The skit is also well written and interesting, and tells a story that holds attention throughout its whole presentation.

If Novita and Billy Lynn, who recently closed a run with Elsie Jean, hope to succeed in vaudeville they will have to select a more suitable vehicle, as the one they presented here Monday matinee did not meet with very much approval. Lynn renders three songs and the only one that was well received was called "Melinda," with which he received several encores. Novita does very little outside of doing a toe dance and assisting him in his numbers. She proved herself a capable dancer and earned applause with her specialty. They close with a dance that both should rehearse more. The act is handsomely costumed, four changes being made.

The Edison "talkies" gave two subjects, and cause the usual amount of interest.

Britt Wood, a rube and his harmonica, had a rather hard time to get his audience, as it is fails to produce anything for him. His playing of the harmonica is the best thing he does, and he certainly does get some sweet music out of it. He took about four bows at the conclusion of his performance.

The Three Emersons, in the European novelty acrobatic act, opened the show and showed how capable acrobats can perform. Their work is on a par with anything of its kind ever seen here, and made a big hit.

The Russian Ballet Orchestra, under the leadership of Vladimir Peggloff, and Walter Van Brunst, "some" sweet tenor, were seen in new acts, and are fully reviewed in our New Act column. Jack.

GREELY SQUARE.

(JULIUS BENSTEIN, MGR.)

The bill for April 10-12 included Ashbourne's animals, dogs and arithmetic pony; Roberts and McCune, banjoists opening with "The Post and Peasant" overture and violin and banjo duets; Dave Austin and Wm. Stuart in "Wedding Morning" sketch, full of action and comedy; Helen Page & Co. in a comedy sketch, showing the attempts of a young amateur actress to substitute for the leading lady of a stock company, with ludicrous results, but with a pleasing finish. Patsy Doyle with his assortment of merry quips told in his usual quaint manner, topped off by Ida Dunn. The Mike Kroyon troupe of crooks contributed a clever act, the little lady doing foot juggling while balancing herself laying on her back on the slackwire; one of the troupe jumped up a slight of stairs on his head. Juggling and acrobatics completed the act.

"The Well-Sick Man" and "Tommy's Attonement" were the pictures, and "Daddy has a Sweetheart" was the illustrated vocal contribution.

Murray Hill (Fred Waldman, mgr.)—Two Girls this week. Winning Widows next. Miner's Eighth Avenue (E. D. Miner, mgr.)—High Life in Burlesque this week. Merry Maidens next. Loew's Avenue B (S. N. Kahn, mgr.)—Vaudeville and motion pictures.

HAMMERSTEIN'S.

(WM. HAMMERSTEIN, MGR.)

The fact that the season in the downstairs theatre is drawing to a close, and that the theatrical season, locally, is on the wane, has not caused any diminution in the giving of long bills which come nearly to giving two shows at each performance at the "Corner."

Preparations are already under way for the roof garden season, and much thought is being expended in securing attractions that will furnish entertainment during the hot season.

The week brings the return to this stage of Bert French and Alice Ellis, the dancers who created quite a sensation for some weeks earlier in this season in their "Rouge et Noir" specialty. Their present dance is entitled "The Vampire," and founded on Kipling's famous poem. The dance tells no story or points no moral, unless we may infer that the seductive wiles of a woman leads to a man's downfall.

Going down the long bill of acts, they comprise the following list of high class entertainers: John C. Rice and Nellie Cohen, in one of the best sketches in their repertoire, "The Path of the Primrose." In this sketch the admirable talent of Mr. Rice is brought into full play, and they are a popular couple here.

James Thornton did his specialty and was greeted with a burst of welcoming applause that made the house shake. His voice was weak, but he got by nicely.

McWaters and Tyson gave their first presentation here of their new musical comedy skit. (See New Acts in this column.)

Lambert gave his impersonations of musical masters in his usual fine style. His act is surely one of the ordinary.

Hoy and Lee, the "Hebrew Jesters," told their stories, and of course, the laughs came in plenty, but it was their half dozen parody songs that got them by in due shape, and they left the big audience demanding more of their songs.

McDevitt, Kelly and Lucy were all to the mercy in their comedy skit, and as their act had "won out" at other visits here, there was no trouble in adding another success to those gone before.

Mae West, the popular singing comedienne, put her songs over nicely, and her friends in the audience were bound that her efforts did not lack for the applause they merited.

Mosier, Hayes and Mosier, in their hazardous and fancy riding feats upon the "cyclotron" here of the newest riding and carrying wheel act now before the public. They work easily and gracefully, and won their usual approval.

Kate Watson, as the "Truly Rural Girl," deserves credit not only for her faithful depiction of the country girl, but the entire idea of her act is an excellent one.

She started off slowly on Monday, but they were with her strongly long before the finish of her act.

The Jugglers Troupe gave their high class work, and they were with their dancers, and they perform with a neatness and surety that is most agreeable to the spectator.

Redford and Winchester got their usual quota of laughs with their comedy juggling. Callan and Callan started the show in songs and dancing, and they were with them.

Edgar Berger followed in his expert acrobatic act, and Al. Leonhardt closed the long bill in a comedy juggling offering.

OLD TIME.

COLONIAL.

(SAM TAUBER, MGR.)

There was a capacity house Monday afternoon, April 14, which voiced its unqualified approval of the very excellent vaudeville bill served up by "Smiling" Sam Tauber, the "Beau Brummel" of variety managers.

After the usual entertaining overture by Julius Levensberg's Orchestra of harmonists, the Robert De Mont Trio started things off pleasantly with a tony-toppy acrobatic act of great merit. Emily Darrel and Charley Conway showed excellent taste in the matter of dancing, and their Southern melodies over with great success.

McConnell and Simpson offered their latest laughing act, entitled "The Right Girl." It is based on mistaken identity, and while thin in plot and weak in plausible situations, regaled the audience with the cleverness of the players. McConnell and Simpson are not doing themselves justice with their present vehicle.

Marion and Jessie Standish, two comely young ladies, pleased with several vocal numbers. These people are lively workers, and they perform with a neatness and surety that is most agreeable to the spectator.

Clark and Bergman, heading the pretentious tabloid musical comedy, "The Trained Nurses," carried the same to success. Henry Bergman is a wonder on his feet, a clever light comedian, and without possessing a good singing voice. Clark, a cute little blonde, assisted Bergman in a convincing fashion in several double numbers. The act closed the first part with many curtains.

After intermission Joe Humphries announced Willingham would display his prowess in the Japanese art of Jiu Jitsu. Ringham certainly is a skillful artist in his line, as he succeeded in throwing his two opponents in less than five minutes each.

Swor and Mack presented their standard impersonations of real Southern darkeys, and comedy stepping. They were a hit in a hard spot.

Kitty Gordon, the headline attraction, was next. She sang three numbers from her musical comedy repertoire, being assisted by a "plant" in a box in the past. Miss Gordon was immense on appearance, but her numbers might be strengthened.

Frank Carter and Isabelle d'Armand in "Bright Bits," including dancing, singing, piano and travesty, pleased in a difficult spot. The headline act, the Loretta Twins, two girls and two boys, performed the usual routine feats on the horizontal bars, over a trampoline arrangement. A triple somersault by one of the girls is a "thriller" used in closing.

The "talking" pictures closed with the "Musical Blacksmith."

PROCTOR'S TWENTY-THIRD STREET.

(WILLIAM A. MATTHEWS, MGR.)

A better and more evenly balanced bill could not be found to surpass the one that Manager Billy Matthews ushered in the latter half of last week with at this house, and Thursday, April 10, the usual capacity audience was in evidence. There was also a notable better class list of photoplays to hamper with the vaudeville bill, thanks to the knowledge of Manager Matthews in having not neglected that end of what managers of this class of variety theatres should know.

Austin and Carvin, a real cute girl and a man, opened the bill. Not that they are an "opener," in the sensitive part of the word, as they are a couple of warden shoe dancers whose ability with the clogs would not be handicapped in any spot on a bill. They just danced, certainly know how, and were heartily appreciated by this usual "cold" gathering down here.

Frank Lee Marx tipped over the dope also, for he scored a nice little hit with his banjo playing.

Then the Woods Comedy Four, two men and two women, offered an old comedy sketch, "A Mixed Affair," in a new way. It's all about how a married couple, trying to keep from each other each and every married before, were exposed when the wife's son and the husband's daughter arrive. A general mix-up occurs, but is finally straightened out to everyone's satisfaction, and they closed with a musical selection on "brass and string."

Mr. Lee sang several songs of his own composition, and each were worthy of applause. His assistants proved capable in everything they did and gave an even performance.

Dainty and beautiful Sally Fisher, fresh from a successful run in musical comedy, sang several songs, two of which were especially written for her, and was one of the biggest hits on the program. Her best offering was "You Are the One and Only Man For Me," a song that suited her to perfection. She used about eight verses of this song, and changes her costume for each one.

Fields and Lewis giving their greatest success, "The Mystery of the Handsome Cab," cleaned up. The act seems funnier than ever, and caused roars of laughter. Much new material has been added, making it one of vaudeville's biggest features.

Joe C. Smith, the originator of the turkey trot, assisted by Viola Hart, demonstrated many styles of dances. They feature a waltz called "Ideal," which is a rather dreamy affair and was well liked.

Ed. Gallagher and Joe Fields gave that old stand-by, "The Battle of Bay Run," and got as many laughs out of it as when it was first produced.

George Felix, assisted by the graceful Barry Sisters, were seen in "The Boy Next Door," which has served them for some time. It met with the usual success.

Jimmy Morgan, Bill Bailey and Betty Morgan, in songs, piano, violin and banjo and a host of other things, in a half hour show, but despite the handicap took a half dozen bows at the conclusion of their work performance.

Ergott and his clever Hilpittians gave their remarkable risley act, and in the closing position held them seated on the floor.

Miss Orford with a troupe of elephants gave a new performance. See new acts. Jack.

KEITH'S UNION SQUARE.

(W. F. ROGERS, MGR.)

The bill at Keith's Fourteenth Street house for week of April 14 is fully up to the standard and long established here. It contained the names of several who made their New York reputations right in this historic vaudeville temple and at Tony Pastor's, further down the street.

Houers and Le Prince, two clever male acrobats of the real old-fashioned school, opened the show, and so doing took three well merited curtain calls. The "talkies" were next, showing a synchronized light and sound version of the "Musical Blacksmith," also a farcical skit, both of which were enjoyed by the audience. Lambert presented their protean act, doing several English and American types in song and story.

Willard Simms registered his usual riotous success with "Flinders' Furnished Flat." He is capably assisted by Marguerite Lactor.

Juliet? showed her versatility in character studies, comically handled. She was at her best in the Scotch numbers. Her efforts met with hearty appreciation. The Orefos Manon Opera Company tackled grand opera selections of the week. They were liked by the audience.

Then Donovan and McDonald presented their realistic "Tad" conversational skit. They have a firm grasp on the characters they portray and rank with any in the business as real dyed-in-the-wool Irish types.

Bert Plushkins, the Broadway comedian, is in a class by himself. Bert cleaned up one of the biggest hits of the bill, following the whole show and putting it over to a Fourth of July finish.

Hernoga's stallions, an exceedingly well trained and handsomely groomed troupe of horses, closed the show. These wonderful animals are a delight to gaze upon. They answer the slightest command of the trainer with almost human understanding. A great closing number. House capacity. Harry.

Park (Robert E. Irwin, mgr.)—The second week of vaudeville at this house began Monday with a good house in attendance. Ina Claire is in her second week and she sang some new songs, but made no addition to her list of imitations. James J. Norton was added, but did not appear. Others on the bill included Marie Brothers, Guy Brothers, Sager Midgely and company, Sam Lee, The Great Gerard, English and Johnson (second week), Fitch Cooper, the Temple Quartet and the Aerial Lesters. The management has installed a woman's orchestra, twice, with a leader.

Proctor's Fifty-eighth Street (F. P. Proctor, mgr.)—Vaudeville and motion pictures. Bill for 14-16: Umbolitz Bros., Rose De Young, Lillian Deane and company, Benson and Bell, Hanley and Jarvis, and "At the Seashore." For 17-20: "At the Seashore," Austin and Carvin, Mark Sullivan, Anderson Twins, Cleary and Tracey and MacCarthy and Major.

Loew's Delancey Street (Bernard Frank, mgr.)—Vaudeville and motion pictures. Broadway—Motion pictures.

Hijon—Motion pictures of Paul J. Rainey's African hunt began the 30th, and last week at this house April 14.

In addition there was also produced for the first time on any stage a satire of the current crook craze, in one act, by Robert H. Davis, entitled "The Guilty Conscience."

HARRIET ADAMS IN BROOKLYN.

Mrs. Harriet Chalmers Adams opened at the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, N. Y., Saturday, April 12, to a full house, presenting her travelogue, "Andean Travel and Adventure," illustrated by excellent pictures. Mrs. Adams took her audience away from the beaten track into a region seldom traveled by white women, and presents many new and interesting facts, as well as new scenes. Mrs. Adams has talked to packed houses in every large city where she has appeared. Her lectures are interesting and full of facts. Her professional friends who are contemplating a visit to South America would do well to hear this course of lectures and see the really wonderful motion pictures she presents.

The following travelogues will be presented at the Academy of Music, April 26, "From Patagonia to Paraguay," May 3, "From the Amazon to the Orinoco," May 10, "Through the Caribbean Countries."

ST. LOUIS FAVORS 10-20-30.

The ten and twenty cent vaudeville houses in St. Louis, Mo., have controlled the theatrical patronage the past season, as evidenced by the building of several elaborate and expensive houses, which are the Empress, new Grand Opera House, new Grand Central and numerous smaller houses throughout the city. It has been reported by the local newspapers that the Garrick and Century will close their doors for all time at the end of this season. These two houses have been in operation for some years, and have always up to the present season showed good results. The Century is connected with the Olympic, and is under the management of W. D. Cane, the Garrick, one of the Shubert houses, being operated under the management of Melville Stoltz.

CONE IS MUCH ALIVE.

Spencer H. Cone, who is associated with the Emergency Play Bureau, in the Knickerbocker Theatre Building, who was reported as dead in local papers last week, is much alive and in a robust state.

"I'm used to it all now, but gracious, I'm sore about being reported as seventy years old. I'm only fifty-three, and I'm Kate Waxton's brother. Set me right on the age and report me as saying the same as Mark Twain said when he was reported dead, that the report of my death was greatly exaggerated."

Mr. Cone explained that on April 8 a distant relative of his, of exactly the same name, died, and he believes the report that he was dead came about that way.

WILLIAMSON ACTS AGAIN.

It is interesting to know that after fifteen years retirement from acting, James C. Williamson, the well known actor-manager, made his re-appearance in public on the stage of Her Majesty's Theatre, Sydney, Australia, on Feb. 22, at a special testimonial performance—the Scott appeal matinee—when many Australian celebrities responded to the noble cause. The entire occasion proved a memorable one, but the re-appearance of James C. Williamson and his well known rendition of Dion Boucicault's "Kerry" was an event in itself, especially as it was entirely unlooked for.

"LONESOME PINE" PRINCIPALS WED.

"The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" led into matrimony in Honolulu, N. Y., on April 7, when Geo. Bancrofts and Edna G. Brothers, principals in "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" Co., which played at the Star Theatre last week, applied to Clerk Riley, in the City Hall, for a marriage license, then appeared before Judge Noonan, in the City Court, where the solemn knot was tied.

FROHMAN ANNOUNCES PLANS.

Charles Frohman sailed April 12 on the Olympic, for his annual season abroad, during which he will visit London, Berlin and Vienna, to supervise productions of his plays in the former city and look for new plays for next season in the others.

Mr. Frohman said: "I will go to London in the first place to make new productions at my Duke of York and other theatres. I have arranged with David Belasco to produce 'Years of Discretion' and 'The Woman' in London. Among the other American works I will do there are 'The Conspiracy' and the new play that Augustus Thomas is now finishing."

"My trip abroad will also include visits to Paris, Vienna and Berlin. I shall go to Berlin for a new production in which I am interested, and of which you will hear more later. This new production will occur in May."

"I have completed the plans for devoting one of my New York theatres next season entirely to 'An Evening with J. M. Barrie's One Act Plays.'"

"This season has demonstrated that the playing public has said 'good-bye' to that type of play that does not begin at the beginning, but begins with a long introduction or 'preparation' before its real beginning. The days of 'preparation' in playwriting are over. Plays fall oftentimes because they suffer from too much 'preparation.' The real playwrights of today never give a thought to 'preparation,' but get quickly to their subjects and compel their characters to accomplish all necessary 'preparation' in situations. Speed in getting to the heart of the subject has become such a national taste that it amounts to a national demand. Today the author who jumps quickest into his subject wins quickest. I am glad to say that in this regard American plays, with their swift dialogue that deals only with the actual plot and their rapid action, are winning."

"I have just returned from an extensive trip through the West, which gave me the chance to visit and make definite plans for the principal people under my management now appearing in the West. I have arranged that Maude Adams will continue playing 'Peter Pan' uninterruptedly until after the next Christmas holidays. Then Miss Adams produces J. M. Barrie's new plays, which will keep her at the Empire Theatre for many months."

"Should we settle upon 'Much Ado About Nothing' for John Drew, Mr. Drew is eager that the entire cast be American and the production American made."

"In the West I finished the rehearsals of Billie Burke, in 'The Amazons,' by taking the entire cast West with me. The Empire Theatre will be closed for ten days for its Spring cleaning. And then Miss Burke, as Tommy Belturbet, the girl who grew up as a boy, comes there on April 28 for her first appearance on that stage since she made her American debut there with John Drew, in 'My Wife.'"

CANNOT DISCRIMINATE.

Gov. Sulzer has signed the bill which amends the Civil Rights Law. It provides that no hotel keeper shall display, post or circulate any notice to the effect that any person, on account of race, creed or color, is unwelcome as a guest.

The provisions of the new law are general. They affect the owners, proprietors or managers of any place of public accommodation. The places included are: hotels, conducted for transient guests or for those seeking health or rest; restaurants, eating houses, public conveyances on land or water, bath houses, barber shops, theaters or music halls.

The production of any public notice announcing that accommodation will be refused, or guests made unwelcome on account of race, creed or color is made presumptive evidence in any civil or criminal action that the notice was authorized.

Violations of the law subject the offender to a fine of from $100 to $500, to be recovered by the person aggrieved, or to a person to whom the cause of action has been assigned. A violation also made a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of from $100 to $500, or by imprisonment from thirty to ninety days, or both.

MISS CUNNINGHAM SCORES.

One of the features of the concert at the Winter Garden last Sunday night was the singing of Cecil Cunningham, late prima donna with Henry W. Savage. Miss Cunningham sang two ballads, the first a showy number called "Heart of Hearts," and for a second she chose a beautiful Irish ballad called "In the Shadow of the Dear Old Blarney Stone," a new song, with which Andrew Mack has made a phenomenal success on the Orpheum Circuit. Miss Cunningham was a pronounced hit at the Winter Garden.

JUMP 1,500 MILES.

"Billy, the Kid" Co. jumped from Rutland, Vt., to Memphis, Tenn., last week, a distance of 1,500 miles. The company of twelve people traveled Friday and Saturday, and opened with a matinee in Memphis. The reason for the big jump was kept a secret.

FUHER TRIO LIKED.

The organization of the Fuher Trio promises to become one of the especially interesting features of Los Angeles' musical life. Its first public appearance last week at the Ebell Clubhouse, in that city, was successful.

BURLESQUE NEWS

NEW BURLESQUE CIRCUIT.

OPPOSITION TO THE COLUMBIA CO.

All of the producing burlesque managers who were left out when the Empire Circuit was taken over by the Columbia Amusement Company had a special meeting on Friday, April 11, in the offices of Counihan & Shannon, in the Fitzgerald Building, Broadway and Forty-third Street. The meeting was held behind closed doors, but it was learned that it had for its purpose the formation of a burlesque circuit to oppose the Columbia Amusement Co.

Among the men present was Hugo Shutte, of the newly formed Central Burlesque Circuit, of Detroit, Mich. He came from his home town especially to attend the meeting. Mr. Shutte said that it was his intention to swing his towns and houses to any burlesque circuit that could provide a full season's work. Counihan & Shannon are the New York representatives of the Central Burlesque Circuit.

FRANK ABBOTT'S BENEFIT.
Miner's Empire, in Newark, N. J., on Sunday evening, April 6, resembled a flower garden, with a setting of a large audience of Newark's prominent citizens, among whom were many women in fullest evening dress. The occasion was Manager Frank Abbott's annual testimonial, and it was a big success. Among the artists who appeared were: Frankie Heath and Harry Levan, Matt Kennedy and Mona Raymond, Steppe and Martin, Virginia Kelsey, Belle Dixon, Mlle. Lesch's troupe of lions, the Windy City Trio, Lonnie Follett, Bartoli and company, Southie and Senna, Dorothy Koelme, Saranski, the violinist; Jos. Mevl, Charles B. Ward and several others. Henry P. Dixon acted as master of ceremonies.

MIDNIGHT MAIDENS IN FLOOD.
Bill Clark writes: "Just a few lines to let you know that the Midnight Maidens was the only Eastern show that was caught in the red floods at Cincinnati and Louisville, Ky. I had to give up the Saturday night performance to make St. Louis by the way of Indianapolis, and got there six hours late. We came from Cincinnati to Louisville, Ky., by the L. & N. R. The wheels of the engine and cars were deep in water for three miles. People East can't imagine how bad the floods really were. I never want to see any nights like it again. Houses under water to the roofs."

WHAT BECOMES OF MINER'S?
Now that the old landmark of the show business, Miner's Eighth Avenue, will pass by the hands of the consolidation of the Eastern and Western wheels, Henry C. Miner has not given out, up to the present time, what the policy will be. But in all probabilities vaudeville and pictures will take the place of the two-day burlesque attractions. It was rumored that a well known circus man had made an offer for the house to be used as a dime museum, but, upon investigating the rumor at the Miner Estate offices, it was positively denied. Nothing definite had been decided upon.

GEO. MINER PRESENTS LOVING CUP.
Tom Matthews, wrestling instructor of the Pennant A. C. and house special at Miner's Bronx, met Mike Wallard, of the Bronx, in a specially arranged match last Thursday night. Three hundred and fifty members of the Pennant A. C. attended the show, and George Miner, in behalf of the Miner Estate, presented the club with a beautiful silver loving cup. Bull Montana and George Bothner wrestled until 12 o'clock without a fall.

A ROMANCE SHATTERED.
Louis F. Trautmann, the Cincinnati salesman, who married Kitty Bennett, of the Moulin Rouge Co., after a few hours' acquaintance, was granted a divorce by Judge Warner, of Cincinnati. A telegram from the wife that she did not know she had been married until she was told about it next morning was introduced in evidence. A Newport (Ky.) magistrate lent himself to the farce.

HERKIMER WILL HAVE BURLESQUE.
The stages of a circuit of New York and Pennsylvania cities will be provided with burlesque by a combination of Dan E. McMahon, of the Gaity, Albany, and Philip J. Fisher, in the Philip J. Fisher Burlesque Circuit. Forty-five cities are named in the two States. No announcement is made of any of the companies who will play the time.

MILTON BERRICK BACK ON THE JOB.
Milton W. Berrick, formerly with May Howard Burlesquers, will be seen in advance of one of the Columbia Amusement attractions next season.

THE GIRLS FROM RENO will play three extra weeks, in Buffalo and Brooklyn, closing May 17.

Among those present were: Harry Strouse, Sim Williams, Dr. Carl Lothrop, of Boston; Wm. J. Counihan, Charles Franklin, Felix Isman, Howard Kelly, of the National Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa., and many others.

After many discussions it was shown that theatres could be secured in every town where the Columbia Amusement Company had houses, with the exception of Pittsburgh. When conditions warranted, a theatre will be erected there. A new theatre will probably be built in the Bronx. All the old show title will be retained, and the shows will be offered at prices of ten, twenty, thirty, and fifty cents.

After the meeting Mr. Shutte left for his home in Detroit, but will return next week when the towns and productions will be considered. The name of the new burlesque circuit will also be decided upon at this meeting.

BENEFIT IN NEWARK.
Miner's Empire, Newark, turned over to Secretary Reilly, of the Board of Trade, the sum of $422.59, the past week, as the proceeds of the benefit performance and sale of flowers by the girls of the Hig Review company for the Flood Sufferers' Fund.

HOWIE-WHITEY BENEFIT MAY 11.
Frank Howie, the popular stage manager of Miner's People's Theatre, and William C. White, the advertising man for the same house, will have a benefit May 11 at the Bowery house. Many well known acts have volunteered their services for the occasion.

HARRY M. STROUSE'S TABLOID.
Harry M. Strouse, manager of the Lady Buccaneers, will present Steppe and Martin in a musical tabloid, entitled "The Girls from the Folies," at the close of the burlesque season. The act has been booked solid.

FRANKIE MARTIN, this season's soubrette with the Crusoe Girls, has signed a three year contract with Ben Welch.

WASH MARTIN is back in New York town, after a successful season in Philadelphia, Pa. Joe J. Frazee left Max Spiegel's Winning Widow Co. and joined the Yankee Doodle Girls Co. for the balance of season. He is doing very nicely and had some good offers for coming season.

THE case against the members of Watson's Burlesquers was called April 10 in Cincinnati. As none of the defendants could appear, owing to the show being in Omaha, the case went by default.

MOLLIE WILLIAMS' CO.

Columbia, New York, April 14.
After a long tour, Mollie Williams and her company returned to New York, 14, in "The Queen of Bohemia," regarding which show local audiences said many nice things at the beginning of the season. The company remains almost as it was then.

Miss Williams, in the title role, is the same dashing lover and all round good fellow, who, in the first act, showed the Rubes a thing or two, and started them on their sight-seeing tour of New York, as shown in the second. She wore a number of exquisite gowns, and was at her best in her singing and acting on Monday.

Harry Sheppell, "In Dutch," as Adam Nutt, brought his original methods into play very effectively, and was a real laughmaker.

George F. Hayes, as Sir, the constable, contributed a real character, and his work was most favorably commented upon in all its phases. His expression, while resisting the advances of the Queen, were well studied and carried out.

M. A. Turner demonstrated his ability as a straight by his excellent singing and acting as Mr. Bluff, the fly New Yorker. Cliff Worman, as the "Hick" son, and later as the dandy in New York, was another valuable member, also there with the voice. Mabel Irvin was a piquant Hazel Nutt, and Mae Meek did service as Sir's daughter. Madge Darrell played a large character bit as Mrs. Nutt, and gave a good performance.

The chorus included: Emma Gouchard, May Allen, Ruth Maitland, Lillie Clark, Edna Bristow, May Connelly, Ollie Marry, Caroline Maywood, Anna Maywood, Margie Franks, Dora Davis, Eva Magnan, May Lane, May Hahn, Dot Earl, Cleo Kue, Margie Smith, Caroline Carr, Patsy Linnford, Marie Melville, Lillian Barnett, Marie Russell, and George Edwards, a "bunch" of uniformly pretty and well shaped young women, who looked well in dresses or male suits, and worked well in all the numbers.

"My Summum Girl," by Mr. Worman and Miss Meek, got several encores, also "You'll Tell Me What to Do," by Mr. Turner and Miss Irvin. Miss Williams made several changes in her opening song, "I'm All the Rage," introducing her Anna Hill imitation. "I Want Something to Play With" formed an enjoyable interlude between Miss Williams and Mr. Hayes. The trio composed of Messrs. Sheppell, Hayes and Worman, put over several harmonious selections, including: "Cowboy Joe," and "The Old Mill Stream."

"Songs of Our Childhood Days" brought forward some of the best of the repertoire, by Miss Williams and the other principals. "Tennessee Moon" was the joint effort of Miss Williams and Mr. Turner, and the "You Did" finish, gracefully brought down the curtain.

"Hello, New York Town," by Mr. Worman, opened the second act, followed by "Are You a Girl Who's a Real Good Fellow?" led by Mr. Turner, with half of the girls looking cute in the male full dress get-up. After a bit of comedy with the O'Brien invitation, Harry Sheppell managed to gain admission into Bohemia, disguised as a waiter.

In the third act the scene of the table were set. Dot Earle sang a drinking song, and Ruth Maitland had to answer several encores for "All Night Long." Miss Williams dashed on in a nice black gown and tights, and warbled "Nautie" and "Bohemia." Mr. Sheppell parodied several hits, including "Ragtime Violin," "Bumble-Bee" and "Not Me," with good encore effect. The Bohemian trio, Frank Corbett, Sam Shepherd and Walter Donagan, cabaretted so well that they had to sing seven songs and bow often, even obliging Miss Williams to invite them out again, which she did very gracefully.

"Parisienne" gave Miss Williams some more chance to shrug her shoulders and talk tight, and for good work with Messrs. Worman, Sheppell and Hayes, in the dancing finish, to each encore chorus.

"Girls, Girls, Girls," by Mr. Turner: "I Love You, Dear," by Miss Earl, and "Don't Take My Loving Man Away," by Miss Williams, formed a sort of a musical sketch with Miss Williams appearing in a most fetching spangled gown. The finale was another hummer, with most of the girls in spangled gowns to match, and the entire company peeping out between the suspended spangled streamers. The money bag comedy, with Miss Williams as the gainer and other good bits by the principals kept the laughs well going, satisfying the demands for comedy as the members had supplied the sights and music.

Executive staff for Max Spiegel: P. B. Isaac, manager; Louis Gilbert, business manager; Harry Sheppell, stage manager; Chas. Kuebler, musical director; Tom Gresham, stage carpenter; Arthur White, electrician; George Lehman, properties; Mrs. Maywood, wardrobe.

LADY BUCCANEERS AT THE PEOPLE'S.

The Lady Buccaneers opened at Miner's People's Theatre, upon the last leg of their season's run. A good crowd was in attendance at the opening performance Monday matinee, April 14.

The Golden Crooks will close at the Star, Brooklyn, May 5.

Gus Doss, the popular doorkeeper at the Columbia, New York, was burned out at his residence on St. Nicholas Avenue early Sunday morning, April 13, and lost all his household effects and clothing.

MANAGER J. HERBERT MACK returned to active duty at the Columbia April 14.

The Senate, at Albany, passed the bill providing that a portable booth, for temporary exhibitions, may be used upon approval of the proper authorities. Concrete, hollow tile or other fireproof material may be used.

NEW YORK CITY.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

(SAMUEL F. KINGSTON, MGR.)

The Academy of Music Stock Company has returned to this house, and opened Monday, April 14, with "The Lily," playing to large attendance.

This is the first time we have had an opportunity to see this Belasco success as given by this company, and each one in the cast did good work.

Theodore Friebeus, the leading man, portrayed the character of Armand in a most admirable manner. When he appeared on the stage he stood for at least five minutes bowing to the audience in answer to their welcome.

Frisclia Knowles, that clever leading lady, played opposite Mr. Friebeus as Christine, and she certainly gave an admirable performance. She also took several bows on her appearance, and was the recipient of numerous floral pieces. That Miss Knowles is very popular was attested by the fact that you could hear a "here she is" all through the house when she made her appearance.

Julian Noris, as Huzar, was well received. Marie Curtis was well liked for her work. Others among the cast are: Lydia Knott, Angela McCull, Roy Torrey, Richard Lyell, George S. Fisher, James J. Ryan and Floyd Femimore; all of these persons were well received.

The house should have no trouble in regaining its former patronage of stock lovers with such a company as an attraction.

Samuel F. Kingston, the popular manager of the house, is still on deck, and his always genial face will be welcomed by the throngs who make this house their favorite show place.

"The Greyhound" is the production announced for next week.

WM. MORRIS' WONDERLAND.

(E. HOLT, MGR.)

William Morris put on one of the best bills that he has offered since he opened the Wonderland, and a very good attendance was on hand the first performance, April 14. Robin, a comedy juggler, opened the bill with an exceptionally clever juggling act, which went over nicely.

Reinlander's pigs was a novelty offering, and his troupe of trained porkers kept the audience in good humor throughout the entire act, the pigs do a number of good tricks, and the chute, with the porkers doing the slide down an incline, was a big mirth provoker and a fine closer.

Fennell and Tyson have a very good singing and dancing act that kept the audience guessing for some time as to the identity of the female partner, who deceived with a clever portrayal in male attire.

Crosby, Barton and Swanwood have a combination bicycle and dancing act that pleased.

Granville and Mack, delineators of Italian characters, in a singing and talking act, using a monkey and an organ, were a great big hit. Their act is nicely put together, their talk is very funny, and they have a way of putting over the stuff that makes them stand out.

The Department Store Girl Soprano, got across nicely in three songs.

Sweet Sixteen Girls, four in number, sang popular and semi-classics in good voice and scored.

Stapp, Allman and King have a very good singing and musical specialty that was up to the mark, and they scored a hit.

Wheeler and Pearl, late of the Tanguay Show, Texas-Tommed to rag music in approved style.

May Ward made her usual tremendous hit with a number of popular ditties, and it is needless to say she was a young riot.

The Kinecolor pictures were a big feature.

AMERICAN MUSIC HALL.

(CHARLES S. POTSDAN, MGR.)

This house played to its full capacity at the matinee on Monday. The bill for the first half of the week was one that was well selected.

Anita, a violinist, has a great deal of technique, and rendered her numbers with a great amount of feeling; her costuming is very neat. She pleased.

Bandy and Fields followed with some novel eccentric dancing. The male member of the act is decidedly clever with his "kicks." They went fairly well.

Katherine Kline, "The Irish Thrush," can certainly put over Irish melodies to perfection. She sang several numbers and took a great many bows.

Selbit's Spirit Paintings is an act that is both mystifying and pleasing, and held the attention of the folks in front from the start to the finish of the act.

"Hats off" to Watson and Flynn, that versatile singing team. For clean-cut comedy and excellent delivery, both Mr. Watson and Miss Flynn are "there." They make three very nice changes and, what is more, stopped the show, the audience applauding for several minutes after the act was over.

"Babies a la Carte," with Dorothy Rogers, is full of comedy, and pleased.

"High Life in Jail" went over with the same crash as it always does.

Arthur Rigby gave one of his monologues in his entertaining style.

Burton and Lovers are a very clever team. The male member of the act drew a great many laughs. The woman's dance, entitled "Love and Temptation," is one that will please any audience.

Several members of the "Sunshine Girl" company were present at the matinee.

FLASHES AND DASHES.

"REBECCA OF SUNNYBROOK FARM" closed April 12 at Brooklyn.

MAYNE LYNN has just closed with Douglas Fairbanks in "Hawthorne of the U. S. A." He and his wife, Annie Hughes (late of Lewis Waller's company), will return to London May 3, to appear in vaudeville there.

WALLACE MUNRO closes his season, in "The Typhoon," after its engagement at the West End next week.

WALLACE MUNRO blew into New York on Saturday morning ahead of "The Woman," and in the afternoon boarded a train for the Pacific Coast to pave the way for Frances Starr, who is starting in San Francisco, in "The Case of Becky."

"ALL ABOARD" is the title of Lew Fields' new Summer show, which will start rehearsals shortly and will open at Atlantic City. Then to the Forty-fourth Street Roof.

HELEN LOWELL has finished her tour in "The Red Petticoat," and will rest at her home in Northport, L. I., until next season. She will then appear under the Shubert management, in a new musical comedy.

THE one hundredth performance of "The Honeymoon Express," at the Winter Garden, will be given on April 23. The two hundred and fiftieth consecutive performance of "Fanny's First Play," at William Collier's Comedy Theatre, took place last Thursday.

MOLLIE KING, who has recently been in vaudeville with her sister Nellie, has been placed under a long term contract by the Messrs. Shubert.

It is now officially announced that Sam Bernard will continue all next season in "All for the Ladies," the musical comedy with which he is now on tour, and which recently closed a highly successful run in New York, at the Lyric Theatre.

GRACE LA RUE has been engaged to appear in a Shubert musical production next year.

"THE PASSING SHOW OF 1912," which is now on tour and which is proving to be one of the most genuine musical hits of the year, will head for the Pacific Coast after playing engagements in Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia. The same cast will be retained.

"THE MERRY COUNTERS," after a run which began in August, 1912, closed its season last Saturday in New Haven. The production, which was brought to this country from England, will remain here for use next year.

OLIVER MOROSCO's production of Louis F. Gottschalk and Frank Baum's big musical fantasy, "The Tik Tok Man of Oz," will remain at the Cort Theatre, San Francisco, two more weeks, after which it will begin an engagement in Chicago that will carry it through the Summer. The New York presentation of the play will take place in September.

MARGARET ILLINGTON continues to attract capacity audiences on the road in Edward J. Bowes' production of Charles Kenyon's gripping drama, "Kindling."

OCTAVIA BROCKE, of the "Oh! Oh! Delphine" Company playing at the New Amsterdam, was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce April 12, from George C. Burke, formerly with "Naughty Marietta."

MARGARET SAYRE, Roland Rushon, John Chulow and Frederick B. Seaton have been added to the cast that will appear in Oliver Morosco and Charles L. Wagner's production of J. Hartley Manners' dramatization of Jeffrey Farnol's novel, "The Money Moon," which will receive its premiere at Powers' Theatre, Chicago, on the 27th of this month. Mr. Manners is personally conducting the rehearsals.

OWING to an interesting condition over which she has no control, Lillian Russell will confine her vaudeville tour in the Keith theatres to four weeks. She will open at the Colonial on April 21, and then play Pittsburg, Philadelphia and Buffalo. She will sing selections from the hits of her musical career, and give a short lecture, illustrated by Kinecolor, on how to retain love and live one hundred happy years.

THE box office of Wallack's Theatre, New York, now closed, will be opened on Thursday, for the sale of seats for the farewell performance of The Irish Players, to be given on Monday, April 21, at 2.15, for the benefit of the Dublin Art Gallery. In the meantime, seats may be ordered by mail.

GRACE CONNELLY-WILKS is in room 5, St. Luke Hospital, Fargo, N. Dak., where she has undergone two serious operations. At last reports she was doing nicely. She would be pleased to hear from friends.

J. FRED HOLLOWAY, who played the athletic Utah senator in Colonel Savage's production of "What Ails You?" thinks he has found a cure in "The Medicine Man," a farcical sketch by Jean C. Hayes, which he will soon produce in vaudeville. Mr. Holloway will be assisted by five people.

MARC KLAU, of Messrs. Klaw & Erlanger, sailed on the S. S. Olympic Saturday. He will spend some time in London and a few weeks on the continent.

JESSIE BONSTELLE played the part of Hannah, in "Little Women," at the Majestic, Brooklyn, April 14, in place of Lillian Dix, who failed to reach the theatre in time.

THE Zoro Operatic Co. opened a season at the Thiald, New York, April 14, in "Aida." Josiah Zoro directs the venture.

CHARLES KLEIN, the playwright, will sail for London, April 17, where he has decided to make his home hereafter.

THE Court Theatre, in London, Eng., will be taken over by the Actresses' Franchise League, next October, and will thereafter be conducted solely by the feminine sex. Gertrude Elliott, who is also Mrs. Forbes-Robertson, is the organization's president.

EDWARD GILGEE, who is assistant press agent of the Kinecolor Company, will do the press work for the Park Theatre during its vaudeville career.

JULES MARTIN has a comedy drama play let up his sleeve that is going to cause a bit of excitement in the "two-a-day" houses in the near future. Its cast includes five "big money" people, so Mr. Martin can't afford to use much small time bookings. A recent showing proved it "a good one," and when the special scenery effects, etc., are properly adjusted, Jules should find comfort in his success.

LIBRET AND THAYER appeared at the big T. M. A. benefit at the Euclid Opera House, Cleveland, April 13.

JACK FLYNN is "grabbing for himself" some pretty big acts. Among these is G. Mollasos' "The Dance of the Violin." Mr. Mollasos himself is appearing in the act. Jack says he has several more big ones under cover.

OBSERVATIONS BY JOE HEPP

Live Tent Show News. Circus, Carnival, Wild West Gossip and Comment. Pertinent Paragraphs by our Special Correspondent.

I made a flying trip to New York City last week and had the pleasure of witnessing a performance of the Barnum & Bailey Greatest Show on Earth at Madison Square Garden. Some years ago I was identified with the Barnum & Bailey Show, and at that time thought that the extreme limit had been reached in the way of providing circus entertainment. After witnessing this season's offering at the Garden, I am convinced that great progress has been made.

The spectacle "Cleopatra" as presented with the B. & B. Show this season is certainly a wonderful affair, and were the curtain to fall upon the conclusion of this spectacular production and wind up the show, the folks who have paid the price of admission to the show could not complain. They would have their money's worth. The entire Barnum & Bailey big show program is one of merit. There is something to interest one all the time—a bewildering maze of unique performances, nicely adjusted and, altogether, offering an entertainment of exceptional magnitude. It is a pleasure to record big business at Madison Square Garden. The show certainly deserves heavy patronage. I am inclined to believe that the season under canvas will prove a prosperous one.

Stopping off at Philadelphia, on my return to Chicago, Wednesday night, 9, I witnessed the Two Bills Show, at Convention Hall. Without exaggeration, it is fair to say, that never in the history of Wild West exhibitions has such a pleasing picture been afforded the patrons of this form of entertainment as is presented by General W. F. Cody and Major Gordon W. Lillie, this season. The Convention Hall, in Philadelphia, is a vast amphitheatre, an audience which might comfortably fill other places of amusement does not seem so great in this big hall, but it is hardly possible that the Wild West and Far East exhibition could possibly be put on more effectively than in Philadelphia. The show opens with the Far East, and the scenic effects are great. During the course of the performance General W. F. Cody appears in the arena behind a pair of spanking sorrels, and with appropriate remarks introduces Major Gordon W. Lillie as his successor.

RHODES WITH GOLLMAR BROS.

Walter A. Rhodes, who has contracted with the Gollmar Bros. Circus to put on a No. 2 side show was a C. B. C. in Chicago, Saturday morning, 12, upon his arrival from the South. He visited the K. G. Barkoot Carnival organization at Winston-Salem, North Carolina, last week, and reported splendid business for this company.

Show is admirably equipped. An electrical band wagon is a big part of the feature, and the Russian troupe on horseback attracts a lot of attention. It would appear the Barkoot Show of 1913 is better in every way than ever before and a big season is anticipated. This week the show is at Roanoke, Va. Next week will play Norfolk and following that a week in Washington, D. C.

The Gollmar Bros. Circus will open the season of 1913 in Milwaukee, April 29, at the Coliseum for a week's engagement. Fred Gollmar was in Chicago last week closing up the final arrangements and expressed himself as highly pleased with the prospects for the tour which is to be inaugurated in the Cream City.

CRANDALL IN CHICAGO.

Harry E. Crandall, general agent of the Eschman European Shows, arrived in Chicago, Saturday morning, 12, and during a call at the Western Bureau of THE CLIPPER, recounted in an interesting manner the experiences of his advance brigade in the flooded districts. Mr. Crandall said: "We were detained for five days in Evansville, Ind., on account of the high water, and finally were routed out by trolley, boat and train. It was an experience such as comes to few showmen. True it is that as folks with the white tops have to overcome more or less irksome obstacles in the regular routine of our business, but to be enveloped in a sea of muddy waters, isolated from the world, is certainly an experience never to be forgotten."

According to Mr. Crandall it will be sometime before conditions in the Indiana and Ohio flooded country right themselves. The Eschman advance forces were delayed so that they were but three days in advance of the show, which was forced to double back on its route to Kentucky, to fill in an extra week, until the railroads were able to handle the show in Illinois. The floods have done the Eschman Shows a lot of money, but in spite of this decided drawback they will go on, and will play North as far as Minneapolis, where they will lay off for a week or ten days, to paint up and get the show in shape for the summer season, which will open about May 10, at West Minneapolis.

The Eschman Shows, according to Mr. Crandall, have had a very successful season so far, and big business for the balance of the tour, when normal conditions are resumed, is anticipated.

My friend, Bill Rice (W. G. P.), writes me from Hillsboro, Tex., under date of April 7: "Was certainly very glad to hear of the S. L. A. going to the front for the Wallace Circus folks. We carry thirty-five cessions. Ward's Marine Band of sixteen pieces furnishes the music, and the Rice & Dore Shows are transported on eighteen cars. We look for a very big season."

John Kane, who is in charge of the door leading to the dressing room of the Coliseum, where Ringling Brothers' Circus holds forth, has a wide acquaintance. He has occupied this position for five years, and has come to know almost everybody worth numbering among the circus friends. He is an affable, agreeable fellow, who fulfills the position in a diplomatic manner.

HARRY L. NEWTON WRITES.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., April 2, 1913. DEAR BUNCH.—Have discovered that everybody in Hot Springs has something the matter with them. If it isn't rheumatism it's something else—usually something else. I am somewhat timid about approaching strangers and, never having been introduced to said props, have only the word of others to go by. I know in Chicago I can live for a week on what a mere introduction would cost to one of Hot Springs' haughty landlords.

The styles in costumes never appear to vary here in the various bathing establishments. The prevailing attire consists of a rubber band and rusty key draped nonchalantly about the left arm, the other parts of your anatomy being left to the caprices of the vapid climate. A casual scrutiny of the bathers congregated will give one a line on their different personalities—there being nothing to obstruct said casual scrutiny except the articles referred to.

In some cities folks mingle with society. Here they mingle with your money. Have been in the habit of carrying a handkerchief in my right hip pocket and my bank roll in left hip pocket. They being placed thus to be handy in case of need, the right hand being more dexterous than the left, and the handkerchief the article I was called upon to use the more frequently of the two. Very well. On arriving in Hot Springs I was forced to switch positions of the articles, placing money in right hip pocket and handkerchief in left, so that the right hand could live up to its reputation. And the good right hand made good. The second day I left hankie home and carried bank roll unconcealed in right hook, permitting natives to imbibe with my money. They don't put you next as to how or where said appetite can be appeased. That seems to be one of Hot Springs' great little secrets.

I've heard it said, however, that for five or ten plunks per diem the proprietors of the Arlington, Park or Eastman Hotels will permit you to pose as one of their guests, and supply you with a 1913 model bed and something cute to eat. Personally, I cannot say. I am somewhat timid about approaching strangers and, never having been introduced to said props, have only the word of others to go by. DES MOINES HOUSEHOLD SHOW.

Louis W. Buckley, the well known promoter, and John Evans, manager of the Coliseum, Des Moines, Ia., have just closed the most successful Household Show in the history of the State, at Des Moines, for the Women's Club there.

Opening March 29, the exposition was continued till April 5, when a meeting of the exhibitors unanimously requested that it be kept open another week. This was not done on account of the various attractions, principal among which was the Ferris Band, being booked elsewhere and the management were unable to fill in suitable features for the following week.

It was, however, decided to make the affair an annual one, and many of the exhibitors at once reserved space for the coming year. Not an inch of floor space was vacant at the show, and it was both a financial and artistic success in every way. The exhibitors were much pleased with the publicity and advertising they obtained from the show, and the attendance, although hampered by some inclement weather, was a record for this class of attraction in Des Moines.

The exposition enjoyed State wide advertising and newspaper publicity, the publicity end being in the hands of Dick Collins, the well known exposition press agent, who has been with Mr. Buckley at many of the big world's fairs. Z. T. Howell was Mr. Buckley's business manager, assisted by G. Stewart Hill.

NEW VAUDEVILLE ACTS

The Rosener-Hillman Co.
CITY, FRIDAY EVENING, APRIL 11.
Offering for the first time on any stage an Indian sketch, called "A Study in Red and White," this little company of four people, who have appeared at this house several times this season in different one act plays, put over the best they have been seen in so far.
The author, whoever he is, deserves much credit for the clever way he has handled the different characters, and the story, which is well worked out, is interesting from start to finish.
In brief, it tells of the Indian wife of a governor endeavoring to make him sign a bill prohibiting the red child from working in the factories. It seemingly solves many questions that are common talk to-day.
Everyone of the company is a finished artist in his or her role, and gave as meritorious a performance as could be wished for. It runs about twenty-two minutes, on full stage, with an office setting. Jack.

The Newberry Sextette.
CITY, FRIDAY EVENING, APRIL 11.
Although not an entirely new act, these clever boys have put in several new medleys and worked them for the first time here and went over big.
Several of them are of the original Gus Edwards' Song Revue and during the course of their performance give several of these old time song successes. The act has been well put together, and they send over some good harmony. "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" and "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot" are the boys rendering their having fine, clear singing voices. They make two changes of costumes, first appearing as newboys, and changing to white duck suits.
Act runs about fifteen minutes, in one. Jack.

Knight and Benson.
CITY, FRIDAY EVENING, APRIL 11.
Composed of a man and woman, this pair put over a big success here last week. The young woman appears in a handsome white spangled evening gown and the man in evening clothes. They offered a high class singing performance that has been well put together. Their opening songs, about seeing everything in a book, did not do them much good, partly because it was far over the heads of the audience. The man then renders a song that showed he had an excellent voice. The young woman then takes a change and proves she can sing some. Their closing number is a very high class affair, to which both do justice. It is one of the neatest, refined acts seen here in some time, and runs about ten minutes. Jack.

Miss Orford.
PALACE, MONDAY EVENING, APRIL 14.
Appearing for the first time in this part of the country, Miss Orford, a dainty little miss, showed one of the cleverest elephant acts that has ever been seen in this city. She put them through many difficult tricks, featuring "The Elephant Glide," and "Turkey Trot" dances. They also do a dining room scene, in which two of the elephants are served by another one, and created roars of laughter. The singer did not do much, but an amusing little stunt of putting a baby to sleep. Another big feature is the "fire brigade." Miss Orford, during the entire performance, dances very gracefully. The act is well put together and runs about twenty minutes, on full stage. Jack.

Edith Barton.
CITY, FRIDAY EVENING, APRIL 11.
Why is it that singing comedienne must sing a high class song? It can't get them any applause, and often nearly kills their act. Edith Barton, who is a clever, magnetic and handsome young woman, made this mistake after putting over nicely two of the popular kind of songs. It was not till she sang "The Girl with the Green Eyes" that the quicker she will realize what a mistake she has made.
Her best offerings were "Golden West," "Good to Me" and "At Uncle Tom's Cabin Door," all of which she sang in a class singing voice. Her costume of pink satin is very becoming. The act consumes about twelve minutes, in one. Jack.

McWatters and Tyson.
L. HAMMERSTEIN'S, MONDAY, APRIL 14.
These players announce their new act as their 1913 review. They open with a song and dance medley, and then go to a burlesque on "Within the Law." This is very short, but the idea is clever and the lines are well carried out by both principals.
A yodling "rag" here leads up to a short recitation by Mr. McWatters, entitled "Not Know Nothing."
They close their act with "Melinda's Wedding Day," and a bunch of other songs that have made them popular in their line of work, and the act scored a hit. Old Timer.

Wood and Wood.
CITY, FRIDAY EVENING, APRIL 11.
Two men, in silly kid and straight man characters, presented a good talking and singing specialty. With a few rough edges worked off they will have an act fit for the best time. One of the men worked in a Harry Fox manner and got over with good results. The straight man can improve, as he missed many cues from his partner. Jack.

Walter Van Brunt.
PROCTOR'S FIFTH AVENUE, MATINEE, APRIL 14.
This young man was seen in a single singing performance and, in a rather hard position, went exceedingly well. He appears in evening dress and renders five songs, the feature, "Bye-Bye Land." His imitation of Chauncy Olcott should be discarded. The act runs about twelve minutes, in one. Jack.

Little Robert.
LINCOLN SQUARE, THURSDAY EVE., APRIL 10.
A child violinist, apparently about twelve years of age. Plays classical and rag numbers well enough, considering his tender years. Harry.

PROCTOR'S FIFTH AVENUE BILL.
FOR WEEK OF APRIL 21.
Billed to appear at this house for week beginning Monday matinee, April 21, are: Ethel Barrymore and company, in "The Twelve Pound Look;" "Cheyenne Days;" a typical Western miniature musical comedy; Ethel Green, the popular singing comedienne; Devine and Williams, in "The Traveling Salesman;" Kenny, "Nobody" and Platt, a team of "real" funmakers; Burke and Lorraine, a guaranteed dancing couple; Bert Fitzgerald, "The Daffydill comedian;" "Chief" Coudopolian, a real Aracano Indian and a thorough entertainer; "Picking the Furnace," a blast of laughs from beginning to end; Frances Stevens and company, the captivating comedienne in Edgar Allen Woolf's funny moon, "The Country Bride;" Kit Carson, the shooting wire artist, and new subjects in talking pictures. It's some bill—peep over it.

J. BERNARD DYLLYN

Address, R. P. O. E., No. 1
AN ELK SINCE 1876.

THOSE FIFTH AVENUE TRY-OUTS.
Friday morning, April 11, found quite an array of good and bad talent on hand at Gus McCune's Broadway "emporium." There was a list of seven to go on the grid and show what they had to, perhaps, Amuse Proctor audiences in the near future.
The first one to show was Mile. Rita La Chapelle, premiere danseuse. She did not come up to a contract verdict.
Ron Dorris, a monologist, slipped over a budget of stories and sang well enough to put him in line for some work in the near future.
Then unto us blew Helene De Lara, another quite buxom danseuse, who appeared at a previous Friday morning trial not so long ago. Helene did not show, even fully arrayed in appropriate costumes, that she had improved any since her last chance here.
"Chief" Coudopolian, a thorough-blooded Indian entertainer, did not progress far with his chatter and a good tenor voice before we decided he would do. The chief will be heard around our local big time houses before long.
P. M. Gulla's company of ten Italian artists offered a pantomimic singing drama that should "go" well over the small time when properly staged and costumed. Each one of the company appeared to possess a good voice, and the little "underworld" romance story was consistently told in song and action.

Lillian Bradley, a real charming blonde, displayed enough of an exquisite soprano voice to cop somebody's job "up there" in the near future. Booked immediately, was Lillian. With a full stage setting and a piano, a certain Paul Keir "ahemed" his way "on," sprung a kettledrum of "poor" material, and then attempted to "win" us with his piano and song talent. Paul didn't have much, and when he got away from the stool long enough, some "knowing" stage employee grabbed said stool, and we thanked him, we did. Ted.

ALCAZAR.—Monday, 14, Charles Waldron and Madeleine Louis, supported by the stock company of the house, in "The Squaw Man." For week of 7, "The Man on the Case" was at the last moment substituted for "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall," as previously announced.

IN MELODY LANE.

THE BEST JOKE YET.
A certain paper wherein advertising space is not in much demand, has issued a Chinese puzzle rate card. Class in Arithmetic! Stand up! Question: Does the advertisement of the music publisher who is asked for more money get more circulation than that of the performer who is asked to pay much less?
Charles McCarron, late of Stern's, is now connected with the Theodore Morse Music Company.
HARK YE.
"The Man from the West," also known as General Jeff Brannen, honestly admits paying only two-fifty for his wonderful tan shoes, but also states that he wouldn't take seven for them at the present time. I wonder why.
CONGRATULATION.
Our old friend, Jean Schwartz, the composer of countless hits, has went and done it. Jean quietly slipped away one day last week, hunted up a parson, and was united in the bonds of matrimony to one of the charming Dolly Sisters. They were royally entertained in the Palace de Danse, April 10, by Mr. Ellis, until the wee hours of the morn'g.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Kalmer are receiving much attention at the present time owing to the fact that last week the stork paid them a visit, and left them a big, bouncing boy.
GOOD NEWS.
Louis Bernstein, head of the Shapiro, Bernstein Publishing House, is rapidly recovering from a serious operation performed last week. His countless friends join in wishing him speedy recovery.
SOME MORE NEWS.
Bert Grant, last Saturday, took unto himself a wife. The happy lady's name is Billy Coviero. Now watch for the hits.
STILL IN CHICAGO.
Joe Morris and Phil Bush are still located out West; in the Saratoga Hotel, demonstrating to performers what a great bunch of songs they have. On his return East, Mr. Bush will be in charge of a new producing department that Mr. Morris will install in his publishing house, in the Exchange Building.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO.
What's all this talk about "suggestive" songs? Way back in '88, just twenty-five years ago, T. B. Kelley, one of the largest publishers of that time, and one of THE CLIPPER'S heaviest advertisers, published a song entitled "Something to Tickle the Girls With," the chorus of which follows:
"Something to tickle the girls
Laughing and shaking their curls.
You'll not go amiss, I promise you this,
With something to tickle the girls."
C. D. Blake, who was also well known as a publisher then, advertised in THE CLIPPER, a ballad, called "When I Put the Little Ones to Bed," which was a big hit.
SOME PUBLISHER.
Hardly a month passes that Will Rossiter, that live publisher of songs, does not put over a solid hit. He is now putting all his efforts in "At the Short Dress Ball," a type of song that is bound to win out.

OH JOY.
Everybody is dusting off the glad rags and getting ready for the Knights of Harmony ball, to be held Sunday evening, April 27, at Pabst Casino. It is predicted to be one grand affair. All the vaudeville headliners in New York that week have promised to appear.
CHANGE NAME.
James Kendis, who, since his recent troubles with the Kendis & Paley concern, now out of business, has conducted the Billy Busch Pub. Co., will hereafter use the title of James Kendis Music Publishing Co.
A NEW FIRM.
Maurice Abrahams will shortly open a publishing house at 1570 Broadway. He will make announcements later as to his plans.

TEDDY SIMONS. The Silver King, has joined hands with Murray Simons, and will put over a real vaudeville act.
JOHNNEY AND ELLA GALVIN are successfully producing "Little Miss Mix-Up," on the Michigan vaudeville circuit.
ALICE GRASSETT is booked for a return engagement at the Empire, Cincinnati, by Sullivan & Considine.
GEORGE B. HAVILL, father of May Howard, died at his home in Englewood (Chicago) last week. He was seventy-four years old.

LATEST LONDON NEWS.

(Special Cable to THE CLIPPER.)

From Our Own Correspondent, Henry George Hibbert.

LONDON, April 15.

REVUE POSTPONED.
Great surprise was caused by the postponement, at the eleventh hour, of Clifford Fischer's Revue, at Hammerstein's Opera House. The reason given is the delay in preparing the elaborate water scene.

"EVERYWIFE" A SUCCESS.
Joseph Hart's "Everywife" was produced to-night, at the London Coliseum, with fair success, despite the earlier production of several effective copy acts.

IDA CRISPI WORKING.
Ida Crispi has a broken arm, but continues in the Empire Revue.
"VANITY" FAILS.
The Ethel Irving play, "Vanity," is a failure, and has been withdrawn.

World of Players.

THE advance of Terry's big pavilion "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Show, started billing the twenty-fourth annual tour of this popular attraction at Little Sioux, Ia., Saturday, April 12, and are now on their way to North and South Dakota. The show this season will be billed with an entire line of new special papers from the Standard Printing Co., of St. Paul, which, is without doubt, the largest and finest line of paper ever made for an "Uncle Tom" show. The advance this season is the largest ever carried by a similar organization, and includes: A. C. Terry, general agent, L. A. Adams, local contractor; F. L. Coup, opposition agent, and Frank H. Lawrence, James L. Beatty, Harry D. Lynch and Fred J. Griffen, billposters.
Ed. C. NUTT has closed a season of forty-seven weeks of Angell's Comedians. The next season will open May 12, at Lancaster, Mo.

BOOSTS FOR THE CLIPPER BUREAU.

THE Registration Bureau you have so kindly inaugurated is certainly a great protection for those who are the originators of ideas, and from the fact that it will require much care on your part, it should be doubly appreciated by those availing themselves of its benefits. MARY ADAM AUBURY.
ENCLOSED find coupons. This is my fortieth year in business. Have been using above titles for years. Long live the Old Timery Pleasure "THE CLIPPER" as we call it. I can't get eyeglasses strong enough to read anything else but Frank's CLIPPER. CARBIE LAVARIE.
YOUR Registry Bureau is certainly a good idea, and as usual THE CLIPPER best the other papers to it. THE ORELS.

We think your Bureau is the "best ever," and will prove a great benefit to performers. BISBEE and CONNELLY.
GENTLEMEN.—In regard to Registry Bureau, all we can say is: "Go; but THE CLIPPER is original." MACK and BENNETT.
"REVOLVED by a master mind." BILLY GOULD.
WE THINK this is one of the finest ideas anyone has ever started, and are sure performers will benefit by your kindness in starting it. MARIE and EDITH STRAUB.

I THINK your offer is great. FRANK KIRK.
DEAR SIR.—Thanks for Certificate proving my stage name has been registered at CLIPPER Registry Bureau. Best wishes of Yours truly, ADA YORK.

CIRCUS NEWS

CIRCUS NIGHT FOR WHITE RATS.

WHITE RATS PUT OVER A SIZZLER.

To run a one-ring circus needs some management, even when located on a regular lot with all outdoors for space, or even in a place built for the purpose. It is certainly going some when a full-fledged circus is conducted with a clubhouse such as the White Rats built for themselves. The architect who designed the structure, and Junie McCree, Will Cooke, Jim Marco, Geo. Delmore, Colie Lorella and the other directors and officers probably never dreamed that an animal larger than the members' bulge, for a color, even a mastiff would find the way through the portals of the building. Yet the spacious entrance and lobby and the roomy assembly chamber allowed an elephant and two heavy menage horses to be shown in regulation size ring and the show given to any seen in any good-sized city to pass without a hitch. The difficulty of getting the animals into the building was easily overcome by specially constructed runways and Baby Mine, the elephant who laughs and crosses his legs, as well as the Davenport beauties were led in and out without a mishap. A ten foot wall surrounded the seats, and big top effect and sawdust covered the main entrance, in which the lemonade and peanut stands were located. The regular blues were arranged around the ring and everybody including the girls sat and let their feet hang down. A liberal allowance of camp chairs in addition were filled and the entire ringside was packed when the show opened.

Many of the members gracefully cleared the ring and retired to give the guests full swing, and everyone present, the majority of whom were nice looking girls, enjoyed the excellent program, excellently arranged. Ed Brill, of the Barnum & Bailey Show, had his band there, with the circus music. Ban McNally was equestrian director, in immaculate evening clothes, and Bert Cole, "borrowed" high hat, acted as announcer, and "stall" for the clowns, all the way from Staten Island. He was all there with the same. The popcorn and peanut vendors were played by members. Thus, J. Hipley dispensed the wet goods. Concert tickets were sold by a regular felt-hatted persuader. The only feature that was missing was the shell game, by the camp followers. The circus folk turned out in large numbers, large delegations from the B. & B. Shows and from the Hippodrome appreciated the proceedings, and the verdict was, "Well they'll have to get up early to beat this stunt."

The program was a masterpiece. "Baby Mine," the elephant, opened the show by getting peanuts from everybody around the ring. She played the organ, walked the pedestals, telephoned, rang for her dinner, had a pineapple, a pound-cake and a bottle of wine, and played tennis under the direction of Mr. and Miss Powers and her special trainer, whose life she recently saved in a stampede. The Jack Corelli troupe entertained with comedy stunts on the mat, tables, barrels and trapeze, to great laughter and cheers.

Then came the two beautiful Davenport horses, a big surprise, and Orrin and Victoria Davenport, who went through their entire routine of carrying tricks, leaps, somersaults

CARL HAGENBECK DEAD.

HAMBURG April 14.—Carl Hagenbeck, the famous animal collector and senior partner of the Handelsmenagerie and Thierpark, at Stellingen, near Hamburg, died to-day.

Carl Hagenbeck was born in 1844, his father being a fish-monger in Hamburg. Soon after his birth his father received a polar bear in payment of a debt. Later he acquired two trained seals and a monkey, and these with the bear formed the nucleus of the famous animal collection. The menagerie was exhibited at country fairs, and soon the elder Hagenbeck was the proprietor of a travelling caravan.

He was in the market to purchase a strange animal, and the city acquired a reputation as a market for wild animals. The zoological societies of London, Paris, Berlin and Vienna began to learn of the collection of wild animals owned by Hagenbeck, and to place orders with him to supply specimens for their menageries and museums. Later he was entrusted with expeditions to strange lands, organized for the purpose of capturing alive rare birds and beasts. The former fish-monger scored his first world famous triumph by capturing and delivering alive to the London Zoological Society, the first hippopotamus that had ever been seen in England. A rhinoceros followed, and the Siberian tiger. One herd of Mongolian horses, which cost Hagenbeck $25,000 to capture and bring to Hamburg, realized for him an independent fortune.

Hagenbeck's first zoological exhibit in this country was at the Columbian Exposition at Chicago in 1893. He later exhibited at the World's Fairs at Denver and St. Louis. Hagenbeck was formerly a partner in the Hagenbeck-Wallace Show, which will start in Peru, Ind., April 24.

WHAT AN OLD FRIEND THINKS.

To the Publishers and Owners of THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.

DEAR SIR.—You do not know me—you never saw me; in fact, you never published in your paper my name, except as a friend, and a good one; one who looks out for the interest of thousands of men, women and boys who go away from their homes for months and years at a time, traveling with all kinds of shows. They all say: "We can't tell where we will be by that time. Just mail the letter to THE CLIPPER, then I will get it."

I will remember the time when some one would read the news from THE CLIPPER. It was at that time, and is to-day, if you want to know where any one was, or was showing, all you had to do was to read THE CLIPPER. It has told the truth, it has confidence in the boys. I got tired of the show business so I quit in 1889, and I was buying THE CLIPPER regularly every week and have seen so many changes in everything: have seen other papers trying to copy after it, but no matter whether it was in California, Alaska or Florida, I always bought THE CLIPPER.

And so it has been, since I, the writer, was taken along as a kid with the L. B. Lent and the John Murray tent shows away back in 1872. The tent was along, they said, and the boys would go to houses and get newspapers for the men to clean the lamps so we could show at night. The trust friend of them all, THE CLIPPER, was on sale, or else some one in the town, who was a regular subscriber, would come walking up the road towards the show lot. Some of the boys would say: "You good man, is that THE NEW YORK CLIPPER? Just let me read the Post Office list, and see where they all are."

Well, last Sunday evening, I went in to a newsstand and asked for THE CLIPPER, "sorry sir, all out, but have others. We have twenty CLIPPERS each week." "No, thank you, I will try some one else." The next place, same old story. I said, "how many do you take?" "None," he said, "I wonder what is going on," that a paper like THE CLIPPER all sold out and not one in sight? What I must do is to keep on going." At last I found one, and you know, I looked at that CLIPPER and read page after page until I had been at least three hours going over it, and I was getting a little shaky in the arms from holding it so long.

I want to express my feelings and say that I think THE CLIPPER's stand to-day in the way of giving the news of the show people to the others in and out of the business, is what the 1913 Ringling Show is to the oil lamps show, in 1870. That is what I think. Yours truly, HARRY CODDINGTON, 666 N. State Street, Chicago.

BARNUM & BAILEY START ON TOUR.

Closing Saturday night the run at the Garden, the Barnum & Bailey Show will go to Brooklyn for a week's stay. This will be the start of their tour, which will most likely take the show as far as the Coast.

This season's business is reported to have been the best that any show has ever had in Madison Square Garden.

B. & B. IN BROOKLYN.

The Barnum & Bailey Show will play Brooklyn next week, at Myrtle and Wyckoff Avenues, Ridgewood.

DOWNIE & WHEELER'S SHOW will open the season at Oxford, Pa., April 19.

RICE BROTHERS' Shows will open May 3 at St. Paul, Minn.

AL SWAN will be the mail man with the Gollmar Shows this season.

A FREEPORT OUTING.

"Bill" Black, one of the original Clipper Quartette members, and brother of George Black, the B. & B. detective, entertained a number of circus friends, including his brother, at Freeport, L. I., Sunday, 13. A trip around the bay on a fine motor boat was one of the enjoyable features of the day. A shore dinner and refreshments galore. In the party were: Chick Bell, of the B. & B. Show; Frank Cook, Clyde Ingalls, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Cole, and several other friends.

THE GORDONS QUIT.

The "Boxing Kangaroo," featured by the Gordon Bros., with the Barnum & Bailey Show, at the Garden, quit in a huff, last Thursday. An argument with Charley Siegrist, is given as the cause.

PRINCESS WAS CLIPPED.

One of the liveliest chapters in the history of chirology was written last week, when the Barnum & Bailey veterinarians realized that the time had come for an operation on the fierce claws of Princess, the tawny, sombre lioness, late of Africa, and now stopping in the basement of Madison Square Garden.

John Patterson, who rules over all the animals in the circus except Harry Mooney's elephants, knew that the lioness was suffering from the homely trouble of ingrowing claws, and that those claws would have to be removed.

All the surgical staff of the circus gathered around Princess' cage. First they thrust a six-by-three scantling through the cage to pin her in the corner, and then they dropped a noose of rope over her angry head. The lioness was furious. With one blow of her paw she smashed the stout piece of wood as if it had been a match. They tried another scantling, and that was also soon splintered. But they lasted long enough to allow the men to secure her and draw her firmly against the bars. As her feet were thrust forth for fight they were seized by the men outside, and at last Princess was held tight and firm. At the signal the menagerie chirologist worked fast, and the job was done.

"PAT" HERE AND BACK.

Warren A. Patrick, Chicago Representative of THE NEW YORK CLIPPER, and secretary of The Showmen's League, visited New York last week. He was the guest of John Ringling, at the Barnum & Bailey Show, New York, Monday night, visited his friends Tuesday and on Wednesday was entertained by the "Two Bills and Manager Louis E. Cooke, at Philadelphia. He returned to Chicago, April 12, taking back with him a large number of applications for membership to the League.

MILLER BROS. 101 OPENS.

The Miller Bros. 101 Ranch, Wild West Show, will open at the Coliseum in St. Louis, Mo., this week with a really true Western attraction, consisting of the usual quota of cowpunchers and redskins, with a couple of brilliantly arranged holdups. The last visit of the 101 Ranch show in that city proved to be a big success, and it is expected to have another successful week, although the weather man promises rain.

FREAKS CLOSING.

At the end of the run of the Barnum Show in the Garden, many of the freaks will hike to different parts of the country, to fill engagements. About half of them were only engaged for the New York run.

PEARCE, SCHUCK & SYMINGTON have incorporated a company to build a hippodrome, to seat 3,000, on the site of the old Eutaw House, Baltimore, Md.

RINGLINGS' COMING EAST.

Ringling Bros.' World's Greatest Shows are coming to Madison Square Garden, the Coliseum, in Chicago, and the performance is giving general satisfaction. There were several turn-aways last week. The Ringlings' will open under canvas at Clarksburg, W. Va., April 25, and will then play Cumberland, Md., 26; Washington, D. C., 28, 29; Baltimore, Md., 30, May 1; Wilmington, Del., 2; Trenton, N. J., 3. The week of May 5 will find the big shows in Philadelphia.

SIG. SAUTELLE AGAIN.

Sig. Sautelle, the well known showman, with twenty-five years' experience with tent shows to his credit, is quietly inaugurating a surprise for his friends and the world at large. It will be remembered that Mr. Sautelle retired five years ago to his large and magnificently stocked farm in Homer, N. Y., having had his fill of touring. He announced that, like Cincinnatus, he would retire to the plow and end his peaceful days in nature's midst of "bowers and flowers." But "the call of the wild and the big tops" was so strong, and Mr. Sautelle, on the very edge of the season's opening last Spring, left his plow in the very furrow Cincinnatus left his, and two thousand yeomen, "yoked" and, hurriedly getting together materials for a wagon show, he gave the amazed villagers of Homer a fanfare of trumpets and then took to the road.

History has recorded the triumphs of Sig. Sautelle. He was successful during the whole season, then again went into headquarters and announced: "No more of the wagon show for mine!" During the past Winter this showman has been working like the whirlwind that he is in action, and it is said that he has organized a bigger and better equipped show than he has ever before launched on the road. Among the special features which are sure to make a wondrous hit are Powers' four elephants, recently of the Hippodrome, in New York City, he and Oscar Lowande having landed them for the Sautelle Show. Every department in this big top outfit will be thrillingly presented by some of the most skillful artists in circudom. A compendium of the other features will require time and discrimination, and these will follow later, fully covered by Sig. Sautelle's Nine Big Shows.

ORIGINATED DOG RACES.

The statement under "25 years ago" that Jennie O'Brien made her debut at Madison Square Garden, in 1888, recalled the fact that J. H. Lewis, at present in Pittsburgh, Pa., during the same year introduced to the American public the English Whippet racing dogs, in the Hippodrome races. They were since then the leading hippodrome features in America and abroad, and are still being used by the Ringling Brothers, who first used them under Mr. Lewis' direction at Baraboo, in 1892, and have retained them ever since.

Lang,

OUR LONDON LETTER.

HENRY GEORGE HIBBERT, SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

Clipper Bureau, 5 South Square Gray's Inn, London, W. C.

APRIL 5. In the newspapers a useless discussion of the merit of "The Pretenders" continues, some superior persons contending that the refusal of the public to support its performance at the Haymarket indicated criminal ignorance. Meanwhile the prompt dismissal of Ibsen's play let in Lawrence Irving, with "Typhoon," which has been playing on the road, by formal agreement with the author, who was present at the first performance at the Haymarket on Wednesday. The play was well received, Lawrence Irving's personal success being very great. Last year there was talk of Walker Whiteside bringing "Typhoon" to London, but we shall probably hear no more of this.

"Playgoers," a one act piece by Sir Arthur Pinero, was produced at the St. James Theatre on Monday, in association with "Open Windows." It is a ponderous effort in satire. Angered by the perfunctory methods of his domestic servants, a well-to-do householder decided that the need of healthy recreation was responsible for their slackness. So he arranged for the whole bunch to visit a theatre at his expense, once a week. Discontent with the plans he made, contemptuous criticism of the performances they saw, finally revolted and a stampede, were his reward.

Ethel Irving made a good beginning of her career in management at the Globe Theatre on Tuesday, with a comedy by Ernest Denny, entitled "Vanity." Truly enough, it is one of those cases in which the debt of the author to his exponent is the greater. Vanity Fayre was an actress in musical comedy, somewhat spoiled by success. She had an admirer in the peerage, a devoted lover whose income was no more than ten dollars a week, earned in a law office, and a family to whom she was notoriously generous. She felt that they all—like-wise the manager of the theatre, who had finally kicked at her demands—needed a sharp lesson, so she went to the seaside and pretended to be drowned. After a decent interval she returned, in the disguise of an elderly woman, expecting to hear universal lamentation. But, no! The peer had quickly transferred his allegiance. Her young sister had easily replaced her at the theatre and in the public eye. Her other relatives had greedily cut up her property. There was no more worth returning for, save the law clerk, meanwhile become very rich. To him Vanity turned, thinking to get kind words. But the boy saw through the elderly woman's disguise right away, and mischievously told the truth. Vanity was left with plain truths about herself. Having read his pretty, selfish heroine so sharp a lesson, and turned her into a sweet and lovable woman, the author, of course, fixed everything!

Another actor-manager! To wit, Kenneth Douglas, who opened at the Comedy Theatre on Thursday with "The Weaker Sex," by Frank Stayton. It is a most ingenious and amusing play. Mr. Douglas has a part that suits him to perfection, and he has invaluable assistance from Renee Kelly, who has been promoted from the condition of a lady journalist in "Anne" to that of a lady novelist in "The Weaker Sex."

Eve Addison went out in a sailing boat alone, got caught in a fog, drifted thirty-six hours, and was picked up by a yacht. Its owner, Charles Winslow, bent on six weeks' open sea, so that he might, in undisturbed solitude, write the voluminous opinions of a woman hater. His book should be called "The Weaker Sex." He refuses to have his plans altered for Eve Addison or any other. She must make the best of the trip. Soon Eve had everybody fascinated—even Winslow, though the selfish, engrossed creature would not show it. In the hope of being landed at any price, Eve induced the crew to mutiny. She found that the spirit of revolt, once started, could not be restrained. Then Winslow became her hero—and her lover. But the author is ingenious to the end, and always salts his romance with a whimsical humor.

At the Gaiety to-night George Edwards produces one more continental opera, "The Girl on the Film." It will probably prove to owe most of its success to the beautiful scenery and costumes he has provided, the clever acting, and the interpolated songs of Melville J. Gideon, for, in truth, the original material of "Film-Magic," with its half dozen authors and composers, is not so remarkable. The humor of the film industry have already been exploited in farce and in vaudeville. The hero of "The Girl on the Film," played by George Grossmith Jr., is one Max Ediss, a young man, who became an actor, author, finally the director of the Vioscope Film Company. He surrounded himself with mystery, so all the girls were crazy to penetrate his seclusion. Winifred Fitzgibbon, the mischievous, versatile daughter of a military officer, set out to do so and succeeded. First we see the cinematograph factory at work. Max was hard at work on a Napoleon picture. With his company of amusing mimmers—Connie Ediss is vastly amusing as the leading lady—he set out for a pretty village, where there was a wall for a background. His heroine failed at the last minute. A smart little boy, originally engaged to figure as a drummer, volunteered, and played the part to admiration. When finally the film was shown at a military ball, a triumph of the Gaiety stage, the fact that Winifred Fitzgibbon had won her bet was completely demonstrated. "The Girl on the Film" is a brilliant show, but it will need much working up.

Edmund Payne, the Gaiety comedian, stays on at the Palace, though his somewhat partner, George Grossmith, is under the old flag again. For Mr. Payne, Michael Morton has fixed up a sketch, entitled "What a Game," which is no more than an ingenious surrounding for the comedian. He figures as a hair-dresser, of a theatrical turn, who goes to visit his sweetheart, a housemaid, and soon finds himself accidentally included in the drawing room party. Here he is induced to give a specimen of his skill as an entertainer. He recalls a fellow whom he saw at the Gaiety. Payne by name, and whom he proceeds to imitate. This leads up to a selection of old Gaiety favorites.

Tuesday is the date now appointed for Lawrence Grossmith's opening at the Savoy, with "Brother Alfred."

H. B. Irving reports the very successful production of "The Sin of David," in South Africa.

Having three nights open between the withdrawal of "Everybody's Darling" and the production of "All the Winners," the Empire directors used the Palladium Minstrels. What a boost for the black face business!

Walter Winans, after bears in Siberia, has taken with him a full equipment of cinematograph apparatus, and hopes to bring back some fine films of his hunting.

Oswald Stoll promises to join the revueurs, bringing a genuine revue from Paris to the Coliseum. This way disaster was averted at the outset, but Mr. Stoll thinks the Londoner has been educated since the opening of the Coliseum.

Byron Webster, a once well known writer about sport and the stage, is dead.

There is a movement to memorialize the Burbages. Thomas Burbage built the first London theatre, and his son, Richard, was the original Hamlet.

Wilfred Douthitt and Florence Smithson, the principal boy and principal girl of Drury Lane pantomime, have doubled up for a vaudeville act. They open at the London Pavilion on Monday, in what is styled "A Jungle Romance."

Horace Cole, the well known Moss Empires manager, proceeds from Finsbury Park to the Hippodrome, Manchester.

William Berol, with "Menekel," is on the way to South Africa, under contract to the Amalgamated Circuit.

There seems to be a little feeling between Happy Fanny Fields and May Moore Duprez. The Birmingham Gazette called Fanny Fields' act an imitation of the other artist's work, then inserted an apology for the statement. The Stage reproduced the apology, and now apologizes to May Moore Duprez for having done so.

There are six thousand picture houses in the United Kingdom. Two thousand are privately owned, four thousand are owned by syndicates. The capital employed is upwards of $50,000,000. Work is found for 130,000. Then there is upwards of $12,000,000 invested in film and other essential businesses.

J. Neville Maskeleyne, the magician of St. George's Hall, now enters upon his fortieth year in the business. He is seventy-three, but hard at work on a new mechanical illusion. He began life as a watchmaker, and a challenge to investigate the work of a "spiritualist" whom he exposed, suggested a professional career to him.

From Australia comes news that Oscar Asche's manager, Robert Alexander Meyer, has divorced his wife, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kendal.

"All the Winners," the new revue, is due at the Empire on Monday. It is declared to be a burlesque of ragtime, but it uses quite a good deal of ragtime stuff, seriously, in the process. At a fashionable beach hotel the Ragtime King, otherwise Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford, and the Ragtime Queen are holding their court. Many celebrities of the day look in on them. Then we get to Hindle, the scene of Mr. Houghton's "Wakes," where popular plays current and the suffragettes are scored, and finally to Monte Carlo, where there is a big ballet scene. Ida Crisp plays the Ragtime Queen. Seymour Hicks plays half a dozen parts. He is responsible for the engagement of Vera Maxwell.

Melville Gideon promises to delight Tivoli audiences with "The Burial of the Beautiful Doll" next week.

At the Strand, toward the end of the month, Louis Meyer produces "The Chapter One," a comic play by Jocelyn Brandon, a well known theatrical lawyer, and Frederic Arthur. Cyril Keightley, just home from the States, plays an important part. He returns to America in the fall.

Sir Herbert Tree has joined Philip Michael Theatre in the exploitation of "Within the Law," but not at His Majesty's Theatre.

"Quo Vadis," filmed by the Cines Company of Rome, and acquired for this country by J. M. Rabawgram, chief of the Chippewa tribe, will be exploited at the London Hippodrome next week, as "The Red Caruso."

Anna Pavlova is due at the Palace again in a fortnight.

Preparations for the London Opera House revue, "Come Over Here," near completion. The production is due on Saturday next.

Hart's water illusion is to be employed, to show visitors to a Persian palace plunging into a lake as the only possible entrance.

Some locations for Monday next are: A. D. Robbins, Empire, Sunderland; Jen Latona, Empire, South Shields; Anna Eva Fay, Empire, Leeds; Vasco, Empire, Sheffield; Whitaker and Hill, Empire, Glasgow; Fred Duprez, Empire, Finsbury Park; Cummings and Colonna, Empire, Belfast; Irene Dillon, Empire, Stratford; Elsie and Scott, Empire, Edinburgh; Houdini, Empire, Edinburgh; Friend and Downing, Empire, Newcastle-on-Tyne; Willson and Waring, Empire, Birmingham; Fred Tallman, Empire, Birmingham; Gilda and Fox, Empire, Liverpool; Fanny Fields, London Coliseum; the Great Welland, Hackney Empire; Carlisle and Welton, Empire, Chatham; Lil Hawthorne, Empire, Ardwick; Gerald Griffin, Empire, Ardwick; the Harmony Four, Empire, Wood Green; Leipzig, Empire, Shepherd's Bush; the McNaghtens, London Pavilion; Charles T. Aldrich, Empire, East Ham; Lowenworth and Cowen, Palace, Tottenham; Mike S. Whallen, Pavilion, Liverpool; Anna Dorothy, Hippodrome, Preston; Horace Golden, Empire, Leyton; Clark and Hamilton, London Palladium; Harry Brown, Hippodrome, Boscombe; the Juggling McNabns, Alhambra Palace.

Some hundreds of old and new Carthusians attended Drury Lane the other night and sang their school hymn. Forbes Robertson was educated at the Charterhouse.

Nat Clifford, a once well known comedian and dancer, died on the way from Bombay to South Africa.

Bella Cuthbert, an old time actress, died at Margate, seventy-five years of age.

"Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford" is played for the one hundredth time at the Queen's Theatre to-night.

"Gen. John Regan" will be played for the one hundredth time at the Apollo Theatre on Monday.

DON'T OVERLOOK "JOE HEPP."

ALREADY THE TALK OF NEW YORK

THE GREAT "PAL" SONG (BEWARE OF IMITATIONS)

DON'T YOU WISH YOU WERE BACK HOME AGAIN

Words and Music by CHAS. K. HARRIS

Predicted by all to be the only real ballad hit of the year, and which will sweep all the suggestive songs into oblivion. This song has not been written by a combination of writers, but by one writer, and the only one who writes both words and music to all his own compositions, and that is why they are all hits. If you are a singer, either male or female, this song will suit you. Send for it and convince yourself. If you sing with slides, prepare yourself for a great big surprise. The finest set of slides ever thrown upon a canvas, posed under the personal supervision of Mr. Harris, are now ready. Each slide a sensation, but with or without slides, a sure-fire success.

Professional copies to recognized singers only.

Deaths in the Profession

Fred E. Terry.

Fred E. Terry, formerly of the firm of Dickey & Terry, proprietors of Terry's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Co., died at Aurora, Ill., Saturday, March 29, aged fifty-seven years. It was on Feb. 19, 1890, that Mr. Terry formed a partnership with O. Q. Setchell, his brother-in-law, and launched the famous "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Co., but in 1891 he sold out his interest to Mr. Setchell and, with J. M. Busby, put out Terry & Busby's "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" Co. The following season Mr. Terry and William Swift put out the Rosco & Swift "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Co., which was lost in the fire of the Princess Theatre in Winnipeg, Manitoba, Can., May 2, 1892.

The seasons of 1895 and 1896, Mr. Terry's interests were centered in "The Irish Stew," after which he retired to private life in Aurora, until March, 1908, when he bought a half interest in W. G. Dickey in "Terry's 'Uncle Tom's Cabin,'" which enterprise he was connected with until a few days before his death, when he sold out to his brother, E. D. Terry, also of Aurora. The body was laid to rest April 1 in the Little Sioux Iowa cemetery, the I. O. O. F. having charge of the services.

Mary Cunard (Mrs. Edward N. McDowell), wife of the well known theatrical manager, and herself an actress of experience and ability, died Saturday evening, April 5, in St. Luke's Hospital, New York City, from a blood-clot on the brain. Miss Cunard was engaged during a part of this season in her husband's company, presenting "The Gamblers," and last season she played prominent parts in Corse Payton's Stock Company in Newark, N. J. For several years previous she had appeared in numerous Cohan & Harris productions. Mary Cunard was a handsome woman and had a host of friends in and out of the theatrical profession. She was born in Rochester, N. Y. Funeral services were held Tuesday morning, 8, in the Funeral Church, 243 West Twenty-third Street, and interment made in Evergreen Cemetery.

Ethel Hawkins, best known to her theatrical friends as "Baby," died suddenly March 24, at her home in this city. Miss Hawkins had been in the profession since early childhood, and at the age of seven years appeared in San Francisco, Cal., where she was born, in a series of impersonations. For the past few years she had appeared in vaudeville with her mother, Hazel Hawkins, under the team name of Hazel and Hazel. She was in her eighteenth year, and gave promise of a brilliant stage career. She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dal Hawkins.

Robert A. Grant, formerly a theatrical manager, died March 22, in Burley, Idaho, where he was running a hotel. Mr. Grant was a resident of Springfield, Mass., until about twelve years ago, when he went to Ogden, Utah, to manage a theatre. His health failed and he moved to Burley and opened a hotel in that city. He is survived by a brother, Charles, of the team of Gardner and Stoddard, and a sister, Emma Grant, who is appearing in vaudeville.

Lucy B. Pixley, a sister of the late Lucie Pixley (Mrs. Julian Potter-Starr), and one Pixley died in New York City, April 3, after a short illness from pneumonia. Pixley was born in San Francisco, Cal., and came East with her parents when but a child. She had been connected with many prominent opera companies during her career, and retired about twelve years ago. Interment was made in Calvary Cemetery, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mrs. F. A. Heinze died April 2, in the Dorilton Apartments, 171 West Seventy-first Street, New York. Mrs. Heinze, who was the divorced wife of F. Augustus Heinze, was formerly well known on the stage as Bernice Golden Henderson, and made her last appearance in "A Fool for the Money." She also divorced from her first husband, Chas. A. Henderson. She was twenty-nine years of age.

Carl Stutzmann, a vaudeville performer, was found drowned in the Delaware River, off of East Camden, N. J., last week. He was of the late team of Stutzmann and May, who did an act called "The Soap Peddler." Stutzmann had been missing for about ten days. As his coat was found on the river bank it is thought he committed suicide. His home was in Williamsport, Pa.

E. J. Harrison, who was a cornet player with Harrison's Orchestra for many years, died March 24 in the Home for Incurables in his home town, St. John, N. B., Can. "Ned," as he was known to his professional friends, had been an inmate of the Home for the past two years. He is survived by a brother, Mortimer L. Harrison, who is the leader of the Harrison Orchestra.

Jeffrey French, who played a leading role with one of Cohan & Harris' "Officer 666" Co., dropped dead in the street in Dayton, O., March 28, while running to catch a train for Springfield. The company had been marooned in the Bechel House, Dayton, for three days. The remains were taken to Springfield for burial.

Mrs. Francis J. Huette, a graduate of the Boston Conservatory of Music, died Tuesday, April 1, at her home, No. 1713 East Fourteenth Street, Flatbush, Brooklyn, N. Y. Mrs. Huette appeared in grand opera many years ago. She was the mother of Gladys Huette, now appearing in "Little Women," and besides her daughter, two sons survive her.

William Arthur Law, actor and playwright, died April 5, at his home at Parkstone, Dorset, Eng., aged sixty-nine years. Mr. Law was the author of many plays, and had appeared at the Theatre Royal in Edinburgh; the Surrey Theatre and in the provinces during 1872 and 1874, and at the Savoy in 1881.

Mrs. Emma Groves, Maine's famous bearded woman, died April 3 at Marquill, Me., of pneumonia. Mrs. Groves was five feet six inches in height, and measured five feet eight inches around her waist, and weighed five hundred and seven pounds. She was born in Yarmouth in 1866.

John F. Ryan, an actor, died April 6 in Bellevue Hospital, New York City. Mr. Ryan was in his sixty-fifth year. He had played in Bartley Campbell's "White Slave," and his last engagement was in "Under Southern Skies," about four years ago.

Walter A. Lanigan Collins, a well known composer of music, died from pneumonia, March 27, at his home, 53 Snyder Place, Elmhurst, Queens Borough, N. Y. He was a bachelor, and lived with his brother and a married sister, Mrs. Foley.

George W. Dayton, who was one of the proprietors of the Galey vaudeville and moving picture theatre, in St. Paul, Minn., died suddenly in that city March 24. He had lived in St. Paul all his life. Burial was made 26.

Seth B. Spangler, character man with the Princess Stock Co., at Collinsville, Okla., was found dead in bed in a hotel in that city, March 24. Heart trouble was the cause of his death.

Sarah Plank Whyland, owner of the Whyland Opera House, St. Johnsville, N. Y., died Monday, March 31. She was sixty-two years of age.

Harry C. Stiles, who was well known in theatrical circles as a bandmaster, died week ending March 22, from diabetes, at his home in Lynn, Mass.

Nellie Oakley, wife of "Silvers" Oakley, died Tuesday, March 25, in New York.

Claudia Cuccchi, a well known Italian dancer of years ago, died week of March 24 in an almshouse in Milan, her native city. Her first success was at the Scala Theatre, in Milan, at the time when the Austro-Hungarian troops were in garrison there. She later went to Paris and then to Vienna, duplicating her successes wherever she appeared, and was repeatedly refusing offers of marriage from noblemen and, after breaking hearts in all directions, Claudia Cuccchi returned to Italy. Leaving Rome again, she next captivated Munich, and was soon after married to an Italian colonel, Baron Zeno, but they did not agree and the union was dissolved, and Cuccchi returned to Milan to rest on her laurels in the Via Capellari. Her second marriage was also unsuccessful. Her diamonds and valuable presents, received from crowned heads, were gradually turned into cash, and at last the once celebrated dancer was compelled to give dancing lessons for a living. The end came in the almshouse, and it is said no trace of a once beautiful woman was visible in her old age.

Thos. L. Coleman, an old-time actor, died March 21, at his home in Washington, D. C., from inflammatory rheumatism. He was born in 1837, in Chicago, and was educated in the public schools of Cincinnati, O. He commenced his career as an actor in the old Davenport Dramatic Club, of the latter city, where he soon attracted the attention of John W. Norton, then manager for Mary Anderson, who engaged him in her support. He was later associated with Modjeska, W. J. Florence, Barrett and Booth. Then came an engagement with the old Boston Museum Stock Co. After two seasons there he joined Julia Marlowe, with whom he played such parts as Mercutio, in "Romeo and Juliet," Charles Surface, in "The School for Scandal," Sir Thomas Clifford, in "The Hunchback," etc. He was then, for a season, leading man with Margaret Mather; then came more stock work, and he was again with Julia Marlowe, and lastly he was with the Southern and Marlowe Company. He leaves a wife, a son and daughter, a grandson, and a thousand friends.

Joe Ludwig, formerly known as Joe Price, died in St. Mary's Hospital, Brooklyn, N. Y., April 9, from pulmonary edema and asthma. Mr. Ludwig was well known years ago as a member of the team of Price and Barr, and had, until a few years ago, worked with his wife, Kate Price, under the team name of Price and Steele. He is survived by his widow, a father, four sisters and three brothers. Funeral services were held Friday morning, 11, at St. Brendan's Church, Avenue O, in Brooklyn.

John Walker.—H. P. Kane writes: "I wish to report to you the death of John Walker. I think his stage name was Russell. He was drowned here (Indianapolis, Ind.) trying to rescue a woman from the flood. I think his home is in New York, but he has a wife in Portland, Ore."

Guy Arthur Looper, an actor, died April 2 at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David D. Looper, 727 Wabash Avenue, Kansas City, Mo. Funeral was held at the home, 4, and burial made in Mount Washington Cemetery. Mr. Looper was twenty-six years of age.

Barney Baldwin, the broken necked wonder, who had been on exhibition for many years, and of late had been touring the West, demonstrating different remedies, died at Shawnee, Oklahoma, April 9. Coroner Paul Walker, of Shawnee, wishes to locate Baldwin's relatives. He had been with a number of shows, also in museums, lecturing upon the wonderful phenomena of living with a broken neck, and was known throughout the United States.

B. W. Froze (William Scott), of the Froze Trio, died March 23 at Minneapolis, Minn., and was interred 25. The funeral was attended by a large number of professionals.

Lillian Hudson, an actress, died March 29. She had been with various companies, including "The Rose of the Alhambra," "The Billionaire," and "In Newport."

OUT OF TOWN NEWS CINCINNATI.

Although the season is waning the floods and continued bad weather here carry little promise of Spring. Business is suffering because of these blighting conditions.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE (John H. Havlin, mgr.)—Julian Edginge week of April 14, in "The Fascinating Widow." "Ben-Hur" did very well last week. Mrs. Pike comes for 21 and week.

LYRIC (James E. Fennessy, mgr.)—William Faversham 14 and week, in "Julius Caesar," with Julie Opp, B. D. McLean, Edwin Arden and Fuller Melish in his supporting company. Cincinnatians enjoyed "The Passing Show of 1912," and laughed at the antics of Tricie Frigman, Mrs. Leslie Carter, in "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray," week of 21.

WALNUT STREET (W. F. Jackson, mgr.)—"Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" week of 13, after a successful week of "The Spring Maid," in which Marguerite Wright was seen as the Princess Borena. Anna Orr made a great hit in the role of Annamir. "The Shepherd of the Hills" follows.

B. F. KEITH'S (John F. Royal, mgr.)—Ray Cox, assisted by Joseph A. Woodward, is the headliner for week of 14. Others are: Paul Morton and Naomi Gray, Ralph Souze, Don Falano, James Cullen, Ted and Ethel Dooley, and the Edison talking pictures.

EMPEROR (George F. Fish, mgr.)—The tabloid musical comedy "The Passenger" week, and John White's Comedy Company were top liners of the bill opening 12. Others are: Palace Quartette, Charles Daly and Kitty O'Brien, Bennett Sisters, Joe Birnes, and motion pictures.

PEOPLE'S (James E. Fennessy, mgr.)—The Girls from Missouri week opening 12. Last week the Dandy Girls were seen. They missed the Sunday openings and started Monday matinee. Sallie Ward and Eddy Swartz were featured. One of the hits of the show was scored by Stella Wood, Ada Billbury, Anne Yale and Ray Shirley were other favorites. The Rollickers are due 20.

STANDARD (R. K. Hynicka, mgr.)—Al Reeves' Beauty Show week of 13. Clark's Runaway Girls also missed both Sunday shows, and opened Monday matinee. The Burke Brothers are at the head of the company, with Joe Opp and Joe Mack their principal aids. In "The Maid of Montezuma," and "Diamond Palace," the feminine cohorts were in splendid evidence. Tricie Glendorn, Anna Rose and Mile Silver were chief among these "Runaways." The Models de Luxe went big. Beauty, Youth and Folly is underlined for week of 20.

ORPHEUM (Walter Canfield, mgr.)—Abie Elkus, of the old Stock, now of Dugan and Elkus, was welcomed here 10. Others were: Rio and Norman, Mack and Scherfles, Wilson and Brown, Dunn and Hughes, the Nelles, Froze, Powers and Freed, and Brennan and Carroll.

MUSIC HALL—Florence Turner, the motion picture actress, is featured week opening 13. The picture headliner was "Cleopatra," with Helen Gardner as the Egyptian queen. "The Prisoner of Zenda" drew increasing crowds last week. John Bunney, the comedian, was uproariously greeted, and he made good in a monologue. Flood pictures of Dayton and Hamilton, O., were also shown.

EMERY AUDITORIUM—Elena Gerhardt was the soloist at the Symphony Orchestra Concerts 11, 12.

GERMAN (Ernst Otto Schmid, mgr.)—The German Players present "Das Suesse Maedel," with Rosel Frey in the cast, this week. She is the daughter of Karl Kraft, who played in Cincinnati's German Theatre thirty-two years ago.

NEW LYCEUM—HECK'S OPERA HOUSE, FAMILY, AUDITORIUM and CENTURY, all combination and vaudeville houses, are showing pictures, and vaudeville.

JOHN A. ELLSLER.

John A. Ellsler, the actor-manager, was born Sept. 26, 1822, in Philadelphia, Pa., and entered the theatrical business Aug. 30, 1840, as office assistant in Peale's Museum, Philadelphia, which was operated as a theatre. The museum, which was in the Masonic Hall Building, in Chestnut Street, was converted many years afterward into the Temple Theatre, which ultimately was burned.

Mr. Ellsler drifted from the front of the house to the stage, becoming at length the assistant property man. Before long, small speaking parts with a very few lines came his way, and he was installed as a member of the stock company, which included, among others: Joseph Jefferson, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Burke, Mrs. Gannon and Mrs. John Hoey. Remaining a season as a player at Peale's, young Ellsler then joined W. E. Burton's company at the Arch Street Theatre, where he stayed for several years, commencing to play heavy roles and first old men. At this house he played for three seasons, coming thence to the Chatham Theatre, in New York, where his wife played leading roles, especially juvenile leads, and he portrayed first old men and character parts.

Joseph Jefferson was then at the Chatham, and his half brother, Charles Burke, was stage manager. Mr. Ellsler and his wife left this theatre, after Captain Purdy assumed the management, and went to Charleston, S. C., with Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson, who were again engaged for the same company. They were managed by a Mr. Adams, with whom they disagreed, and, canceling their contract, Mr. Jefferson, William Dearing and Mr. Ellsler took the company and made their first start in the managerial field. Opening auspiciously at Savannah, they played at Macon, Augusta, Charleston and Wilmington, filling the season with profit.

The next year Mr. Jefferson and Mr. Ellsler took a company over the same circuit, making Savannah and Charleston central points, and playing in support of such stars as they were popular. After eight or nine months Mr. Jefferson joined Laura Keane's New York company, and Mr. Ellsler wandered in another direction, becoming connected with a stock company at Baltimore. This concern failed after a few struggling months, and the players were thrown out of work. At their solicitation Mr. Ellsler undertook to manage them over the Southern circuit, familiar to Mr. Jefferson and himself. At Cumberland, Md., many members fell ill of typhoid fever, suffering for twelve or thirteen weeks. Not anticipating the long duration of the illness,

Mr. Ellsler kept and paid the entire company and, when they had convalesced, moved all to Utica, N. Y., where he became associated in the management of the Utica Museum. For two seasons he and his wife played there with occasional visits to Rochester, Syracuse, Watertown, Oswego and other nearby cities.

Finding this circuit unprofitable, he ventured, in 1855, to Cleveland, O., taking the house then known as Foster's Varieties, which afterwards was christened the Academy of Music, which he managed until 1859, playing all the prominent stars then traveling with his regular stock company. Still acting himself, he was manager, press agent and stage manager. The seasons were divided between Cleveland and Columbus—for the season of the Legislature in mid-Winter—and lasted from September until July, when he went for the summer to the small towns, Akron, Canton, Mansfield and New Philadelphia, until a few weeks before re-opening, when a fortnight's rest was taken from sheer necessity. In that company were: James Lewis, Mrs. G. H. Gilbert, R. E. Graham, W. E. Owens, Joseph Whiting, Joseph Haworth, Clara Morris and others, who afterwards rose to prominence in the profession. In 1859 Mr. Ellsler took charge of Wood's Theatre, Cincinnati, O., which had been under the management of George Wood, where he continued until the war began, when he closed out his interest and returned to the Cleveland Academy of Music.

In 1871 he obtained control of the new Opera House at Pittsburgh. By this time combinations had begun to travel, and he made one stock company play at both houses, switching back and forth so as to admit combinations at either city. At Pittsburgh he added to his cares the Lyceum and Library Hall, but surrendered the latter as soon as his lease expired. Continuing in control of the Cleveland Academy of Music, the Pittsburgh Opera House and Lyceum until 1873, he then commenced to build the Euclid Avenue Opera House, at Cleveland, putting into this structure all the money accumulated in his many years of work, and losing every dollar of it. The Pittsburgh houses remained under the direction of his wife and himself until 1884, when they moved to New York.

Mr. Ellsler died Aug. 21, 1903, at his New York home. He was survived by his wife, his daughters, Effie (who became famous for her portrayal of Hazel Kirke), Annie May, and two sons, John J. and Wm. C. The remains were taken to Cleveland Aug. 23, for interment.

CIRCUS NEWS

SPARKS' SHOW OPENS.

The twenty-eighth season of the Sparks World Famous Shows opened at Salisbury, N. C., April 10, and crowds that filled the new big tent to the ring-bank witnessed the opening performance. The local Lodge of Elks, under whose auspices the show was presented, and to whom Manager Charles Sparks donated a liberal share of the receipts, had charge of the day's program, and they certainly made it a memorable one in the history of Salisbury amusements. The lodge turned out in a body and headed the parade, and the merchants showed their appreciation of Mr. Sparks by closing their places of business during the afternoon. The public school children were also given a half holiday. Delegations were present from most of the lodges of the State, and a reception and banquet was tendered the visitors and circus folks after the night show. It was the general opinion of all who witnessed the opening performance that Manager Charles Sparks has the strongest performance this year yet presented under his direction.

The parade was nearly a mile in length and was viewed by thousands. The Great Reynard furnished the free outside attraction, riding a unicycle down a long incline while blindfolded, and the big feature of the big show was the troupe of performing seals and sea lions worked by Capt. Wesley. The Valentine troupe of aerialists, and the baseball elephants were other prominent acts. Prof. Jack Phillips' band furnished splendid music. Harry Hall had Turner's Minstrels and the Flying Lady illusion as features in the side show, and did a big business.

The performance ran with absolute smoothness, thanks to the skillful direction of Equestrian Director Bert Mayo. After the first performance Manager Sparks was kept busy receiving congratulations, and the opening was, in every respect, a success. Mrs. Chas. Sparks was in her accustomed place on the reserved seats, and Treasurer Clifton Sparks handled the pasteboards in the wagon.

Fletcher Smith took good care of the newspaper men present, and also officiated as official announcer.

The program was made up of fourteen displays and between each the clowns led by Stoddard and Wallace created plenty of fun pulling off some original stunts. The program follows:

Display No. 1.—Grand entry and spectacular tournament introducing the performance.

Display No. 2.—The Great Reynards, introducing feats hitherto unattempted in their wonderful bicycle act.

Display No. 3.—A splendid triple bar act by the Guise Bros.

Display No. 4.—High School Menage Horse Bird, introducing the walk and numerous gait by Mrs. Bert Mayo.

Display No. 5.—A conclave of acts, Miss Bartelle, on a lofty trapeze. The Valentinos, rings; The Armenians, contortion.

Display No. 6.—An act that has set the world talking, Captain Wesley, and his wonderful trained seals.

Display No. 7.—A new and novel troupe of trained Arabian Horses; Myrtle Mayo.

Display No. 8.—Most difficult and graceful performance in mid-air by The Valentinos.

STAATS BROS.' NEW SHOWS.

"The work of fitting and painting up is progressing very nicely at the Winter quarters. Ed. Staats is putting the finishing touches on our wagons, and they will look very flashy. C. Callahan will have the band. The program will be one of the best ever seen with a wagon show of this size. The roster of show is: E. E. Staats and Roland Staats, proprietors; Jack Clark, general manager; Charles Frick, general agent; Mrs. E. E. Staats, superintendent of privileges; Ed. Staats, secretary; Ginger White, superintendent of canvas. The show will open at Washington, N. J., May 1."

LOUIS E. COOKE, general agent of the Two Bills' Show, is being highly complimented for this season's production. Record breaking crowds in Philadelphia attest the success with which the various novelties have been received.

EDWARD GRINSTED and EARL HANKINS, musicians, who last season were with the Ripple Bros' Show, have signed a contract for the season of 1913 with the La Mont Bros' Show. Mr. Hankins was a victim of the recent flood which swept the city of West Terre Haute, Ind., which is his home town.

BARNEY BALDWIN, the broken-neck wonder, died at Shawnee, Okla., April 9. Coroner Paul Walker is anxious to locate Baldwin's relatives.

JAMES WILSON, the old boss canvas man, who had both of his feet frozen the past winter, underwent an operation recently, at the Good Samaritan Hospital, in Lebanon, Pa., which necessitated the amputation of both feet.

RANCH 101 opened Saturday, April 5, at Hot Springs, Ark., and then went to St. Louis for a week's engagement.

FRED JENKS, now managing the Washington Roller Skating Rink in Saginaw, Mich., one hot day last season came in from the circus ring and, getting up on his trunk, announced that it was his last season with the circus boys. The old clowns smiled and said they would see him there with "the big umbrella just the same." "But," added Fred recently, "I won't be with them as the roller rink is keeping me busy. The season is a big one, and an eight piece band and a Wuriltzer military band organ is drawing large crowds." Mr. Jenks will close his Winter rink in May and open his rink at the Riverside Park, in Saginaw, in June.

ERNE WATERS, twenty-four-hour man for Miller's Ranch 101, dropped off in Corry, Pa., recently to visit his brother Jean, old-time showman, and his nephew, "Nelt," who runs a moving picture house there. Erne has the reputation of being one of the best twenty-four-hour men in the business. Ed C. Knapp, the general agent of Howe's European Circus, married a sister of this old reliable.

HARRY WILSON, the tattooed man, is running a hotel in Jonestown, Pa., called the Race Horse, and would be pleased to hear from friends far and near that town.

JOCKO AND BERTY, the trained giant rhesus monkeys with the Heber Bros' Greater Shows, became parents, on April 6, when a healthy baby monkey was born to them, at Columbus, O. Unlike many animals this "baby" was born with its eyes open. The Heber Bros. Shows were on high ground, their horses, wagons, and training barns being out of reach of the high water marks, and they will open in Columbus, April 28, for a six days' stand. Entire new and larger tents, and new equestrian, animal, aerial, and daredevil acts of all kinds are featured.

BARNUM & BAILEY NOTES.

BY ERNEST ANDERSON.

Once again the "Greatest on Earth" is in perfect working order after its long Winter's rest. The folks with it are all anxious for the first parade, which will take place in Brooklyn on 21, and believe me, it is some parade.

Everybody is recounting their experiences of the past Winter, which seems to have been a pretty good one for all the B. & B. folks.

That charming little lady, May Wirth, created quite a furore in vaudeville with her marvelous riding; so much so that in one city a banquet was given in her honor, at which places were given the horses at the same table as their darling little mistress. Madame Berzac is with us again after a holiday spent in England with her husband, Cliffe Berzac. Madame's sweet smile and graceful manners have made her quite a favorite round the show.

Fred Lasere and his wife had quite a fine time building a house on their land down in Florida, they slept under canvas until they had built their house, and judging by the photographs, it is some nifty little home-stead.

Burns O'Sullivan, Fred Bradna's capable young assistant, has been rehearsing a troupe of boy scouts all Winter; they made a hit with the Bill Show. "Sully" is now resplendent in a full dress suit and a silk hat which "One Round Hogan" eyes with malicious intent.

Mickey Graves, our boss property man, since his visit home to Ireland, has become quite a highbrow, so much so, that his forehead now extends to the back of his neck, and flies dance with joy on the gleaming dome.

Jim Rossi has been doing a double act all Winter with Ann-Heuser. Jim has a new gag on the track in which he carries his own brewery, but horror of horrors, some careless wretch smashed the big glass, which is the main part of the gag, and there is much weeping and wailing, and dire threats have been passed over the head of the hapless youth that broke up such a glorious act.

Harry Clemings is still extracting burnt cork from his ears with the aid of a toothpick. All Winter the "Million Dollar Chicken" has been to "Fields" a fresh and pastures new. Harry has succeeded in raising a darling moustache on his forehead, which was once a vacant lot.

Shorty Pierre is back with the "big trick," after an extended tour with "Sir Richard Carney Ford." Shorty was very much taken in with the sights. He says touring is very expensive.

Jerome is busy trying to make the side show freaks jealous by posing as the hairless wonder. His head, sure, looks some work of art, believe me! Art Jarvis suggested that Ed. Rounds had a grudge against Jerome, and was practicing the barber shop gag on him.

Buck Baker has been having quite a picnic with his six day bicycle race. Buck says he has worn out three glass eyes trying to find out what is the matter with his motor cycle.

Fred Dirks has been very busy training sheep, all of which would gaze pathetically at him, then croak. Fred is also the proud possessor of an untamable goose of sufragical inclinations, which does everything but go on a hunger strike or work.

Pat Valdo has returned this season. He is some boy, slaving away with the sweat flowing freely from his fevered brow. Pat works so hard that even his automobile is tired. Herman Josephs, contrary to the traditions of his ancient race, is working hard. The boys all say Herman's proboscis is a prominent feature with the show.

Denver Darling is now a real estate owner. According to Rossi, Denver is also studying grand opera, his favorite being "Carydew Rushtecanno," under the personal direction of Prof. Richard Smythe.

Jack Hedder, that enthusiastic mezzo-soprano, has been training his quartette on

W. M. MOSELEY AND W. DAVID COHN.

It is interesting to record the fact that W. M. Moseley and W. David Cohn are probably the only two promoters who have been under one carnival management for a period of six years, and have been re-engaged for their seventh season. In the promotion of floral parades, merchants' displays, Queen contests and special programs for the Con T. Kennedy Shows, Messrs. Moseley and Cohn have established an enviable reputation. They enjoy the acquaintance of nearly every fair manager, director and secretary in the United States and Canada, and they have a happy faculty of making friends wherever they go. The season of 1913 finds them under the Con T. Kennedy carnival banner, full of enthusiasm over the prospects and determined to outdo their previous record for efficiency.

birdseed, and they are now in full blast, warbling at their best, sometimes reaching top z. Their favorite chant all Winter was "Take Me Back to the Garden of Love."

Their wish has been granted. James Rutherford is one of the new boys with the B. & B. With his fire brigade gag he shows the folks a hot time. It is certainly a surefire gag, though his bride travesty gags over the people's head, it is also there as a shriek producer.

4 GREAT, BIG SONGS THAT ARE SMASHING, BIG HITS 4

Music by
PERCY WENRICH

POSITIVELY THE GREATEST MARCH BALLAD EVER WRITTEN. BAR NONE.

KENTUCKY DAYS

Even if you have never sung a march ballad, you will eventually sing this wonderful applause winner. It is a new idea in song writing. The climax catch lines in the chorus come spontaneously and are a riot. You can follow any act, or take any spot on the bill with this encore getter. A whirlwind opening number. A cyclonic finisher. No adjective can describe it. Get it—that's all.

THE MOONIEST MOON SONG EVER CONCEIVED.

TENNESSEE MOON

Great actors are imitated, so are great songs. The country is flooded with imitations of this great song. It must be a great number when the choosers even lift lines from it. This is the original, and only successor to Percy Wenrich's "Moonlight Bay."

A SONG THAT DOES JUSTICE TO THE ROSE.

THAT'S WHY THE ROSE NEVER DIES

Like the flower, the song is an American Beauty. A ballad in all that the word implies. A song that will live forever. It's the coming big hit in ballads. Don't overlook it.

THE SUPRISE HIT OF THE YEAR. JACK MAHONEY'S FIRST MELODY.

PLANTATION TUNES

Percy Wenrich says he couldn't have written a better melody himself. Anybody can sing this. It is a great opening or closing number. A novel lyric. Great melody. Full of harmony. Will fit any act, but especially great for quartettes. Watch this come along.

PEACHES Dolly Connolly's applause Riot. Comic Novelty with Patter Chorus.	WHEN YOUR'E LIVING IN A COLLEGE TOWN A Comic March Song.	SHAMROCK BELLES A Great Irish Song.
SWEET MEMORIES A beautiful Ballad, by Jean Lennox and Fred Spencer	I MISS MY MISSISSIPPI MAN A Southern Novelty.	I'LL JUST FOLLOW YOU Conversational Song.

FLAIG & GILPIN STOCK NEWS.

This company, presenting tabloid stock, has been meeting with wonderful success through Southern Illinois. Benton, Ill., was a stand that the show had misfortune at. They were caught in the midst of a cyclone, and for a while it looked as if the show would lose all its baggage, but through the hand of Providence all came through safely. All mail was late, but through the kindness of Mr. Turner we were able to secure THE OLD RELIABLE. Despite the hard knocks that a few tabloid stocks got through this section, we have been getting our share of good business. On April 1 the entire show were the guests of Mr. Wedeman, owner of the Kilt Karson Buffalo Ranch Show, at Harrisburg, and quite a theatrical colony was there. During the musical show Kilgour's Comedians and our people had a splendid time. The members enjoyed themselves so much that they had to hustle to get back to Eldorado, where the show was playing, in time for the evening performance. The company is at Indianapolis, Ind., for stock for a few weeks, then over through Kentucky and West Virginia for a few weeks before opening on the Tri-State Airdome Circuit. Arthur F. Moore (late of the Bailey-Austin "Top of the World" Co.) joined the show at Harrisburg as scenic artist. "Dusty" Clark also is a late addition. Eldorado proved a banner week, S. B. O. at five shows. This show is something new in the tabloid line, giving three and four act plays in fifty minutes. Special paper and scenery have been added to the show. We find no trouble to book the show, as THE OLD RELIABLE is urgent. Owing to the number of requests for return dates, Messrs. Flaig & Gilpin are thinking of putting out a No. 2 show to play the return dates, while the No. 1 show plays the airdome circuit. John Gilpin, one of the owners, is eagerly awaiting the return of Master Carl Gilpin, who has been at school, and who will join the show in May. Messrs. Flaig & Gilpin see that the "man in white" makes his visit every Saturday night, as does THE CLIPPER. Everybody is in the best of health and eagerly awaiting the trip over the airdome circuit. Wallie Stephens has been getting his fishing tackle in repair, and is ready to catch anything from a minnow to a shark. We all join in thanking you for that Registry Bureau; it's certainly handy.

NOTES from the Quality Stock Co.—Our recent "ad." in THE CLIPPER brought us over one hundred answers, and we secured some good people, in the place of those who were obliged to leave for their Summer engagements. Bobby Gossans left to join Brown & Roberts' "Jesse James" Co. He will be with John W. Vogel's Minstrels again next season. Gordon McDowell, the well known character actor, met with an accident, and sprained his ankle. He was obliged to remain at Martin, Tenn., until he is able to walk again. We have formed a circuit of twelve towns in Tennessee, and play them two nights each. Business has been splendid. George Hawley and wife joined at Gleason. This is our twenty-second week, and we will remain out until the middle of May. Ed. C. McClure, who has been in advance of the Carleton Sisters' company the past season, has signed with the Lewis Stock Co., a two car repertoire show under canvas, to act in the same capacity. The show is one of the finest equipped tent outfits in the West, and will open their season in Nebraska early in May.

EDWARD L. PATTERSON, after a siege of illness, has rejoined the American Players, who are playing an extended engagement in Louisville, Ky. The professional people in that city answered the call for help from the flood districts promptly, by giving cash instead of services.

FROM COL. STANTON.
Col. Bill Stanton, resident manager of the Auditorium Theatre, in Fitchburg, Mass., writes: "This town, fifty miles from Boston, took on an air of city theatricals recently, as the following will show. The Grayce Stock Co., one of Nathan Appells' twenty people stock companies that played the Auditorium recently to a big week's business, left for Newburyport, and in one hour in came the Billy Allen Musical Comedy Co., numbering thirty-eight people, and managed by William Harder, of the Myrtle-Harder Stock Co. Arriving with them were a big bunch of vaudeville artists that opened at the Bijou, and the twenty added stock players of the Baylies Stock Co., that will be at the Auditorium this Summer, opening April 14, in 'The Man from Home.' And so Fitchburg looked like a real theatrical colony. The Allen Musical Comedy Co. members made a fine appearance on the street, looking for accommodations, for they are all good looking and were dressed to the Easter limit. Business at the Auditorium is brisk, and all shows that have the goods get the money. Harry Katzes, the lessee and general manager, is putting his best foot forward in the formation of the Auditorium Stock Co., that opened Monday, 14, the leading lady of which is Louise Kent, and the leading man, Henry Hicks."

FRED R. HERNIMAN and wife (Nana De Land) have gone to their home in New Lisbon, Wis., for a few weeks' rest. They expect to open in stock the latter part of May.

CALUMET COUPLE WEDDED.
Will C. Chase, heavy man, and Pauline Westerly, leading lady, both of the Calumet Stock Co., in Chicago, were married in that city, March 10.

"HAPPY LOU" WHITNEY Stock Co. Notes.—We closed our forty-sixth week, March 29, at Clinton, Mich., where everything was shipped to headquarters, Imlay City, Mich., to get ready for Summer season under canvas, which opens May 1, at Imlay City. Although we have not turned them away and broken all house records, we have had a very successful season, and closed with no change in cast since September. Mr. Barton received the sad news of his mother's death, Easter Sunday, which made a sad closing week. He returned Thursday and finished the season. Our cast: J. C. Welsh, Billy Walbourn, Ralph Barton, Tom Oakley, W. C. Hodges, Mark Beckwith, Rita Radcliffe, Rachel Travis, Master Thomas Oakley, with "Happy Lou" and Gypsy.

H. WILMOT YOUNG, proprietor and manager of the Young-Adams Co., at Gault's Empire Theatre, in Halifax, N. S., sends us a souvenir of the one hundredth performance of that company, in the form of an appropriate enclosed photograph of himself.

At B. F. Keith's Harlem Opera House, this week, "A Butterfly on the Wheel" is being presented for the first time in stock. Florence Malone, former star of "The Commuters" and "The Talker," and the new leading lady here, is playing the title role of Peggy.

MANAGER CLAYTON'S LUCKY THIRTEENTH.

The man who says that there is no such thing as superstition, and that "13" is just as ordinary as any other of the numerals, now has a good chance for an argument. The latest debate, "resolved that '13' is not an unlucky number," is now foremost in the mind of F. E. Clayton, manager of Bobby Robbins' Company, and he is willing to back the negative side of the argument. The reason for his strong belief is easily accounted for.

Mr. Clayton was playing with his company, at Greensburg, Ind., Monday evening, March 24. He attended the annual Easter dance with his wife, Bobby Robbins, at the Elks' Temple—his intention being to leave Greensburg for Indianapolis, that night, on a little business trip—he planned to spend the time after the performance at the opera house, dancing until train time, 1.45 A. M. About ten minutes before the arrival of his train, he noticed that he had participated in just thirteen dances. Being superstitious he decided to wait until the next dance and avoid the "hoo-doo." He did so and missed his train. That very train that Mr. Clayton missed was wrecked a few miles out of Greensburg. Two people were killed and a score injured, the smoker on the train being the car that suffered. Mr. Clayton decided that "thirteen" probably saved his life. His company was one of the most fortunate in the flooded district. By chance they were playing the home town of Miss Robbins, and they were royally entertained at the Robbins home. Greensburg was one of the few towns that was not severely damaged by the flood.

The Bobby Robbins Company were to play the following week in Paris, Ill., but owing to the suspended train service were unable to leave Greensburg until the following Thursday. However, they arrived in Paris safe, and played the last three days there. The company is now able to play the balance of its season's bookings. In spite of the terrible catastrophe, manager Clayton reports excellent business, with the S. B. O. sign very much in evidence.

MANAGERS SKIP.

Sans managers, sans salaries, sans transportation and sans several other essentials to an actor's happiness and well-being, the Youngstown Players trooped into Gloversville, N. Y., April 4, from Johnstown, and sat down to wonder. They were stranded at Gloversville when both managers of the company skipped with the "cash on hand."

THE GARSDALE STOCK CO. were forced to close their stock season at Paducah, Ky., ten days sooner than they intended on account of the flood. There was no heat of any kind, and every light was out in the city except the street lights. There are still a few dry spots around the post office. The water measures 54 1-10 feet, and is only 1-10 foot from the record flood of 1884. All members of the Garsdale Company were unable to leave town for a few days. "The Crest" was expected there Sunday, April 6, with Vogel's Minstrels due 5, but were unable to make it. The city was not under martial law, but the militia were on hand ready for any emergency. The roster of the Garsdale Co. is: Jas. S. Garsdale, Emma Warren, Harry E. Vickery, Eunice Vickery, T. I. Fahl, Cecil Wood Clarendon, Cliff Hastings, Ella Kramer, Harvey Leighton, and Chas. E. Henshaw. This is the first time in five years this show has closed. All salaries, including Holy Week, were paid in full.

HARVEY STOCK CO. NOTES.—The Harvey Stock Co., under the management of Harvey D. Orr, closed its engagement at Mason City, Ia., April 12, after a run of twenty-five weeks, without one losing week. This is a remarkable record when it is considered that Mason City has a population of only about 15,000 people. The members of the company became great favorites soon after their opening week, and their business has been remarkable. They celebrate their twenty-fifth performance on the night of their closing, with appropriate souvenirs.

THE Tempest Co., under the management of Leon J. Tempest, opened after a two weeks' layoff, in White Haven, Pa., to S. B. O. Before reorganizing, Mr. Tempest put in a season of thirty-seven weeks to record breaking business. Mr. Tempest is one of the youngest acting managers in the repertoire business. His new company includes the following: Lois Cole, juvenile leads; Mame Winters, characters and heavies; Grace Mack, soubrettes and Ingenues; Leon J. Tempest, comedian, owner and manager; Clair F. Steel, director, heavies; Raymond Mack, juveniles; Reginald Durand, leads; Robert Oswald, gen. business, and last, but not least, B. B. Byers, musical director. Clair F. Steel is one of the best directors in repertoire or stock. Mr. Tempest also carries a feature line of vaudeville acts. Among those which he features are: The Mackes, which do a clever singing, talking and dancing act; also Mr. Tempest, who as a comedian never fails to get them. The OLD RELIABLE is with us every week, and certainly received with open arms.

NOTES from the Selden-Stetson Co.—"I, as manager of the Selden-Stetson Co., wish to correct the statement made in the issue of THE NEW YORK CLIPPER dated March 29. It was not the Nita Pearl Co. that was burned out in Ravenna, O., but the Selden-Stetson Co., playing the Royal Theatre. We have had stock there for two seasons, playing to very good business. The fire occurred on Sunday morning, and we had just closed a three nights' run of 'The End of the Trail,' instead of 'Sapho.' Some of the people lost considerable wardrobe, the principal losers being Clyde G. Holmes, Chris. Massaker and Harry Stetson. Several of the others lost considerable. The members of the company were: Harry Stetson, manager and proprietor; Clyde G. Holmes, Harry Ford, Chris. Massaker, Richard Walling, Jeannette Norland, Nita Pearl and Frances Hyde. The Selden-Stetson Co. will re-open in May with a new airdome theatre." Signed, HARRY STETSON.

LUCY HAYES ASSOCIATE PLAYERS NOTES.—We are now in our eighty-eighth week. With the exception of a three days' layoff last May. We consider this quite a record for a new company, and are proud of the reputation we are making. We are making great preparations for next season, and have secured the Mid-Western rights to Mark Swan's splendid plays, "The Unwritten Law" and "The Silver Dagger," and are negotiating for a third. The roster of the company is as follows: Lucy M. Hayes, manager; Mrs. L. A. Hayes, treasurer; Edward Ferguson, Chas. Moran, Edward Henderson, Del McDermid, Anna Nelson, Ruth Kackley and Vida Thomsen.

OUT OF TOWN NEWS

Terre Haute, Ind.—On account of the floods and washouts, the Grand has been dark since March 24, except Elks' Minstrels, given 31 and April 1. "The Rose Maid," "The Quaker Girl," "The Passing Show of 1912," "Excuse Me," "Butterfly on the Wheel," Dave Lewis and Henry Kolker companies were all canceled, being unable to reach here.

Grand (T. W. Barhydt Jr., mgr.)—This house re-opened April 11, with Henry Kolker, in "Our Wives," for two days. Julian Eltinge April 15, "The Quaker Girl" 14, Wright Huntington Stock Co. 15-May 4.

Varieties (Jack Hoefler, mgr.)—Bill 14-16: Gillette's Monks, Francis Murphy, Quintin and Richards, Urenee and Decosta, and Barto Trio. Bill 17-20: Four Castors, Linton and Lawrence, Manley and Walsh, James Holiday and company, and Four Van Staats.

Orpheum (Reentlinger & English, mgrs.)—Organ recital and pictures.
Lois (E. B. Sheets, mgr.)—Vaudeville and pictures.

Savoy, Colonial, Fountain, Princess, Crescent, Elk and American, moving pictures.
Note.—The Elks Minstrels, March 31, April 1, at the Grand, did capacity business. At the close of performance night of 1, Roy Lawrence, director, was presented with a gold watch, and Wm. K. Hamilton, former star of "The Texas Steer" Co., who wrote and directed the afterpiece, received a diamond pin. Geo. Schaaf, past exhibitor, made the presentation speech. The production was one of the best amateur performances ever given here, and was repeated, 8, for the benefit of the flood sufferers, two thousand tickets having been disposed of up to 7.

Denver, Col.—Broadway (Peter McCourt, mgr.)—"Fine Feathers" April 14 and week.
Orpheum (A. O. Carson, mgr.)—Bill 14 and week: "Puss and Boots," Edwards, Ryan and Tierney, Apdile's Animals, Florence Modena and company, the Kyles, Claude Golden, and Edison's talking moving pictures.

Elks (George A. Boyer, mgr.)—Bill 12 and week: Ruth Lockwood, Harry Van, Electric City Park, Bobby Pandur and Brother, Haverly and Carter, Floyd Mack, Robson and Maybelle, Roubie Sims, and Gaumont's Weekly.

Elks (Peter McCourt, mgr.)—Bill 13 and week: Four Burns Sisters, Rhodes and McFarland, McGreevey and Davis, Otis Mitchell, Jack Miller and moving pictures.

Elks (Nat. Darling, mgr.)—Bill 13 and week: Four Regals, Jack and Dixie Ellises, Mitchell, Fields Brothers, and Motograph.

Barker (Harry Ward, mgr.)—Stanton Musical Comedy Co. and moving pictures.

Notes.—W. B. Bailey, who was here recently, looking after the Bert Levey interests, has originated a unique advertising plan. All children are given a button, and these are recognized for five cents at the box office.

Detroit, Mich.—Detroit (B. C. Whitney, mgr.)—Billie Burke, in "The Mind-the-Palot Girl," week of April 14.

Garrison (R. H. Lawrence, mgr.)—Harry Lauder week of 14.

Lyceum (R. D. Stair, mgr.)—Vaughan Glaser Co. in "The Melting Pot," week of 13.

Gaiety (Wm. Roache, mgr.)—Columbia Burlesques week of 13.

Reno (Drew & Campbell, mgrs.)—Girls from Reno week of 13.

Folly (H. Shutt, mgr.)—Parisian Beauties week of 13.

Temple (J. H. Moore, mgr.)—Bill week of 14: Lillian Shaw, Edith and company, De Lasso Kathryn Kidder and company, Lillian Shaw, Edith and company, De Lasso Brothers, Cortis and Florence, Wilson Brothers, Meredith and "Smooch," McKee and Olegg, Nevins and Woodward, and the Moorescope.

Broadway (J. M. Ward, mgr.)—Business up Bill week of 4: Francesca and Trahter, Willard's Temple of Music, W. B. Patton and company, Becker and Francis, Laurie and Yost, Matt Keefe, and the Wardscope.

Miles (O. W. Porter, mgr.)—Good business. To the standard. Bill week 14: "The Girl in the Y," George M. George and company, Bayone Whipple and Walter Houston and company, Beth Stone, Harry Antrim, Hamlin and Mack, Harry Touda, and the Milescope.

Jackson, Mich.—Athenaeum (H. J. Porter, mgr.)—"Mutt and Jeff" April 11, Helen Graye Co. week of 15.

Bizou (Frank R. Lampman, mgr.)—Bill 12-16: "The Owl and the Moon," For 17-19: Graham's rats and cats, the Kaufmans, Shaw and Packard, Al, Abbott, and Frank North and company.

Wichita, Kan.—Crawford (E. L. Martling, mgr.)—Donald Brian, in "The Siren," was here April 9. The Wolfe Stock Company was given a benefit performance on the evening of 7, and remained all week, presenting "The Greyhound."

Francesca (L. M. Miller, mgr.)—Bill for week of 7 includes: Nellie Andrews' Opera Company, Jessie Haywood and company, De Onzo Bros., Cole, Russell and Davis, Henry Mulock, and Princesses. Splendid business.

Empress (John Lovelidge, mgr.)—Opening week, beginning 7, "Merry Mary," a musical tabloid, drew good houses.

Forum (E. M. Leach, mgr.)—Chicago Grand Opera Co., with Tevrasini and the grand ballet, presented "Lucia De Lammermoor," 14.

Keokuk, Ia.—Grand (Chas. H. Dodge, mgr.)—"The Confession" did well April 10. "Bought and Paid For" 16, "A Modern Eve" 17.

Hippodrome (Mark Angell, mgr.)—The inclement weather during week of 7 did not interfere with good business at this theatre. Bill week of 14: Dilla and Templeton, Frank Rogers, Billy Link and Blossom Robinson, Mile. Gertrude, Two Oeberters, Morgan and Thompson, and Dredner and Prince.

Colonial, Orpheum and Grand, picture houses, are doing very satisfactory business.

EARLY HISTORY OF NEGRO MINSTRELSY

ITS RISE AND PROGRESS IN THE UNITED STATES

BY COL. T. ALLSTON BROWN.

The Canterbury Minstrels

Was a first class minstrel party engaged in March, 1862, at Canterbury Music Hall, Broadway, New York. They comprised: R. M. Carroll, E. Byron Christy, Billy Birch, Ben Cotton, J. A. Herman, W. Ross, Harry Wilson, and Geo. Germaine.

It was at this time that the match dance controversy was started among the friends of Carroll (who was at the Canterbury), and Tommy Peel (of Bryant's). Many other dancers laid claim to being the best—or champion dancer. After much talk, a "match" was made between Carroll and Peel for $250 a side, and the championship. The trial took place at Wallack's Theatre, Broadway, near Broome Street, New York, on Wednesday afternoon, April 16, 1862, at about 4 P. M.

Tommy had the first put in, Frank Converse furnishing the music on his old cremona. Carroll followed, with Wm. Ross as his "musician." The result was Peel was decided the victor.

The amount of stakes (said to be $500) was deposited in the hands of a Mr. Van Tine, who was chosen stakeholder. The attendance at the theatre was large. A short variety entertainment preceded the dance. Robert Hart, judge for Carroll, announced that the audience would keep quiet and no applause indulged in. In tossing for choice Carroll was the winner, and Peel was sent on to dance first. He was attired in pink striped shirt, dark blue velvet knee breeches, white stockings and black pumps. Converse took his seat upon the upper part of the stage with one banjo by his side and another in his hands. All being ready, Converse struck up and Peel stepped out to the sound of the music. During the dancing a dog was very thoughtlessly permitted to make his way upon the stage and walk towards the dancer. The canine was called off, and again made his appearance. At the expiration of 10 minutes 4 seconds from the time the first step was taken, the last movement of the wind-up was given, and Peel retired amid a perfect storm of applause. Once during the dance, and while Peel was executing a very fine step, the people applauded, and that was the only time while the contest was in progress. Carroll and Converse then made their exit, and Mr. Carroll appeared with his banjo player, Mr. Ross. Carroll wore a dark blue shirt, trimmed, with lapels and collar thrown open, disclosing a white shirt underneath; long trousers of bright red, reaching to the ankle, around which they were tight, but somewhat loose upwards; white stockings and black pumps. Early in the dance he made one very bad break. As he progressed he executed some difficult steps. He appeared to labor more than Peel, and was apparently more distressed; towards the latter portion of the dance he revived by performing a side-step, going clear around the stage, moving the feet sideways, in and out. This was a sort of rest for him and enabled him to make a most capital wind-up, in which he performed some of the most novel, attractive and difficult steps of the match, surpassing in execution the most difficult exhibited by Peel. Like his predecessor, he was loudly applauded at the finish, the time occupied by him in actual dancing being eleven minutes sixteen seconds, a minute and more longer than Peel. Bob Hart then stated that the judges and referee would retire and render a verdict in five minutes. It seemed to be a conceded thing, however, that there could be no difficulty in deciding in Peel's favor, and when the judges appeared at the expiration of ten or fifteen minutes and announced that it would be impossible to give a decision, there and then much dissatisfaction was expressed, and a good many asserted that it was a "set thing," and that the crowd was sold, but upon Hart explaining the difficulties under which the judges labored in arriving at the true facts of the case, a better feeling prevailed. He said that there were points in dancing which the casual observer might not be able to detect, but which the judges and referee had been very particular in noting. It was stated that the decision should be made known on the morrow, and the audience dispersed. In about half an hour after, the judges and referee having been closeted that length of time, a decision was arrived at, which was that Peel was the winner of the match and the money. As both judges agreed that Peel was the winner, the referee was not appealed to. Robert Hart was judge for Carroll, Mr. Touzey judge for Peel, and John Landers referee. The following table will be interesting to all. The first column of figures denotes the number of steps made, while the second column shows the number of triple notes made with each foot, counting double, in music of 2-4 time. The single + between the columns of figures represents the step as having been well executed, while the double + + signify very well executed:

The finish of each separate dance was the best ever made in the experience of the judges.

HENRY D. TOUSEY
ROBERT HART.

There was much dissatisfaction on the part of Carroll, and he published a card offering to dance Peel a jig in private for $1,000, the best dancer to win the money; the most difficult steps and best time constituting the best dancer. Each party to select twelve friends to witness the contest. Peel replied to this and agreed to make the match. A meeting was held at THE CLIPPER office, May 12, but after much talk nothing was arrived at owing to a difference of opinion in reference to the points on which a jig dance should be decided. Carroll wanted style left out, while Peel wanted it included. The affair was finally settled by spreading themselves before a basket of wine. After this, sundry challenges and counter challenges were issued, but no more matches were made, and Tommy was fully recognized as the champion jig dancer of America.

Vaudeville Notes.

MR. AND MRS. WM. J. WELLS, character comedy sketch duo, are now in their fourth month with Haley's Vaudeville Co., playing through Idaho to fine business, making week stands and changing program nightly. They expect to go under canvas early in May.

ROSTER of Billy Ward's "Funny Folks" Minstrels and Old Plantation Shows, engaged for the Greater New England Show for the coming season, includes: H. Friedman and Harry Six, sole proprietors and managers; Billy Ward, stage manager and producer; "Tobey" Bolden, band master; "Cal" Jackson, orchestra leader; Joe Johnson, J. W. Lee, H. Thurman, F. Hansard, Wm. Washington, F. Cozzens, Eddie Hector, Irene Morman, Florence Hill, Lillian Williams, Roy White, Lucy Washington and Fridella Simonson. Their season opens May 3 at Ossining, N. Y.

ALICE C. LA MONT AND FRANK J. HURLEY, who have been appearing singly, have joined hands.

STICK DAVENPORT AND BESSIE made such a hit at the Great Northern Hippodrome, in Chicago, past two weeks, with their carrying act, that they were engaged for the third week, beginning 14.

MANAGER A. HAMERSLEY, of the Bijou, Hamilton, O., writes: "I had seven feet of water in my theatre and lost about $500. Consider I got off easy. Business houses lost from $1,000 to $25,000. I thank God I am alive and well."

NOTES from the Ricton Show.—We are out under canvas. Opened April 1, quite early, but the early bird company takes the worm. It happens in this case, anyway. It's windy and stormy, but big business rules. We don't put out the S. R. O., as we don't use it, but we are turning 'em away nightly just the same. For a small tent show, this one has no equal. We are near Tiffin and Dayton, O., where millions were lost and human lives sacrificed on account of the recent flood, but the water did not reach us or hurt our business. We look for a big season. THE CLIPPER comes late, but we wait anxiously for it, as did Noah for the dove to return to the Ark.

CHARLES HAMMOND recently closed a successful season of forty weeks with the Gladys Klark Co. He is now playing vaudeville for several weeks, opening at Howard Theatre, March 31.

Mrs. BILLY O'DAY (Katherine) has been left a $63,000 estate, and the O'Days expect to settle down shortly in their Ohio home.

WAGNER'S ALL STAR VAUDEVILLE CO.—"Lee Mitchell is in his eleventh week with this show. We are playing Ohio, Indiana and Pennsylvania, three nights and week stands, and changing the bill nightly. We are on the Liberty vaudeville time, and business is 'top-notch' everywhere. We have not had a losing week this Winter, and the money changes hands regularly every Saturday night, which keeps everybody with the smile on that won't come off." Fred Weigle is manager and principal comedian, and is a great favorite everywhere. We have a number of return dates, which speaks for itself. Fred Allison joined us last week, and is making good. We scramble for THE CLIPPER each week like a hungry tramp for a "hand-out."

FRED L. DEXTER AND MAHEL SHEARER have opened on the Goudron time, with the Northwest time to follow, under the management of Ray Merwin, of the Sullivan & Conside offices.

JOSEPHINE CAROLINE DOUGLAS, the three year old daughter of Elmer and Mayme Douglas, died March 24 at Clarks, Neb., from pneumonia.

J. BERNARD DYLLYN was fortunate to secure the return of his pocketbook, lost Sunday, 6, but it was not strange, as it was in the lodge rooms of No. 1 Elks. On April 7 Mr. Dyllin celebrated his birthday by a visit to the old St. James Church, in Jay Street, Brooklyn, where he was christened; also the old place in South Street where he was born, passing a pleasant day altogether.

WILLIAM STUART recently concluded a tour of twenty-four weeks for the W. V. M. A., and has joined Dare Austin's comedy duo, playing "His Wedding Morning."

"JIMMIE" THOMPSON, formerly of Foy and Thompson, is in New York, for the first trip in ten years, and will stop for a while, under the guidance of J. Bernard Dyllin.

PHILIP J. LEWIS, who recently closed with "The Iron Door" Co., intends to produce several of his own sketches this Summer. He has in preparation a one act playlet, entitled "The Test," in which Jules E. Carson will appear. Mr. Lewis will appear in one of his sketches.

JAMES LAVALL (the original Lavall) has engaged a new serial performer for his act, and writes that he will have, in a few weeks, a greater and better act than ever before. He will leave for California in a few weeks, and will sail for Europe in April, 1914.

CONROY AND MACK write: "We were not at Dayton during the flood, but at the Murray Theatre, Richmond, Ind., and got away safe and well. Played Star Theatre, Muncie, Ind., week of March 31. Have not heard of any vaudeville acts being lost."

THE Three Troupers, Briggs, Fulton and Roberts, are laying off owing to the illness of Mr. Briggs, who was taken to a hospital at Washington, Pa., April 2, suffering with appendicitis. He is on the road to recovery, and the act will resume their vaudeville bookings shortly.

Vaudeville Notes.

WARD & VOKES' COMPANY closed Saturday, April 19, after a short but very successful season. Sam Collins, Tony Williams and Chas. F. Tosty left immediately for New York. Hap Ward and Mrs. Lucy Daly and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Vokes left for Boston, to prepare for next season, and will open early in the Fall.

HYRON SLAUN'S OVERLAND SHOW will open May 3 at Millington, Ind., making its seventh season. All performers will be transported by automobiles.

HOWARD POWERS, for seven years with Gus Hill's attractions in a managerial capacity, has been re-engaged by the Loeffler & Bratton Co. to manage their Eastern "Newly-weds and Baby" Co. for the coming season. This will be his second season with the same attraction, which is booked in all the principal cities in this country, opening early in August.

World of Players.

MRS. JOHN B. WILLS mourns the loss of her mother, who died April 11, and leaves a family of ten, six in America (all in the profession) and four sons in England. Those in America are: Three Sisters Helston, now Mrs. John B. Wills, Gussy Arlington, of Arlington and Helston, and Mrs. Howard D. Argoe. The sons are: Wally Helston, comedian; Charlie Helston, comedian, and Ralph Helston, comedian. Sons in England are: Bertram, Ernest, William and George. Chas. Ellis, father of the Helston family, survives his wife. She was sixty-six years of age, and known by many professionals. Interment was at Evergreens, April 14, from her home at 12 Elmwood Street, Woodhaven, N. Y. She was laid by the side of her son-in-law, John B. Wills, who died six weeks ago.

BEVIS, PADEN AND REAS, who have been presenting "The Last Day of School" over the small time, have split. Tom Collins, of the old Collins and Castle act, has been engaged, and a trio act will continue. Mr. Paden has received offers for burlesque for next season, and it is likely he will be seen offering his character impersonation, "Ignatz Doblitzky," and his clever Hebrew bit.

JEANETTE D'ARVILLE, cornetiste and dancer, has bought a fifteen room house, handsomely furnished, at 4645 Guy Street, opposite His Majesty's Theatre, in Montreal, Can., and all rooms are rented. Miss D'Arville will remain in Montreal until everything is settled, and will be pleased to hear from her friends while playing the king's country.

MUSICAL WALKER will close his engagement with John E. Murphy's Steel Pier Minstrels April 23, at Chattanooga, Tenn., and jump to Clarksburg, W. Va., to join Ringling Bros. "Kid Show."

LAOLA BLAISDELL, who is appearing in the novelty offering, "Visions La Flame," on the Loew time, possesses a phenomenal soprano voice and a tenor voice of striking excellence. Miss Blaisdell with her voice alone attracts universal attention.

WALLACE R. CUTLER, who has been in advance of Paul J. Rinley's African hunt pictures, has returned to New York, and will look after the interest of "Visions La Flame."

FILESTON BRYCE is featuring his new act, "Old Black Joe's Temptation," through the West.

JOE AND MAUD LASCELLE have canceled all vaudeville dates, to go with Ringling Bros. Show. They open at the Coliseum, in Chicago, 5.

WESLEY AND FRANCIS recently closed a successful season of twenty-five weeks on Canadian vaudeville circuit, and have returned to their farm near Rochester, N. Y., for the Summer. They are contemplating a trip to England in the Fall, opening in October.

MONA WYNNIE, of the team of Hayes and Wynne, mourns the death of her father, John Wynne, who died in New York City, April 6.

JEANETTE DUPRE arrived in New York, April 18. She will open on the U. B. O. time 27, after which she will return to London, to open July 7, for twelve weeks.

NOTICE.

HALF TONE PICTURES in the reading pages of THE CLIPPER will be inserted at these prices:

WILL C. DAVIS writes: "I was called home March 3, by a telegram informing me of the sudden death of my father."

"MUTT AND JEFF IN PANAMA."

Gus Hill has had a new book written for "Mutt and Jeff" for next season, entitled "Mutt and Jeff in Panama." It is by Bud Fisher and Owen Davis, with lyrics by D. B. Cobb, and music by Leo Edwards, and is a musical comedy drama with sensational effects. It will be tried out during the latter part of April.

"Mutt and Jeff" has been an enormous repeater, having played to larger receipts in almost every section of the country, than the first season.

MARION SHERWOOD.

Marion Sherwood has just closed her second successful season in "The Thief," and is rejoicing in the prospects of a new play for next season. She will remain under the management of C. S. Primrose and be starred in an elaborate production of "The Spendthrift." Mr. Primrose has already booked a season of forty-five weeks in the larger Western cities, where Miss Sherwood has made many friends.

THEATRE CLUB EATS.

The New York Theatre Club held its annual luncheon Tuesday afternoon, April 15, at the Hotel Astor, at which over four hundred members and guests were present. Mrs. Sara M. Foster was chairman of the day.

Mrs. Belle De Rivera, president of the club, read an address of welcome; A. E. Anson, who spoke on "The Audience;" Edmund Breese spoke on "The Play;" Brandon Tynan spoke on "Ideals of the Stage;" and John Corbin spoke on "The Drama League."

"LIVES OF THE PLAYERS."

The first of a series of books under this head, by William Winter, has been issued from the press of Moffat, Yard & Co., New York. For his initial book Mr. Winter has chosen as his subject Tyrone Power, because, as the author says, "his life has been one of exceptionally interesting adventure in some respects as romantic as that of Edmund Kean," and also because I believe him to be one of the actors of this transitional period who especially deserve to be cheered, encouraged and celebrated.

Mr. Winter has treated his subject from the earliest experiences of Mr. Power's professional career up to the present, giving his various portrayals that critical analysis which this dean of American dramatic critics is so capable of giving.

The work is a scholarly treatise of an actor who has, by hard work and perseverance, won enviable distinction in the dramatic hall of fame, with every promise that his zenith has not yet been attained.

The book is profusely illustrated, Mr. Power being pictorially shown in twelve widely different characters. Other illustrations are of some of those with whom Mr. Power has been associated. There is also a chronology of the professional life of this actor from the time of his debut in 1886 up to the present.

HILL-DONALDSON NOTES.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter O. Hill (Alice Donaldson) who for the past four years have been so successful with their companies, Hill-Donaldson Stock Co., and the Hill Comedy Co., playing over Mr. Hill's circuit of theatres, will open again on May 30, after laying off for Lent.

Mr. and Mrs. Hill have been in Boston, where they were called owing to the illness of Mr. Hill's mother. She has greatly improved, however, and for the past two weeks they have been taking a flyer in vaudeville, around Boston. After a two weeks' trip to Bermuda Mr. and Mrs. Hill will return to New York and get things in shape for their opening on Long Island.

CAST FOR "ARIZONA."

For the principal roles in Augustus Thomas' play, "Arizona," which will be revived at the Lyric Theatre following the engagement of "Rosedale," the author, the Messrs. Shubert and Wm. A. Brady have engaged some of those who played in the original company. The cast will include: Elsie Ferguson, William Farnum, Dustin Farnum, Chrystal Hume, Oliver Doud Byron, Vincent Serrano, Walter Hale, John Herne, Rapley Holmes, Emily Callaway, Marjorie Ellerbeck, George O'Donnell, J. W. Hartman, Bertram Block and Harry S. Hadfield.

TWENTIETH ANNIVERSARY.

Adolph Adams celebrated the twentieth anniversary of his appearance in vaudeville, last week by playing at Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre, New York, where twenty years ago last week he began his vaudeville career. The old program was displayed in the lobby. It also included Campanini, Master Carter, Jim Morton, Barney Gilmore, and Alf. Grant.

FOUNTAIN AFTER ACTS.

Lester J. Fountain, booking representative of the Portola Lounge, San Francisco, was in New York the past two weeks looking over the field of cabaret attractions, a number of which he has tentatively secured. He left for Rochester, N. Y., April 17, en route for Los Angeles and San Francisco.
